U.S. Incited Assassination Plots

CHURCH . . . releases committee report. UPI

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials instigated at least eight schemes to kill Fidel Castro and one to murder Patrice Lumumba using assassination devices ranging from poison to explosives to high-powered rifled, the Senate intelligence committee reported Thursday.

The U S government also was "implicated" in the 1961 assassination of Dominican dictator Rafael Trujillo and was aware of plots against South Vietnamese president Ngo Dinh Diem and Chilean army chief Rene Schneider in which "the risk of death" existed, the committee said.

The 11-member panel haded by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, also said it came across "evidence of CIA involvement in plans to assassinate President Sukarno of Indonesa and 'Papa Doc' Duvalier of Haiti." Assassination plots against Castro "sometimes contemplated action against Raul Castro and Che Guevara" as well, the committee found.

Of the leaders mentioned, only the Castro brothers are still alive. However, the committee concluded that "no foreign leaders were killed as a result of assassination plots initiated by officials of the United States "

The committee sharply condemned the use of assassination, except in wartime, as "incompatible with American principles, international order and morality." It called on Congress to pass a law banning its use as an instrument of national policy.

The report stated that there was enough evidence "to permit a reasonable inference that the (1960) plot to assassinate Lumumba was authorized by President Eisenhower" but it stopped short of a final conclusion. The committee also said that "there was insufficient evidence" that President Eisenhower, Kennedy or Johnson or any of their close advisers authorized the assassination of Castro.

The committee said it could find no other evidence that a president had authorized U.S participation in an assassination. However, the committee held out the possibility that various presidents may have purposely obscured their involvement in assassinations.

Regardless of whether or not presidents knew of the plots, "as chief executive officer of the United States, each must bear the ultimate responsibility for the activities of his subordinates," the committee added.

The 346-page report, fruit of a still-incomplete, six-month investigation, was released by the committee after the Senate refused to accede to a vigorous campaign by the Ford administration to have it kept secret. President Ford wrote Senate leaders Thursday that publication would not be in the national interest.

The committee "found concrete evidence of at least eight plots involving the CIA to assassinate Fidel Castro from 1960 to 1965" using a variety of devices which "ran the gamut from high-powered rifles to poison pills, poison pens, deadly bacterial powders and other devices which strain the imagination " Although some of the plots against Castro "did not advance beyond the stage of planning and preparation, one plot, involving the use of underworld figures reportedly twice progressed to the point of sending poison pills to Cuba and dispatching teams to commit the deed," the report said.

"The most ironic of these plots took place on Nov. 22, 1963 — the very day that President Kennedy was shot in Dallas — when a CIA official offered a poison pen to a Cuban for use against Castro while at the same time an emissary from President Kennedy was meeting with Castro to explore the possibility of improved relations," the report said

The committee's outline of the plot to poison Congolese leader Lumumba in 1960 states that "it is likely that President Eisenhower's expression of strong concern about Lumumba at a meeting of the National Security Council on August 19, 1960, was taken by (then CIA director) Allen Dulles as authority to assassinate Lumumba "

Poison in the form of "toxic biological materials" was subsequently transferred to a CIA agent in Leopoldville, accompanied by two messages signed by Dulles urging the "elimination" of Lumumba The toxic substances were never used, however, and there is no "connection between the assassination plot and the events which actually led to Lumumba's death," the committee said.

In 1961, the CIA supplied weapons to local dissidents in the Dominican Republic, knowing "that the dissidents intended to overthrow Trujillo probaby by assassination," according to the report The day before Trujillo was gunned down on May 30, 1961, a cable "personally authorized by President Kennedy" stated that the United States as a matter of policy, could not condone assassination, but at the same time indicated the United States continued to support the dissidents.

Immediately after the assassination, a series of high-level meetings attended by President Kennedy, then Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and other top officials "attempted to ascertain the facts concerning the degree of United States involvement in the assassination."

"There is no indication or suggestion contained in the record of those post-assassination meetings of concern as to the propriety of the known United States involvement in the assassination," the committee said.

With respect to South Vietnamese president Diem, the committee said that although it found evidence that the United States encouraged the coup which toppled him in November 1963, the U.S. government "neither desired nor was involved in the assassinations" of Diem and his brother Ngo Dinh Diem

In 1970, President Nixon instructed the CIA "to play a direct role in organizing a military coup d'etat in Chile to prevent" Marxist Salvadore Allende from coming to power

"Even though the support included weapons, it appears that the intention of both the dissidents and the United States officials was to abduct Gen. Schneider, not to kill him," the report concluded.

The report noted that Ford, CIA director William E Colby and former director Richard Helms have issued orders banning assassination, but said "a law is needed" and recommended statutes which would make assassination subject to the same penalties as murder

Most Of State Digging Out

A giant late autumn blizzard moved slowly northeastward out of Nebraska late Thursday, leaving all but the southeast part of the state with clogged highways, stranded motorists and snow depths of up to 10 and 12 inches

Strong northerly winds gusting to 50 and 60 miles an hour continued to blast the eastern half of the state Thursday night, making it impossible for snowplow crews to keep the highways open.

The storm charged into western and southwestern Nebraska early Wednesday, bringing an end to the state's unusually warm and extremely dry fall weather. During the night and early Thursday, the storm moved northeastward, blasting Grand Island, Norfolk and Wayne along its path.

Up To 78 Miles An Hour

Winds at Norfolk were clocked up to 78 miles per hour early Thursday, whipping its seven-inch snowfall into five-foot drifts and blocking all roads in the area. At least two plate glass windows were broken and an awning was knocked down by the winds there.

Snowfall ranged up to 12 inches on the ground in the Hayes Center, Dunning, Oakdale and Elgin areas. Arthur reported nine inches while Holdrege received eight inches.

Grand Island, Randolph, North Loup, Chappell and Brownlee had seven inches of snow on the ground.

Five men from the Lincoln area were among about 25 motorists rescued late Thursday afternoon from snowdrifts along Nebraska 2 between Anselmo and Dunning.

On their way home from the Nebraska Wheat Growers convention in Sidney, the five-some became stalled seven miles east of Dunning and spent about 24 hours in their car before a snowplow freed them.

The men were identified as Kenneth Hobbie of Lincoln, chief of the wheat division of the Nebraska Department of Agriculture; Marx Koehnke of Lincoln, also on the staff of the State Department of Agriculture; Robert Pearson of Plymouth, member of the State Wheat Advisory Committee, and Albert Franke Sr. and Albert Franke Jr , both of Walton. All were reported in good condition.

A North Platte surgeon, Dr. Max Raines, was rescued by a rancher between Broken Bow and Arnold Thursday afternoon Dr. Raines had been missing since Wednesday afternoon, when he left Broken Bow on a trip to Arnold and Gothenburg. He spent the night in his car after he became stuck in the snow.

Authorities continued to search Thursday for a missing Fremont insurance man identified as Paul Mussack. He reportedly left Stapleton for Valentine Wednesday.

A Norfolk family of five, Don Kurpgeweit, his wife and three children, were reported missing on a trip from Norfolk to Hartington. The family left Norfolk Wednesday afternoon.

At Hastings, where eight inches of snow created four to six-foot drifts, Ira Wierenga was missing through the night Wednesday. Officials said he left his home to check some cattle near Prosser and took refuge at a farm home when the storm intensified

A State Patrol dispatcher at Grand Island said plows tried to open roads early Thursday, but were called in due to the high winds.

Cluttered with stalled cars and jack knifed trucks, Interstate 80 was virtually closed to all traffic in the area, the dispatcher said

Most schools in the snowbound area were closed Thursday and many planned to remain closed Friday

Wayne State and Kearney State Colleges closed until Monday, and Wayne officials were looking for food to feed students housed in dormitories

Cattle Stage Walkout

A Grand Island cattleman, Tom Baxter, said several hundred head of his cattle walked over feedyard fences and scattered over a two and one-half mile area

The Nebraska Department of Roads said highways and roads were closed Thursday night east of a line from Chappell to Oshkosh to Valentine and west of a line from Fairbury to Fremont to Decatur in northeast Nebraska.

A Burwell teenager, Ron Dearmont, reportedly took a horse and sleigh about 30 miles Wednesday night to rescue a stranded family of five northeast of Burwell

A woman on a farm near Madison was forced to have her baby at home when plows Thursday couldn't reach the farm to take her to the hospital.

Milton Thulin, the owner of the Oxford Hatchery at Oxford, said he lost about 90% of his 11,000-bird turkey flock when they smothered in snow drifts.

Thone To Seek Iowa Beef Probe

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

First District Republican Congressman Charles Thone said Thursday he plans to call for a "thorough" and "high-level" investigation of Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., and its hiring of Walter Bodenstein.

Bodenstein, a New York attorney, is the new group vice president of Iowa Beef and son-in-law of Moe Steinman, who allegedly has Mafia connections.

In a telephone interview from his Arlington, Va., home, Thone said he visited Thursday with several members of the House Agriculture Committee and "it was the consensus something should be done."

He said a lawyer on the committee's staff is compiling background information on Bodenstein, Steinman and the 194 bribery conspiracy cases involving Iowa Beef's chairman, Currier Holman.

Conspiracy Charged

Steinman was charged with conspiring with Holman to bring the company's boxed beef into New York, in a scheme in which Steinman allegedly promised labor peace in return for payoffs

Holman was convicted of conspiring to bribe union officials and supermarket executives and the corporation was fined $7,000.

Based on court records, Thone said, "over $900,000 was paid in one year to get (Iowa Beef's) boxed beef into the New York market.

"That money came out of the pockets of producers in Nebraska and consumers in New York. This is conduct we just can't tolerate."

Thone said he will demand a "full explanation" of how Steinman's son-in-law "ended up in a key executive position at Iowa Beef.

'Wrong, Wrong, Wrong'

"It just doesn't look right to me," he said. "This entire brazen matter has got to be aerated at a high level It's just wrong, wrong, wrong "

The Nebraska congressman said he would propose a full-scale probe into graft and corruption in the meat industry, particularly at Iowa Beef, during the next full meeting of the House Agriculture Committee, scheduled for Dec 1 or 2

Thone said the U.S Justice Department may become involved, but noted that a congressional committee "would have more leeway "

Holman and other Iowa Beef executives were unavailable for comment, personnel at the plant said

Informed sources in Sioux City said Bodenstein had arrived in Dakota City but refused to be interviewed.

Meanwhile, Iowa Beef Processors stock trading remained closed for a second day Thursday It closed Tuesday at $26⅝ and the New York Stock Exchange stopped trading the stock Wednesday when bids were running as low as $17.

Iowa Beef stock has ranged this year from $34⅝ to $12¼. Earnings for the nine-month period ending in July were $5.52 a share, compared to $4.29 for the period last year.

Headquartered in Dakota City, Iowa Beef has processing plants in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Texas and is the largest independent meat packing company in the United States The firm last year reported $1 5 billion in sales, up 8 1% from the previous year

State Sales Tax Hike Next In Line

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

It's the sales tax next time

State Tax Commissioner Bill Peters Thursday warned that a large state budget increase next year could trigger the first state sales tax hike since 1970.

"The next time taxes increase, it will be the sales tax," Peters noted.

The personal income tax rate, boosted from 12% to 15% beginning Jan 1, is now as high as it can go without bumping the state sales tax rate above its current 2½%, he pointed out.

State law requires the Board of Equalization to balance as nearly as possible the revenue raised by personal income taxes and by sales taxes.

Peters told a Lancaster County Democratic luncheon audience that he can guarantee the 1976 rates of 15% and 2½% only for "a couple of months" into the next calendar year.

Under a new state law, he said, the board can meet any month, beginning next January, to adjust rates The new statute provides that the board may meet to change rates when cumulative receipts for the year are at any time less than 90% of the projected income

(Conversely, the board could meet to reduce tax rates whenever cumulative receipts exceed projected income by more than 10%.)

In any event, the board will meet next spring after adjournment of the 60-day session of the 1976 Legislature

"If budgets go up by real big amounts," Peters said, the 1976 tax rates established by the board this month may not hold true for the year.

While it is true that the sales tax must be boosted if the board has to adjust tax rates, Peters noted, the Legislature itself could increase the income tax rate without disturbing the sales tax levy. The requirement for balancing revenue does not apply to the Legislature.

But the Unicameral, in its recent special session, once again rejected a proposal that it take permanent responsibility for establishing tax rates, Peters pointed out.

If the Legislature and the majority of the Board of Equalization continue to refuse to match revenue with spending, Peters said, "there's a good likelihood" of recurring problems in the state treasury.

Twice, he noted, the Republican majority on the board reduced tax rates below the Exon administration's recommended levels. And earlier this year, it was the Legislature which established the 1975 maximum personal income tax rate at 12% when the administration said 13% was needed, he said

At least, after the special session, Peters said, he believes "10 to 12 senators (there are 49) now understand our tax rate-setting system "

The system is "screwed up" and "rather complicated," he said

While a reasonable balance is needed to operate state government efficiently, Peters said, he is fearful that there would be "a rush to spend it" if the state accumulated "a big pool of money "

Bishops Plan Pro-Life Units

©The New York Times

Washington — The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States significantly stepped up Thursday the church's fight against abortion by approving a plan to create nonsectarian pro-life groups in every congressional district.

The groups would be "mobilized" to persuade members of Congress to vote in favor of a constitutional amendment aimed at ending permissive abortions. They would function in tandem with existing pro-life organizations in the church's various dioceses.

Heretofore, Roman Catholic efforts to fight abortion have depended for the most part on public pronouncements rather than on a highly organized action program.

The bishops' "pastoral plan for pro-life activities" came out of a committee headed by Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York. It was adopted during the final hours of the four-day annual meeting here of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, along with a statement on Jewish-Christian relations and a pastoral letter on the country's housing crisis

Persuasion is part of the democratic process, the plan declared, and added:

"Essentially this effort demands ongoing public information activity and careful and detailed organization. Thus it is absolutely necessary to encourage the development in each congressional district of an identifiable, tightly knit and well organized pro-life unit This unit can be described as a public interest group or a citizens lobby. No matter what it is called, its task is essentially political."

The plan made it clear that these units would differ from the "pedagogic and motivational" tasks of the diocesan pro-life groups and would not be operated, controlled or financed by the church. Church people, however, would be instrumental in getting the plan off the ground.

12,000 Rural Post Offices To Be Closed

Washington (UPI) — The Postal Service Thursday announced that as part of a stringest cost-cutting program it will close some of the estimated 12,000 small rural post offices that do not pay thier own way.

"We are by no means launching a wholesale, arbitrary program to shut down post offices," Postmaster General Benjamin F Bailar said. "Proper and thoughtful consideration will be given to each individual case."

Bailar said other economies he has ordered include reassigning excess employes to places where they are needed, "severe curtailment" of overtime and a moratorium on hiring new permanent employes.

Thone To Seek Iowa Beef Probe

First District Republican Congressman Charles Thone said Thursday he plans to call for a "thorough" and "high-level" investigation of Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., and its hiring of Walter Bodenstein.

Bodenstein, a New York attorney, is the new group vice president of Iowa Beef and son-in-law of Moe Steinman, who allegedly has Mafia connections.

He said a lawyer on the committee's staff is compiling background information on Bodenstein, Steinman and the 194 bribery conspiracy cases involving Iowa Beef's chairman, Currier Holman.

Steinman was charged with conspiring with Holman to bring the company's boxed beef into New York, in a scheme in which Steinman allegedly promised labor peace in return for payoffs.

Holman was convicted of conspiring to bribe union officials and supermarket executives and the corporation was fined $7,000.

Based on court records, Thone said, "over $900,000 was paid in one year to get (Iowa Beef's) boxed beef into the New York market.

Thone said the U.S. Justice Department may become involved, but noted that a congressional committee "would have more leeway."

Holman and other Iowa Beef executives were unavailable for comment, personnel at the plant said.

Informed sources in Sioux City said Bodenstein had arrived in Dakota City but refused to be interviewed.

Meanwhile, Iowa Beef Processors stock trading remained closed for a second day Thursday It closed Tuesday at $26⅝ and the New York Stock Exchange stopped trading the stock Wednesday when bids were running as low as $17.

Iowa Beef stock has ranged this year from $34⅝ to $12¼. Earnings for the nine-month period ending in July were $5.52 a share, compared to $4.29 for the period last year.

Headquartered in Dakota City, Iowa Beef has processing plants in Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas and Texas and is the largest independent meat packing company in the United States. The firm last year reported $1.5 billion in sales, up 8.1% from the previous year.

State Sales Tax Hike Next In Line

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

It's the sales tax next time.

State Tax Commissioner Bill Peters Thursday warned that a large state budget increase next year could trigger the first state sales tax hike since 1970.

"The next time taxes increase, it will be the sales tax," Peters noted.

The personal income tax rate, boosted from 12% to 15% beginning Jan. 1, is now as high as it can go without bumping the state sales tax rate above its current 2½%, he pointed out.

State law requires the Board of Equalization to balance as nearly as possible the revenue raised by personal income taxes and by sales taxes.

Peters told a Lancaster County Democratic luncheon audience that he can guarantee the 1976 rates of 15% and 2½% only for "a couple of months" into the next calendar year.

Under a new state law, he said, the board can meet any month, beginning next January, to adjust rates. The new statute provides that the board may meet to change rates when cumulative receipts for the year are at any time less than 90% of the projected income.

(Conversely, the board could meet to reduce tax rates whenever cumulative receipts exceed projected income by more than 10%.)

In any event, the board will meet next spring after adjournment of the 60-day session of the 1976 Legislature.

"If budgets go up by real big amounts," Peters said, the 1976 tax rates established by the board this month may not hold true for the year.

While it is true that the sales tax must be boosted if the board has to adjust tax rates, Peters noted, the Legislature itself could increase the income tax rate without disturbing the sales tax levy. The requirement for balancing revenue does not apply to the Legislature.

But the Unicameral, in its recent special session, once again rejected a proposal that it take permanent responsibility for establishing tax rates, Peters pointed out.

If the Legislature and the majority of the Board of Equalization continue to refuse to match revenue with spending, Peters said, "there's a good likelihood" of recurring problems in the state treasury.

Twice, he noted, the Republican majority on the board reduced tax rates below the Exon administration's recommended levels. And earlier ths year, it was the Legislature which established the 1975 maximum personal income tax rate at 12% when the administration said 13% was needed, he said.

At least, after the special session, Peters said, he believes "10 to 12 senators (there are 49) now understand our tax rate-setting system."

The system is "screwed up" and "rather complicated," he said.

While a reasonable balance is needed to operate state government efficiently, Peters said, he is fearful that there would be "a rush to spend it" if the state accumulated "a big pool of money."

12,000 Rural Post Offices To Be Closed

Washington (UPI) — The Postal Service Thursday announced that as part of a stringest cost-cutting program it will close some of the estimated 12,000 small rural post offices that do not pay thier own way.

"We are by no means launching a wholesale, arbitrary program to shut down post offices," Postmaster General Benjamin F Bailar said. "Proper and thoughtful consideration will be given to each individual case."

Bailar said other economies he has ordered include reassigning excess employes to places where they are needed, "severe curtailment" of overtime and a moratorium on hiring new permanent employes.

Bishops Plan Pro-Life Units

©The New York Times

Washington — The Roman Catholic bishops of the United States significantly stepped up Thursday the church's fight against abortion by approving a plan to create nonsectarian pro-life groups in every congressional district.

The groups would be "mobilized" to persuade members of Congress to vote in favor of a constitutional amendment aimed at ending permissive abortions. They would function in tandem with existing pro-life organizations in the church's various dioceses.

Heretofore, Roman Catholic efforts to fight abortion have depended for the most part on public pronouncements rather than on a highly organized action program.

The bishops' "pastoral plan for pro-life activities" came out of a committee headed by Terence Cardinal Cooke of New York. It was adopted during the final hours of the four-day annual meeting here of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops, along with a statement on Jewish-Christian relations and a pastoral letter on the country's housing crisis.

Persuasion is part of the democratic process, the plan declared, and added:

"Essentially this effort demands ongoing public information activity and careful and detailed organization. Thus it is absolutely necessary to encourage the development in each congressional district of an identifiable, tightly knit and well organized pro-life unit. This unit can be described as a public interest group or a citizens lobby. No matter what it is called, its task is essentially political."

The plan made it clear that these units would differ from the "pedagogic and motivational" tasks of the diocesan pro-life groups and would not be operated, controlled or financed by the church. Church people, however, would be instrumental in getting the plan off the ground.

Fan Found Arm

The Iowa State football fan who sort of fell apart Saturday night when he ran into refreshments as stiff as the Big Red defense has pulled himself together.

Following last Saturday's clobbering of the Iowa State football team by Nebraska University, 52-0, the man toured downtown Lincoln's bars and lost his billfold with $250 and his artificial arm, worth $500.

The billfold was recovered quickly by police.

And the man, a resident of Boone, Iowa, told The Star today that he found his arm outside the motel at which he stayed. "It got dropped," the man said, and he didn't want to discuss the matter any further.

Reagan Encounters Man With Toy Pistol

MIAMI (AP) — Ronald Reagan announced his Republican presidential candidacy Thursday, and then encountered a man wielding a toy pistol as he shook hands after the first rally of his campaign.

Secret Service agents grabbed the man, and hustled Reagan away, apparently unshaken.

The Secret Service identified the man as Michael Lance Carvin, 20, of Pompano, Fla.

Agents had been guarding Reagan for only half a day when the incident occurred at a motel near the Miami airport.

The man was questioned by agents at the hotel, then taken to Secret Service headquarters in downtown Miami, a Reagan spokesman said.

Bob Newbrand, special agent in charge of the local Secret Service office, said Carvin was charged with intimidating a presidential candidate and with assaulting a federal officer.

The Secret Service in Washington said what had appeared to be a weapon was a toy, a plastic replica of a .45 caliber pistol

Reagan flew to Miami after formally announcing his White House candidacy in Washington — the city where, he said, many of the nation's woes are being generated by a federal government that is too big but "powerless to solve problems anymore"

That was the theme of his Miami speech to about 400 supporters in the ballroom of the Ramada Inn.

Reagan . . . after he announces his candidacy.

He had just finished and was shaking hands when the youth pulled what appeared to be a weapon. The assailant was thrown to the floor by security men and bystanders

Reagan was pulled away from the assailant by Secret Service agents and, in the process, dragged to the ground momentarily. But he was smiling and did not appear shaken when agents led him upstairs to a motel room.

"I feel fine," said the 64-year-old former governor of California.

"I hope it doesn't happen again," said Reagan's wife, Nancy "I think you always have to keep it in the back of your mind"

Reagan was receiving Secret Service protection as a presidential candidate under a security system that was put into effect after President Ford was confronted twice by gun-wielding women, in Sacramento and San Francisco, during September.

As he began the active phase of his challenge to President Ford, Reagan said he will carry his conservative message "as far and as wide as I can," seeking to woo the 40% of the electorate "now disenchanted with both parties."

Reagan declined in announcing his candidacy to criticize Ford directly, declaring his own ideas are "in the mainstream of the thinking of the people of this country." He said he had dismissed in his own mind the prospect of being knocked from the GOP race in early primaries.

After his speeches to rallies in Miami and Manchester, N.H., the onetime movie star planned to head Friday for Charlotte, N.C., and Chicago before a "homecoming celebration" rally at the Hollywood-Burbank Airport outside Los Angeles.

His forces are already organized for major efforts in GOP primaries in New Hampshire Feb. 24, Florida March 9, Illinois March 16 and North Carolina March 23.

Reagan said he would either campaign in or be represented in all 30 GOP primaries. He declined to predict victory but merely said that wherever he runs, "I'm just going to do my best to win."

In his four-minute announcement, Reagan said, "our nation needs to embark on a new constructive course" and added he believes the battle against Ford "will be healthy" for the GOP and the country.

He made it clear he will build his campaign around a challenge to a federal government that he charged has become "more intrusive, more coercive, more meddlesome and less effective" in dealing with the energy problem and a weakening defense

"In my opinion," Reagan declared, "the root of these problems lies right here — in Washington, D C. Our nation's capital has become the seat of a 'buddy' system that functions for its own benefit — increasingly insensitive to the needs of the American worker who supports it with his taxes."

And he said "it is difficult to find leaders who are independent of the forces that have brought us to our problems — the Congress, the bureaucracy, the lobbyists, big business and big labor."

Reagan Stirs Few In Blustery Lincoln

By WES ALBERS
Star Staff Writer

On a cold, winter day before a big football game, presidential politics — particularly Ronald Reagan's candidacy — was the farthest thing from many Lincolnites' minds.

But the opinions that were expressed might interest the former California governor.

The majority of those interviewed downtown on a blustery Thursday said they were undecided about Reagan or any other candidate. Predictably, some strongly welcomed his candidacy, while others were just as strongly against him.

"I can't conceive of Ronald Reagan as being president of the United States. It just doesn't seem like it could happen," said Tim Busing of 1134 Hill, a registered Democrat.

"I'm waiting to see what the choices are. I can't conceive of Gerald Ford being re-elected, either. If the Republican Party gets more than 30% of the vote, it'll be hard to understand."

Busing, a Mid-America Webpress employe, said a Reagan-Hubert Humphrey presidential race would mean "the two most diverse poles of 1964 politics would be running against each other in 1976 — really odd. I can't say I'm a fan of 1964 politics."

Mrs. Zelma Lutz of 1425 Ridgeway Rd., a Republican, said competition between Ford and Reagan for the Republican nomination is "great" but was undecided about either candidate.

"I'm not sure about Ford — maybe because of the way he got into office. Reagan maybe has more forceful ideas," she said.

"I've kind of liked him in the past," said Fred Winkenwerder of 631 Gaslight Lane. "It just seems like he's managed the business and affairs of the state (California) with better control."

But, the Goodyear employe said, "this last affair (Watergate) is going to make people take a lot more notice of the people they're talking about (for president.)"

"I really don't know much about him," Mrs. Winkenwerder said. "It just seems like all these people promise things and then they get in and people are sorry."

William R. Delaney of 1845 S. 47th, a Nebraska Penal Complex employe, said he probably prefers Reagan to Ford but added that "I can't think of one (candidate) that's really worth a damn.

"We need some forceful leaders, someone who is strong enough to run the country."

Then there was the man who didn't want to be identified.

Q. Ronald Reagan said today he would run for president —

A. I heard he kind of wanted to.

Q. What do you think of him?

A. I've had some pretty good reports, yes sir.

Q. What about him appeals to you?

A. Well, he's been a movie star. I've always liked him in that respect.

Q. Will that help him as president?

A. Oh, well . . . I kind of think acting and being president is two different things, don't you?

Cost Of Living Rises 0.7%

Washington (AP) — Higher grocery bills led a 0.7% rise in consumer prices in October, the third sharpest monthly increase this year, the Labor Department reporteds Thursday.

The report showed that while price increases have accelerated since August, the over-all inflation rate remains substantially below levels of a year ago.

Retail prices over the past 12 months were up 7.6%, the smallest annual increase in two years.

Prices so far this year have increased 5.9%.

James L. Pate, the Commerce Department's chief economist, said October's increase was "slightly higher than what I consider to be the basic rate of inflation of about 6 to 7%." But he forecase a moderation in food prices next month and said inflation is expected to drop to a rate of about 5% by the end of 1976.

A rate of 5 to 7% is high by historical standards but would be a considerable improvement over last year's record, when prices rose 12.2%.

In other economic news, the government reported that corporate profits after taxes showed the biggest quarterly increase in 25 years for the quarter ending in September. The increase was $11 9 billion, or 16.9% over the previous quarter.

Revised government figures also showed that in the third quarter the nation's total output recorded the largest quarterly increase in 25 years. The Gross National Product, total output of goods and services, recorded a 13.2% annual rate of growth in the third quarter instead of the 11.2% increase estimated a month ago.

Also, on the housing industry, Donald M. Kaplan, director of the office of economic research of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, reported a consensus of experts that housing starts will range from 1.4 million to 1.65 million units in 1976, compared with 1.15 million in 1975.

The Labor Department said consumers paid higher prices in October for clothing, new cars, fuel oil, mortgage interest rates, auto insurance and food, particularly meats, dairy products and coffee.

In October, the consumer price index stood at 164.6, meaning that it cost $164.60 to buy the same variety of goods and services which sold for $100 in the 1967 base period.

In a separate report, the government said that the after-tax purchasing power of workers' paychecks was unchanged in October, largely because of a rise in hourly earnings and hours worked. But workers' buying power over the year was up 1.9%, due almost entirely to the May reduction in federal income tax rates.

Series Of Measures Announced

Washington — President Ford announced Thursday a series of measures that will be taken to protect American citizens and businesses against discrimination resulting from a foreign boycott. Administration officials said the regulations were intended primarily to protect American Jews who may be the object of an Arab boycott. The regulations would penalize exporters who refuse to deal with Jewish suppliers at the demand of Arab customers, or banks that refuse credit to Jews in favor of deposits by Arabs. They do not in any way, however, block an American business from complying with the Arab boycott of Israel.

3,000 Cubans Sent To Angola

Washington — U.S. officials said Cuba had sent 3,000 fighting men and advisers to Angola, to which the Soviet Union has shipped large quantities of arms in recent weeks in support of the Popular Movement for th Liberation of Angola. But they said MPLA forces are still "on the defensive."

Cabinet's Dismissal Demanded

Lisbon — A huge crowd of Communist-led workers massed in front of the presidential palace Thursday and demanded the dismissal of the centrist-left cabinet and the formation of a left-wing revolutionary government. The demonstration was called in response to the cabinet's decision early Thursday morning to suspend its activities until it received the military support necessary to establish its authority.

LTS Board Scrutinizes Bus Management Plan

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln bus planners want to take a closer look at a proposed contract with a bus management firm before sinking in $83,000 to hire such a service.

The Lincoln Transportation System (LTS) Board Thursday authorized board member Ross Martin and Finance Director Jim Mallon to find out just exactly what the city would get for its money.

A Cincinnati-based company said it will ship in a bus manager and a director of operations planning for $83,000 a year. A three-year contract is proposed. Without the director of operations, it would cost LTS $62,000 a year.

Under such an agreement, the ATE Management and Service Co. would provide leadership and unnamed services from its central office. LTS board members said about $30,000 of the money would go for a management fee.

Applicants Unqualified

LTS Board members are considering hiring a firm to run the municipal bus operation partially because the city hasn't been approached by any qualified applicants for the manager's job. The city also has not always been pleased with the operation of LTS under the past two managers.

Board member John Alden said the Cincinnati firm is highly regarded in bus management circles. The company provides management services to 26 other cities.

In a letter to the board, ATE Senior Vice President Houston Ishmael urged the larger $83,000 package.

Ishmael contended that Lincoln needs to have a director of operations planning because "of the intense day to day organizational planning requirements now imposed" on bus companies.

If LTS decides to hire the director, there may be about $26,000 in federal money available for planning expenses.

Information Sought

The board also decided to seek more information on the request of the Gateway Merchants Association to change the times when buses travel to the shopping center, near 61st and O.

L.E. Rowan, president of the merchants association, requested that LTS synchronize bus schedules to the shopping center on the Vets Hospital run and the O St. Special run.

The two buses sometimes arrive at Gateway within five minutes of each other. At other times, as much as 40 to 60 minutes elapse between bus departures.

Rowan also asked that the O St. Special bus run on a 30-minute interval, rather than hourly, and that the bus be run on Saturdays, which it is not now.

The association believes that Saturday service between downtown and Gateway would benefit both areas since shoppers would travel between the two places, he said.

Sign Suggested

The association also suggested that LTS buses traveling to the shopping center should carry the signs "Gateway." The merchants group is willing to help pay to put up such signs on the buses.

In further business, the board reviewed proposed routing and schedule changes presented by the Bailey, Lewis and Associates advertising firm.

The firm is proposing LTS consolidate information printed on 21 separate schedules into four schedules. Each schedule, which would be color-coded to similar color-coded signs on the buses, would deal with bus runs in a certain section of town. No action was taken on that proposal.

The LTS monthly report shows that the total operating revenues for October were $69,753, compared t $77,290 in revenues for one year ago.

Total operating expenses jumped 4% over October 1974, from $104,162 to $108,697. The operating loss of $38,944 is up 45% over last year.

State Nursing Board Avoids Discrimination

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

The State Board of Nursing does not favor white, American-born applicants, according to board director Margaret Pavelka.

The board does not discriminate, and, in fact, its procedures are intended to avoid any bias, she said, answering charges by nurse Hazel Scott that the board is racist.

Ms. Scott, born in India but trained in the United States, was denied a license by the State Board of Nursing because of "unprofessional conduct." That denial was overturned by Lancaster County Judge William Blue this month.

Blue ruled that the state board failed to show that Ms. Scott was guilty of any unprofessional conduct and ordered that she be granted a license.

Ms. Scott charged that the state board's denial was based on racist attitudes in a Lincoln Star article printed after the court decision.

The application used by the state board does not ask for race. And if an applicant's case goes to the state board itself, the information is presented under a number rather than name to avoid any personal biases, Mrs. Pavelka said.

"We don't keep track of an individual's race," Mrs. Pavelka said.

If a case involving a minority person goes as far as an appeal hearing, a minority nurse is asked to sit in on the hearing and give her opinion, Mrs. Pavelka pointed out.

In Ms. Scott's case, a black nurse from Omaha agreed with the board's decision denying the Nebraska license, she said.

During Mrs. Pavelka's 1½-year tenure as state board director the only minority person whose license was denied, revoked or suspended was Ms. Scott's. The rest were Caucasions, she said.

Between eight and 10 people have their licenses, denied, revoked or suspended each year, Mrs. Pavelka estimated.

Foreign-trained nurses must pass the Nebraska licensing examination. Since the law was changed in June 1974 to allow foreign-trained health professionals who are not U.S. citizens to get licenses, about 15 foreign-trained nurses have been licensed.

The state licensing procedure for nurses trained outside Nebraska includes an application and a careful screening of references and transcripts from the school the applicant attended, the board director said.

If the board receives any complaints against the applicant the normal four to six-week process is delayed.

Any questionable cases are referred to the state board and after a license denial the applicant has the right to a hearing, Mrs. Pavelka said.

Theft Investigated

Police are investigating the theft of a citizens band radio and amplifier unit valued at $775 reported stolen sometime early Thursday morning from a vehicle owned by Ed L. Schwaninger, 6121 Elkcrest Circle. The items were stolen while the vehicle was parked at the American Stores Packing Co., 320 N St.

4 Youths Caught; $3,350 Returned

Four youths, ages 14 and 15, have been turned over to Lancaster County juvenile authorities in connection with the burglary of the Conrad R. Suhr home at 7340 Engelwood Dr.

About $3,350 in cash and a diamond stickpin worth about $700 were taken, according to police. Lt. Willis Gordon said the stickpin and all but $100 has been recovered.

The burglars apparently entered the house by throwing a brick through a basement window.

Turnout Low For Piano Duo Concert

By RICHARD GRACE

A slim turnout of about 250 braved the wintry elements Thursday evening to attend the piano duo concert of the Paratore Brothers at Kimball Hall. Sponsored by the Nebraska Union Contemporary Arts, the talented team of Anthony and Joseph Paratore performed a varied concert of works by Mozart, Schubert, Copland and Gershwin.

The nasty weather was probably not the only reason for the poor turnout. In addition to rather poor scheduling with the university calendar (nearing the end of the semester along with the upcoming Thanksgiving vacation) the advertising of the talented young performers was not extensive. Finally, many of the music "purists" were absent in so-called objection to the many "arrangements" found with a piano duo team.

However, it was impossible to find fault in any way with this concert. The highly adroit brothers simply enthralled and positively entertained the audience, displaying a rare ability of ensemble, technique and musical sensitivity that should eventually place them at the top of the ladder as duo-pianists.

The first half of the program was given to two classic composers who utilized two performers in their works; Mozart's Sonata in D major, K.448 for two pianos and Schubert's Fantasie in F Minor for one piano, four hands. At the outset the musicians, who were first-prize winners in the Piano Duo Competition in Munich last year, established their extraordinary musicianship with each composer and demonstrated confidence, poise and an almost athletic ability at the keyboard.

After intermission, the Paratore brothers performed Copland's Denzon Cubano and Rhapsody in Blue by Gershwin. Despite the fact the Gershwin piece was originally written for orchestra the pianists' brilliant performance made the arrangement sound fresh, vibrant and full on the two pianos.

To the delight of the audience, the Paratore brothers played some Brahms Waltzes and Hungarian Dances and an arrangement from Carnival of Animals by Saint Saens for encores. It is a shame that so few people were able to enjoy these fine musicians. But, for those who missed them, take heart. They will perform with the Boston Pops on ETV in March of '76.

Representatives Getting Married

Washington (UPI) — Reps. Martha Keys, D-Kan., and Andrew Jacobs, D-Ind., announced they are getting married in January. It is believed to be the first marriage between members of Congress.

Keys and Jacobs both serve on the House Ways and Means Committee and have spent long hours together there since each entered the House as freshmen this year.

Washington Group Files Simants Gag Order Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraskans' rights to free speech and press have been "effectively extinguished" by the Nebraska Supreme Court's inaction on a court-imposed "gag order," a brief filed Thursday with the U.S. Supreme Court argues.

The brief was filed by E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., an attorney for the Washington-based Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press, in support of a group seeking a U.S. Supreme Court stay of the order.

The order, issued Oct. 27 by Lincoln County District Court Judge Hugh Stuart, restricts coverage in the preliminary hearing of Erwin Charles Simants, charged with murder and sexual assault in the deaths of six members of a Sutherland, Neb., family last Oct. 18.

The news organizations petitioned the Nebraska Supreme Court Oct. 31 for a stay of the order. When no action was taken, attorneys for the media group asked the U.S. Supreme Court for a stay.

In a Nov. 13 opinion, U.S. Supreme Court Justice Harry A. Blackmun said it would be "highly desirable" for the matter to be decided "forthwith and without delay" in the State Supreme Court.

The State Supreme Court has scheduled a Tuesday morning hearing on the matter. Meanwhile, the media group has reapplied to Justice Blackmun for a stay.

The Reporters Committee brief argued that, while the Nebraska Supreme Court may eventually act, "by that time the First Amendment interests that petitioners seek to defend will, for all practical purposes, have been extinguished.

"In this case, the inaction of the Nebraska Supreme Court has effectively determined, since Oct. 31, 1975, that direct prior restraints (of news coverage) are constitutional within that state and has effectively extinguished the light of the First Amendment for all Nebraska citizens for that period," it said

Such "potential 'serious' erosion of federal policy" justifies U.S. Supreme Court action on the restrictive order, it contended.

"Should this court refuse to exercise its power to stay the order...it will be a signal to trial courts across the country that such orders are acceptable."

A supplemental brief filed by Prettyman noted that the restrictive order has been in effect for more than three weeks and the State Supreme Court has withheld action on it for more than two weeks

The Reporters Committee is described in the brief as "the only organization in the nation exclusively devoted to protecting the First Amendment and freedom of information interest of the working press of all media."

Woman Loses $10,000 To Con Artists

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — A woman from South Sioux City told police Thursday that she turned over her life savings of $10,000 to a woman who assured her she could at least double her investment.

She did not see the woman or her money again, officers said.

Police said the woman, whom they declined to identify, was approached in a parking lot by a woman who claimed to have found an envelope. The container held money in one police account and racing receipts in another.

The woman told officers she and the other woman were joined by another woman, and the first con artist suggested that the victim come up with $10,000 in cash so a business associate could transfer the serial numbers and at least double her money.

When the three met again a few hours later Wednesday in the parking lot, the victim said she wanted to meet the business associate who was supposed to be transferring the serial numbers.

The con artist directed her to an office building, where employes denied any knowledge of the man she sought.

But when the victim returned to the other women, they had left.

Police said the two women rode in a yellow car with Illinois license plates.

Dr. Reagan Hits The Road

Ronald Reagan represents a formidable challenge to President Ford, make no mistake about that. He is the champion of a wing of the Republican Party which has voice and clout far beyond its numbers. He will be the beneficiary of bewildering and politically reckless tactics on the part of an incumbent who is charging around trying to please everybody in his party and the nation except New Yorkers and in the process is pleasing very few people

Reagan says what many people want to hear and he says it well Chief among his advantages is elocution. He has a pleasant enough appearance and a certain on-stage pep for someone of his years and the smile and the voice hide the wrinkles often enough. His record as governor of California is not one which political opponents can rip into with blood in their eyes. He promises a "gentlemanly" campaign; that he will observe the "Eleventh Commandment," which he says means that he'll not speak disparagingly about other Republicans (although he'll have to if he is to illustrate that there is a dime's worth of difference), and that will please many people

But when it comes to ideas for pragmatically dealing with the problems of the nation and the world, Reagan is less than an inch deep

He can trade on peoples' fears and discontent, maybe he can capitalize on the yearning of many for more local control, less big government, a simpler time economically and an age when America was by far the strongest and the richest and could do anything it wanted

But in order to bring it all about, Reagan would have to take us back into the past, and even he said when he announced Thursday that "the American people are not happy unless they are moving ahead."

Some time people who yearn for the good old days of the solid dollar, unchallenged American power and less government will have to realize that events have passed them by.

If a candidate wants to talk about economizing, deregulating and the need for strength second to none, fine, the arguments will be heard. President Ford is talking about that now, parenthetically. But Reagan's vague promises to bring government back to the people and his thinly veiled threats to ignore the vast array of social problems plaguing the country are symptomatic of a candidate who is out of touch with reality

We have the feeling that Reagan's campaign — and we have respect for his ability to attract and convince — will take on the appearances of the traveling medicine shows which enthralled folks back in the days to which Reagan would like to retreat

Hey, New Kid On The Block

Omaha Mayor Ed Zorinsky made it official Wednesday He will attempt to ruin the GOP hierarchy's succession plans by running for the U S Senate as a Democrat. Roman Hruska's hand-picked replacement, Rep John Y McCollister, is expected to win the Republican primary handily Zorinsky, a life-long Republican until he saw the light in a miraculous conversion Wednesday, is expected to give unannounced-but-expected candidate Hess Dyas stiff competition in the Democratic primary

Dyas, contrary to one press report, has always been a Democrat That is not the only or best thing that can be said of him, but the record should be set straight He joined the Democratic Party when he was first legally of age to do so and went on to campaign for John F. Kennedy. He worked in the administration of former Democratic Gov. Frank B. Morrison, was state chairman of the Democratic Party and was his party's nominee in 1974 for the First District congressional seat

As for experience, Zorinsky is not exactly out of it. He is well-acquainted at the state capitol, knows the public power ropes and has done a fine job as mayor of Omaha, where he has phenominal popularity.

The jump from nonpartisan municipal politics to partisan national politics is a big one, however And the last time we checked, the Republicans and the Democrats were not exactly ideological brethren. Some explanations are in order.

Timeworn as it is, the two party system is still the system which makes the American political-governmental apparatus work. And even as party politics has lost its appeal in a cynical age, granting that the electorate has become more centrist and acknowledging that the parties must be revitalized, many partisans of either label will generally agree that parties should not be used by candidates as interchangeable vehicles to higher office

Nebraska Democrats and Republicans as well will welcome Mayor Zorinsky's thoughts on the importance of political parties to the political system

NEW YORK — Christmas is just down the road Only 27 more shopping days left and Santa's helpers say they have visions of sugarplums dancing in their heads

That's because, merchants report, all signs are "go" for a merry holiday in the marketplace. And they hope shoppers are getting the same signals.

Well, maybe. But so far there hasn't been any great surge of the old ho-ho-ho to send us rushing into the stores on our annual shopping spree.

President Ford is playing elf by assuring us the recovery is coming along nicely. But then we hear that unemployment, which had been on a down-tick, is back up to 8 6%. And inflation jumped 1 8% last month, the sharpest increase all year

Not to worry, chirp the forecasters That's only a momentary dip. To be followed, they hint, by a big swoop upward. Merchants say this is already happening

Store sales are doing so well, in fact, they're even talking about a near-boom this Christmas And even the more conservative chain stores say it looks like business will be up from 5 to 10% over last year

What is Santa giving?

Well, so far it looks like a lot of folks are going to find new clothes under the tree Especially outfits in wool, cotton, denim and corduroy.

Good boys and girls are going to be good-looking boys and girls — electric brushes and curlers, perfume, cologne and makeup are just about the hottest items on the shelves

Even "big-ticket" sales, after a long dry spell, are beginning to move. There's no reading yet on furs, jewels, yachts or furniture, but customers are ordering up refrigerators, washers, driers and color TV.

☆ ☆ ☆

What really perks up the merchants, though, is the way Christmas decorations are selling That's a key indicator of the mood of the more consumer The more tinsel he buys, the more toys and trinkets he totes home

And 1975 is building into a year of lavish decorations lights, wreaths, ornaments, the works Maybe we're remembering 1973, when they told us it would help the energy crisis if we dimmed the tree lights

Or last year, when we were in the middle of what nobody ever admitted was a depression, except that nobody could afford to sparkle much.

There are statistics to convince us things are better now Since January, our incomes have been getting bigger and bigger, topped by a $31 billion increase in the third quarter and even more expected in the fourth That's the national total, individual bank balances might not be in such whoop-de-do shape.

Prices are beginning to come down, too Gasoline is a little cheaper in some places, and food costs a few pennies less The fact that the biggest drops came in steak, bacon and sugar may not mean a lot to members of a hard-pressed family who gave up such luxuries months ago.

All this is supposed to have a cheering effect on our confidence, and maybe it will. But even the jolliest of Santa's salesmen admit the way we THINK the economy is going is more crucial to our Christmas spending than the way it actually is.

"It's all psychological," one retailer explained "We should build up their confidence by talking up this season as a real winner" Which might make you suspect those plums aren't the only things they're sugar-coating these days

New York Faces Housing Disaster

NEW YORK — At some point, when New York has either ceased its daily trip to the edge of the precipice or it has become routine procedure, some of the issues involved are going to be recognized for their larger implications. The important fact is that New York's problems are national in scope, alarmingly resistant to solution and increasing in severity. When the preoccupation with original municipal sin and appropriate suffering has faded, a much bigger reckoning will have to be faced

Housing is a prime example. New York City is losing housing at the rate of 12,000 units a year, and the fiscal emergency has forced all city housing plans to a total halt. Even without this desperate cut-off, the Mitchell-Lama program has already come to a dead end, faced with the prospect of massive mortgage default.

Abandonment and tax delinquency at record rates reflect rising costs and multiple problems of which rent control is only a single factor. The certain prospect now is not only of no new construction, but of the irrevocable loss of both marginal and sound stock The magnitude of the housing disaster, in terms not only of shelter but of the destruction of neighborhoods, can hardly be grasped.

But the problem does not stop there At the state level, housing programs are also being cancelled. The Housing Finance Agency, long held up as a model of fiscal prudence and safe policies, is in serious trouble. With the closing of the money markets, it can no longer find financing.

And New York state is not alone, bond sales are being affected everywhere, on every level. The failure of the Urban Development Corporation — rescued only to the point of completing work in progress but at the penalty of no new undertakings — killed New York's most progressive program, meant to provide the kind of housing that the conventional agencies would not touch. Without funds, both approaches have become academic

The main thrust of the federal effort has been to sweep the realities under the rug. The objective of the 1974 Community Development Act was to get the government out of the business of building housing, and the rent-subsidy program, while it has much to recommend it in principle, was really meant as a way of passing the problem of production back to the private sector.

This effort, too, has become almost academic, because the involvement the government was trying to escape — entrapment in inflationary construction and the mismanagement of programs and other long-term ills — is proving to be even less attractive to private investors. Cities everywhere are finding that financing for rehabilitation, one of the prime objectives of the 1974 act, is as unobtainable as that for new housing starts.

Rental subsidies aimed at a housing shortage begain to appear absurd. And as costs continue to rise, the subsidies required over a 20-to-40-year mortgage period become unreal. In New York and other cities, how and where to use limited subsidy funds to anchor slipping neighborhoods or support stranded construction is an exercise in frustration and futility.

Even if all the problems are clarified and the climate changed tomorrow, present policy could hardly make a dent in the accelerating need and accumulating shortage that is hitting the poor the hardest and increasing hardship for the middle class.

These dilemmas — the lack of both public and private housing production, the inadequacy and unworkability of federal programs, the disappearing bond markets, and investor capital, the rising costs of construction, the continuing and even increasing reluctance of the public to authorize spending for housing — are not peculiar to New York.

The Moreland Commission investigating the UDC crisis has worked through complex economic and political layers to confront the hard, basic question that is ultimately going to have to be answered: what the government's social role in housing can and should be, and how it can be met in these extraordinarily difficult times.

No one is asking that question in Washington The just released recommendations of the President's Labor-Management Advisory Committee on how to spur the housing industry are a compendium of nothing new.

According to The Wall Street Journal, the White House refused to make public the committee's "very strong" statement of criticism of government housing policies. When the Great Society died, so did the objective of 26 million new and rehabilitated homes that were to be achieved by 1978, and so did policy, in the real sense of vision and goals.

In its true national dimensions, housing is one of the most severe and tragic emergencies that this country faces. Disaster just strikes faster and more dramatically in New York.

Glenn Goes Into Popularity Orbit

WASHINGTON — A majority of Americans believe Gerald Ford is a great guy but a poor president And their favorite Democrat is none of the presidential contenders but Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, the former astronaut.

These are the surprising findings of America's most painstaking pollster, Patrick H. Caddell, whose confidential "Cambridge Reports" are distributed to a select list of clients.

His latest political survey, based on interviews last August, has caused a stir in the backrooms of Washington We have been slipped a copy.

Citing "the divergent poll reports about Gerald Ford," Caddell explains: "One national survey shows him popular; according to another, he is unpopular . .

"The problem isn't in the polls It stems from the fact that for American people, there are two Gerald Fords a relatively popular and well-liked man, and a relatively poorly rated president"

Caddell points out that "64% of the people are 'favorable' to Gerald Ford, but 61% rate his presidential performance as 'only fair' or 'poor.'"

The Democrat who rates the highest is Senator Glenn whose name doesn't even appear in most presidential polls. Caddell ascribes Glenn's popularity to the fact that "he is seen as basically non-political by most people — obviously an asset at a time when . . mistrust of politicians is on the rise. Glenn also proves to be equally popular with Republicans"

Yet Democrats, when asked whom they favored for the presidential nomination, gave a big edge to Sen. Ted Kennedy, D-Mass. In fact, he "has slightly increased his lead despite his avowed non-candidacy." He was also the only Democrat who beat out President Ford in the preference polls.

Here are more of Caddell's confidential conclusions

—"President Ford just barely holds his own in the top contest, and Republicans trail far behind in the congressional races Moves that increase turnout by bringing non-voters to the polls would further erode Republican strength and threaten the party itself"

—California's ex-Gov Ronald Reagan doesn't appear strong enough to take the Republican nomination away from President Ford. However, "he would probably be able to come to the convention with no less than a third of the delegates This bodies ill for Vice President Nelson Rockefeller. His rating is essentially unchanged from last Spring, when it was not very favorable"

—Ex-Treasury Secretary John Connally "is rated very unfavorably by Americans overall and even by many Republicans. Clearly, the residue of scandal has outlasted the news of his acquittal on the actual charges brought against him."

—Alabama's Gov. George Wallace "has actually declined in popularity. The constant barrage of criticism aimed at him and his policies seems to be taking a toll."

Tabitha Home

Lincoln, Neb.

Far in the past, I recall driving past Tabitha Home. Its spacious green lawns were alive with children happily at play. They were orphans from many states. Dr. Perry Morton gave them free dental care many years His wife, Rose, often held the little hand of a tearful boy or girl. Mrs Morton sewed clothing for them, and did many other thoughtful motherly chores for these children along with their own two sons. Miss Dorothy Peterson was another who helped care for and guide them into a new world of education to become adjusted young adults

Suddenly they were gone, replaced by senior citizens who strolled about or sat contentedly in lawn chairs I became a part of these wonderful people whom I never saw in anger or complaint regardless of pain. Mrs. Carol Urich was a pert little blind pianist who tossed her gray curls about. She could also knit a two-color afghan with perfection. Rev. Robert Gaston caressed his Braille Bible as he gave Sunday services. Miss Marie Johnson's clever fingers molded dried apples into wrinkled heads. From these she created dolls. She sold hundreds

I wish I could name many more of these residents and the beautiful things they made. They put healthy, complaining people to shame.

The dining-room once had long tables at which six sat. The halls were quiet and plain Today little square tables for four are neatly set. In the center of each a crystal vase holds a bright flower Every wall has lovely framed pictures or bulletin boards bright with colored pictures

It is a beautiful, peaceful home where kind and helpful staff members are ever near to tend their needs

The Good Life

Seward, Neb.

I refer to the letter, "One Typical Day," in last Friday's Star, written by Mrs. W R. Schoenleber.

The lady describes a day in the "good old days" about 60 or more years ago, when I was a young woman and helped my Dad out there in the field through weeks of corn-picking. Later it was my husband who harvested corn like that — but not now! My farmer son and son-in-law do the entire operation in a few weeks' time with a picker-sheller machine. They bring in more bushels, faster, especially the irrigated acres, in one day than we would do in a week or two so long ago They have much more expense in fertilizing, etc.

To see the great machine at work for me is a real thrill. One "round" fills a large farm truck waiting at the end of the rows Would any of us want to go back to the "old days"?

Well, not I. We all worked too hard then for what we harvested. We were happy, certainly, for the farmer's life has always been the best life, come what may. But never again, the old days

I'm just "Mom" in her little home in town now, but a day on the farm is a real vacation for me.

The Frank Taylor Story

Ravenna, Neb

I saw a copy of The Star and was very interested in Bob Guenther's article about Frank Taylor. I certainly agree with a lot of what he stands for and admire his spunk in going it alone.

However, he couldn't have known about the National American Party as it does embrace all the "goodies" known to be needed for the ills of our nation. Anyway, Mr. Taylor has my prayers May he land right-side-up.

I have been working for several months, trying to get the American Party of Nebraska on the ballot by petition and haven't had so much as a brief in my home-town paper. The American Party of Nebraska is an affiliate of the National American Party and is chaired by Dr. W. W Steen of Sargent. It is my opinion that anyone could profit much by talking to this good man

It is good to see a paper take an interest in such as the Frank Taylor story, as I believe we need more of the genuine human interests in the world today, especially our part of it

Dr. Reagan Hits The Road

Ronald Reagan represents a formidable challenge to President Ford, make no mistake about that. He is the champion of a wing of the Republican Party which has voice and clout far beyond its numbers. He will be the beneficiary of bewildering and politically reckless tactics on the part of an incumbent who is charging around trying to please everybody in his party and the nation except New Yorkers and in the process is pleasing very few people.

Reagan says what many people want to hear and he says it well. Chief among his advantages is elocution. He has a pleasant enough appearance and a certain on-stage pep for someone of his years and the smile and the voice hide the wrinkles often enough. His record as governor of California is not one which political opponents can rip into with blood in their eyes. He promises a "gentlemanly" campaign; that he will observe the "Eleventh Commandment," which he says means that he'll not speak disparagingly about other Republicans (although he'll have to if he is to illustrate that there is a dime's worth of difference), and that will please many people.

But when it comes to ideas for pragmatically dealing with the problems of the nation and the world, Reagan is less than an inch deep.

He can trade on peoples' fears and discontent; maybe he can capitalize on the yearning of many for more local control, less big government, a simpler time economically and an age when America was by far the strongest and the richest and could do anything it wanted.

But in order to bring it all about, Reagan would have to take us back into the past, and even he said when he announced Thursday that "the American people are not happy unless they are moving ahead."

Some time people who yearn for the good old days of the solid dollar, unchallenged American power and less government will have to realize that events have passed them by.

If a candidate wants to talk about economizing, deregulating and the need for strength second to none, fine, the arguments will be heard. President Ford is talking about that now, parenthetically. But Reagan's vague promises to bring government back to the people and his thinly veiled threats to ignore the vast array of social problems plaguing the country are symptomatic of a candidate who is out of touch with reality.

We have the feeling that Reagan's campaign — and we have respect for his ability to attract and convince — will take on the appearances of the traveling medicine shows which enthralled folks back in the days to which Reagan would like to retreat.

We want to compliment the Fire Department and especially to thank the firemen at Station No. 6 for their promptness in answering my fire call on Nov. 12. It could have been a disaster but the damage was minor.

Not only were they well organized and efficient; they also took care not to soil the floor and new carpet which required a minimum of cleaning when they left. They were courteous, considerate and kind to us in this time of stress.

MERRITT AND ALBIE ANDERSON

The Good Life

Seward, Neb.

I refer to the letter, "One Typical Day," in last Friday's Star, written by Mrs. W. R. Schoenleber.

The lady describes a day in the "good old days" about 60 or more years ago, when I was a young woman and helped my Dad out there in the field through weeks of corn-picking. Later it was my husband who harvested corn like that — but not now! My farmer son and son-in-law do the entire operation in a few weeks' time with a picker-sheller machine. They bring in more bushels, faster, especially the irrigated acres, in one day than we would do in a week or two so long ago. They have much more expense in fertilizing, etc.

To see the great machine at work for me is a real thrill. One "round" fills a large farm truck waiting at the end of the rows. Would any of us want to go back to the "old days"?

Well, not I. We all worked too hard then for what we harvested. We were happy, certainly, for the farmer's life has always been the best life, come what may. But never again, the old days.

I'm just "Mom" in her little home in town now, but a day on the farm is a real vacation for me.

MRS. WM. HARTMANN, SR.

The Frank Taylor Story

Ravenna, Neb.

I saw a copy of The Star and was very interested in Bob Guenther's article about Frank Taylor. I certainly agree with a lot of what he stands for and admire his spunk in going it alone.

However, he couldn't have known about the National American Party as it does embrace all the "goodies" known to be needed for the ills of our nation. Anyway, Mr. Taylor has my prayers. May he land right-side-up.

I have been working for several months, trying to get the American Party of Nebraska on the ballot by petition and haven't had so much as a brief in my home-town paper. The American Party of Nebraska is an affiliate of the National American Party and is chaired by Dr. W. W. Steen of Sargent. It is my opinion that anyone could profit much by talking to this good man.

It is good to see a paper take an interest in such as the Frank Taylor story, as I believe we need more of the genuine human interests in the world today, especially our part of it.

More Teenagers Arrested For Drunk Driving Offense

By LINDA OLIG
Star Staff Writer

Teenagers not yet old enough to put money on the counter for a bottle or six-pack are accounting for an increasing proportion of Lincoln arrests for public intoxication and driving while intoxicated, Bob Adams, executive director of the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs (LCAD), said Thursday

That agency, which monitors alcoholism and drug services in the community, plans to look into the teenage drinking and alcoholism problems, plus both existing and potential treatment facilities here for minors

LCAD has been keeping count of arrest reports for 18 months

In seven months alone, from March through September, 56 boys and seven girls aged 16-18 were arrested for driving while intoxicated (DWI)

During that same time, one youth between 13 and 15 years of age — and therefore not yet entitled to drive — also was arrested for DWI, according to the LCAD statistics

Minors made up 8 3% of the total DWI arrests during the seven-month period, compared to 4 6% during that time last year, Adams said

For the same time period, the number of teenagers aged 13-15 arrested for public intoxication increased from 11 last year to 17 this year On the other hand, public intoxication arrests for 16 to 18-year-olds decreased from 57 to 52

Still, minors made up 5 7% of the public intoxication arrests, compared to 3 7% for the seven-month period last year

The LCAD figures are to be part of a report to be presented next month to the LCAD board

Ron Namuth, of the Chemical Dependency Unit at Lincoln General Hospital, said that two 16-year-olds currently are undergoing treatment there, adding that there has been "no real (community) emphasis in looking for" treatment programs specially designed for teenagers

"They don't need rehabilitation, they need habilitation," said Walt Giles, of the municipal court's alcoholism probation project He said that teenagers arrested for intoxication undergo counseling and group sessions, "but that's only for the ones who are caught '

Giles said school resource officers say they "have them drunk in school — 12, 14 at a crack "

In other action, Adams clarified the role of a special committee appointed Wednesday by the LCAD Comprehensive Alcoholism Planning Committee regarding Westview Home

He said the committee was formed to study the care and needs of chronic, late-term alcoholics — not to urge the conversion of the county-run facility into a home specifically for those troubled persons

Peery's Lawyers Ask Dismissal Of Charges

For the second time attorneys for Wesley Peery, accused of murdering Mrs Marianne Mitzner, are arguing that the evidence does not warrant the charges

The Thursday arraignment of Peery in Lancaster County District Court was a repeat performance of an Aug 7 arraignment in which Peery s attorneys filed a plea in abatement asking the judge to dismiss charges

The motion Thursday by attorneys Don Hayes and Stanley Cohen again contended not enough evidence was presented during the preliminary hearing in Lancaster County Court to bind Peery over for trial in District Court

District Court Samuel Van Pelt ruled that the evidence presented during the first preliminary hearing did not show the necessary "probable cause ' He ordered that new charges be filed and more evidence introduced or the case would be dismissed

Peery, 51, was then recharged with first degree murder and robbery in connection with the June 6 shooting death of Mrs Mitzner Jewelry valued at $22,500 was taken from the Mitzner Rare Coin Co shop at the same time

During the second preliminary hearing in late November, County Attorney Ron Lahners introduced new evidence including a blood-splattered raincoat found in Peery's apartment and testimony linking bullet fragments found in Mrs Mitzner's body to the same type of gun purchased by Peery's girlfriend

Other evidence presented in both preliminary hearings included testimony showing that rags found at the crime scene were similar to the rags used at the Wesleyan University boiler room, where Peery worked

Oral arguments on the second plea in abatement will be scheduled during the next two weeks

Tax Research Council Hosts Ronald Reagan

The Nebraska Tax Research Council said Thursday it expects the largest turnout in its 25-year history during its annual meeting on Dec 2

The council said more than 300 reservations have been made and officials attribute that to the speaker slated for the event — former California Gov Ronald Reagan

The meeting will be held at the Holiday Inn in Omaha

NCLU Knocks Hruska Support Of S1 Passage

The Nebraska Civil Liberties Union has responded to Saturday's statement by Sen Roman Hruska that favored passage of Senate Bill 1

Hruska said that S1 was amendable and that "those who would defeat the bill would have us return to present law, with its outdated, inadequate, irrational, unjust and piecemeal disarray "

In a statement released Wednesday, the NCLU said that S1 is not amendable because it is not based on the ideals of individual rights and freedoms

"Sen Hruska s support of S1, which is without parallel in modern history as a comprehensive attack on the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, reflects a dangerous insensitivity to civil rights guaranteed by the Constitution," a NCLU spokesman said

The NCLU statement said that reinstating the death penalty is cruel and unusual punishment and broadening the government s authority to allow wiretapping is dangerous

Dyas Was Not GOP Member Previous To 1960

Democratic senatorial candidate Hess Dyas of Lincoln has never been a Republican

When he first registered as a voter in 1960, at age 22, Dyas registered as a Democrat and, he said, he has been a Democrat ever since

United Press International incorrectly reported in a story published in Thursday's Lincoln Star that Dyas had changed from Republican to Democrat in 1960

"I was never involved in politics prior to 1960," Dyas said Thursday "I became excited about John Kennedy s candidacy, registered as a Democrat and started knocking on doors for him '

In contrast, Dyas said, Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky, a lifelong Republican, has now changed parties "to get Democrats to knock on doors for him' in the Democratic senatorial primary race

Dyas and Zorinsky will clash for the Democratic nomination in next May s primary election

Omaha Reformatory Site Reports Go To Governor

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A decision on the location of a men's reformatory in Omaha is back in Gov. J. James Exon's lap.

Administration officials said Thursday that evaluators from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) and appraisers from the State Department of Roads have completed their reports.

A 34-acre site immediately adjacent to the runway of Omaha's Eppley Airfield is being considered for the 200-man reformatory.

State Corrections Director Joseph Vitek said he turned the LEAA report over to Exon Wednesday. However, Vitek declined to reveal LEAA's conclusions until Exon has had a chance to study it.

Exon left the state Wednesday for a national quail hunt in Oklahoma. Following that, Exon is expected to remain in Oklahoma for the NU-OU football game in Norman.

Among the factors considered by the LEAA officials were noise, air pollution and possible safety hazards posed by the Eppley location.

Bill Hoppner, an aide to Exon, said the governor's decision on whether to endorse the site will probably be made in the form of a recommendation to the Legislature when it convenes in January.

Hoppner noted that legislative authorization will be needed before land acquisition can be completed.

At one time, Roads Department appraisers estimated the 34-acre site, which has several homes there, would cost the state $795,000 to purchase, relocate residents and demolish.

Vitek said preliminary estimates now indicate the cost might run $500,000; the entire budget for the Omaha Reformatory has been pegged at $4 million.

A number of people, including Omaha Sen. John Savage and Omaha city planners, believe the Roads Department estimates are too high City planners have indicated the site could cost $364,000.

One of the stumbling blocks for approval of the Eppley site is the cost of land. Exon has questioned the economic wisdom of purchasing land for $23,000 per acre.

Asked if he thought the acquisition costs were too high, Vitek said he didn't know.

The state has already hired architects for construction of a 250-man reformatory located on the grounds of the aging State Reformatory on Coddington Road in southwest Lincoln.

That facility is expected to cost $5 million.

Exon originally favored a single new reformatory in Lincoln rather than two smaller ones in Lincoln and Omaha from the standpoint of the added operational costs of two units.

However, a majority of state legislators disagreed and ordered planning to begin for two reformatories.

Exon named a committee to find an acceptable site in Omaha. In subsequent hearings on proposed sites, citizen opposition surfaced, forcing abandonment of consideration of other Omaha sites.

The Eppley field site was finally agreed upon by the committee, after landowners indicated they were generally agreeable to the state's plans.

Professor Gets Grant For Studies

Dr. Mihir Bannerjee, professor of zoology and head of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's tumor biology laboratory, has been awarded a special research contract from the National Cancer Institute.

The grant, which will provide $89,000 for research over a 16-month period, involves studying laboratory-produced lesions which might be related to the development of cancerous tumors.

Bannerjee has received about $1 million to support research projects in the tumor biology laboratory since 1968. He joined the NU faculty in 1967 after leaving the staff of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

PTA Board To Work For Statewide Juvenile Court

The Nebraska State PTA Board decided Thursday to work in 1976 to establish separate juvenile courts statewide, according to Mrs. Marvin C. Stewart, state PTA president.

The two-day board session concluded Thursday with a business meeting, after an orientation session for 1975-76 new board members, said Mrs. Stewart, 2845 Prairie Road.

The officers scheduled a February legislation workshop in Lincoln to deal with bills in the 1976 Unicameral.

Regarding the separate juvenile court proposal, Mrs. Stewart said only Lancaster and Douglas Counties have such arrangements. Elsewhere in Nebraska, district judges allot part of their time to sit as juvenile court judges, which concerns the State PTA, she said.

In other advance work, the board conducted preliminary program planning for the State PTA convention Oct. 8-9, 1976, in South Sioux City, Neb. A national PTA representative will attend the confab, Mrs. Stewart said, but focus will be on workshops, such as leadership training.

Unit presidents and voting delegates will address a slate of issues, student counseling, for instance. Any PTA member may attend. Mrs. Stewart said the board decided to prepare a questionnaire to survey members' wishes for convention program content.

In spring 1976, Mrs. Stewart said, the state board will sponsor workshops for officers of the 14 Area PTA Councils.

"One of our goals is to be more visible," the new state president said. "We're going to be in touch with our local units, by having our state board people visit" them more often. "We really want to help people at the local level."

Enrollment Limit Conceivable NU Option

Limiting University of Nebraska enrollment is a conceivable option "if we come to difficult circumstances," NU President D. B. Varner said Thursday.

But he indicated he would approach such a move reluctantly, because "the university opportunity means so much to young people in the state."

The combination of surprise enrollment increases and threatened or slashed budgets has caused numerous public universities and colleges to set enrollment ceilings.

Asked about similar prospects for NU, Varner said, "I don't think we should rule it out." However, "We haven't talked about it at all, internally or with the regents.

"I suppose that's a consideration we might have to come to," he said, but only if state budgets stay tight or get squeezed harder and if the numbers of NU-bound force it.

Yet recent national reports predict what Lincoln Public Schools officials have been saying all along, that the number of high school graduates will decline beginning in 1990.

That indicates universities revamping to serve fewer students now, because they can't pay for educating unanticipated and thus underbudgeted enrollment surges, may be ready to deal with later drop-offs. Despite that, lids imposed now would result in what could appear to be enrollment stability in the future.

Measures now being taken by schools across the U.S. include holding enrollment at present levels for a specific number of years, imposing ceilings that would actually lower the number of students for a year, cutting off new admissions, and transferring additional students to other state campuses less affected by funding and student strains.

Those actions have often been caused partly by distressed faculty faced with overcrowded classes but given no corresponding pay boosts. Bleak job prospects have apparently forced more students to the campuses and they're staying longer than they would otherwise.

Institutions adopting enrollment-limiting moves, according to the Chronicle of Higher Education, include New York and Michigan State Universities, Illinois, Wisconsin and North Carolina Universities, Florida State and University campuses, Colorado University and the University of Northern Colorado.

Omaha Reformatory Site Reports Go To Governor

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

A decision on the location of a men's reformatory in Omaha is back in Gov. J. James Exon's lap.

Administration officials said Thursday that evaluators from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) and appraisers from the State Department of Roads have completed their reports.

A 34-acre site immediately adjacent to the runway of Omaha's Eppley Airfield is being considered for the 200-man reformatory.

State Corrections Director Joseph Vitek said he turned the LEAA report over to Exon Wednesday. However, Vitek decined to reveal LEAA's conclusions until Exon has had a chance to study it.

Exon left the state Wednesday for a national quail hunt in Oklahoma. Following that, Exon is expected to remain in Oklahoma for the NU-OU football game in Norman.

Among the factors considered by the LEAA officials were noise, air pollution and possible safety hazards posed by the Eppley location.

Bill Hoppner, an aide to Exon, said the governor's decision on whether to endorse the site will probably be made in the form of a recommendation to the Legislature when it convenes in January.

Hoppner noted that legislative authorization will be needed before land acquisition can be completed.

At one time, Roads Department appraisers estimated the 34-acre site, which has several homes there, would cost the state $795,000 to purchase, relocate residents and demolish.

Vitek said preliminary estimates now indicate the cost might run $500,000; the entire budget for the Omaha Reformatory has been pegged at $4 million.

A number of people, including Omaha Sen. John Savage and Omaha city planners, believe the Roads Department estimates are too high. City planners have indicated the site could cost $364,000.

One of the stumbling blocks for approval of the Eppley site is the cost of land. Exon has questioned the economic wisdom of purchasing land for $23,000 per acre.

Asked if he thought the acquisition costs were too high, Vitek said he didn't know.

The state has already hired architects for construction of a 250-man reformatory located on the grounds of the aging State Reformatory on Coddington Road in southwest Lincoln.

That facility is expected to cost $5 million.

Exon originally favored a single new reformatory in Lincoln rather than two smaller ones in Lincoln and Omaha from the standpoint of the added operational costs of two units.

However, a majority of state legislators disagreed and ordered planning to begin for two reformatories.

Exon named a committee to find an acceptable site in Omaha. In subsequent hearings on proposed sites, citizen opposition surfaced, forcing abandonment of consideration of other Omaha sites.

The Eppley field site was finally agreed upon by the committee, after landowners indicated they were generally agreeable to the state's plans.

Professor Gets Grant For Studies

Dr. Mihir Bannerjee, professor of zoology and head of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln's tumor biology laboratory, has been awarded a special research contract from the National Cancer Institute.

The grant, which will provide $89,000 for research over a 16-month period, involves studying laboratory-produced lesions which might be related to the development of cancerous tumors.

Bannerjee has received about $1 million to support research projects in the tumor biology laboratory since 1968. He joined the NU faculty in 1967 after leaving the staff of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md.

Spanish Politicians Jockeying

. . . Franco's Death Mourned, Celebrated

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Politicians jockeyed for position Thursday and police hunted a Basque assassination team as Spaniards at home and abroad variously mourned and celebrated the death of dictator Francisco Franco. Artillery marked his passing with a salvo every 15 minutes.

Extra police surrounded Barcelona prison after reports rightists might attack 200 political prisoners inside. But for the most part the nation was calm, geared emotionally and constitutionally for the end of rule by the 82-year-old rightist general who led the nation into bloody civil war and then ran it autocratically for 36 years.

President Ford and some other world leaders cabled condolences. The U.S. chief executive wished the Spanish people and government "well in the period ahead" and said the United States "will continue to pursue the policy of friendship and cooperation which has formed the touchstone for the excellent relations existing between our two countries."

The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia said while Franco's road to power was "covered by hundreds of thousands of corpses . . . one can be sure that Spain will now enter the widened road of democracy and social progress."

Franco's death early Thursday after 34 days of illness brought mixed reactions inside ideologically divided Spain. But across the border in Hendaye, France, about 100 Spanish refugees celebrated in cafes and drove through the streets jubilantly honking horns.

In Mexico City, Spanish exiles called for the removal of Franco's successor, 37-year-old Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon, and establishment of a republic.

Police went on extra protective duty in Spain but no incidents were reported. A Basque commando team armed with rifles mounted with telescopic sights, apparently trying to upset Franco's succession plan, was being sought in the Madrid area, intelligence sources said.

Politicians also were reported maneuvering for advantage ahead of Franco's burial Sunday and the installation of Juan Carlos on Saturday as King Juan Carlos I and Spain's first monarch in 44 years. He made no public appearance Thursday.

A group of Falangists attending an annual memorial mass for Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, the fascist movement's founder, said: "Gen. Franco himself picked the prince as his successor and we have to accept it. As of now the prince can count on our support. The future will say if we have to withdraw it."

Jose Antonio, whose father was dictator of Spain in the 1920s, was caught and executed by republican loyalists 39 years to the day before Franco died.

During the civil war, Franco merged the Falange with his own Carlist militia and merged its political activities into the nation's only legal party, the National Movement.

Other Falangists said, "We never gave him our support and it's hardly impossible that we change our mind. However, we'll try to not be an obstacle to the king, at least not until he proves how far he can go and how well he gets along."

A Communist leader in Catalonia in eastern Spain, reacting to Franco's death, commented: "I hope the man will rest in peace, but I am overjoyed by the death of the politician."

In the southern town of Cadiz, taxi drivers swathed their cabs in black crepe. Police in the capital wore black armbands. But many restaurant owners said they had no plans to close in mourning.

"We should get good business with people coming to Madrid for the funeral services," said one restaurant owner. "We do not want to miss them."

Franco died in a Madrid medical center while most of Spain slept. The government decreed 30 days of national mourning and army artillery began booming out a salvo every 15 minutes.

The barrages will continue until Franco's burial in the Valley of the Fallen, 35 miles north of Madrid. More than 1 million people are expected to file past the flag-wrapped coffin by Sunday.

Premier Carlos Arias Navarro, his own future in doubt, choked back tears on national television to read a last message from Franco warning that "enemies of Spain and Christian civilization are alert." Officials said the message was typewritten and its poor punching indicated Franco had typed it from his sickbed in the Pardo Palace late last month.

Franco died on the same day as the founder of the Fascist-styled Falange party, Primo de Rivera. Within hours of Franco's death, an estimated 5,000 Falangists gathered at the Valley of the Fallen, a monument to the dead in the Spanish Civil War and Franco's last resting site, to hold their annual commemorative ceremony for de Rivera and give the Fascist salute.

Moderates said they feared rightists would try a show of strength at a public mass Sunday ahead of Franco's burial to convince Juan Carlos to call off plans for democratic reforms.

Despite the fact that the civil war, the bloodiest fighting in Spain's history, ended nearly four decades ago, ideological scars opened as the impact of Franco's death set in.

"If Franco the man has died, the symbol that Franco represents will continue living," said extreme rightist Blas Pinar.

"A black chapter of Spain's history is now closed," said Socialist leader Felipe Gonzalez.

Chou Said In Worse Condition

TOKYO (AP) — China's 78-year-old Premier Chou En-lai is confined to a hospital bed and his condition appears to have worsened, Peking officials reportedly told a Japanese government official who visited China recently.

Chou was stricken in May 1974 with a heart ailment but recovered sufficiently to receive foreign guests of state at his Peking hospital until September. But many of his official duties have been assumed by First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

Chou Said In Worse Condition

TOKYO (AP) — China's 78-year-old Premier Chou En-lai is confined to a hospital bed and his condition appears to have worsened, Peking officials reportedly told a Japanese government official who visited China recently.

Chou was stricken in May 1974 with a heart ailment but recovered sufficiently to receive foreign guests of state at his Peking hospital until September. But many of his official duties have been assumed by First Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

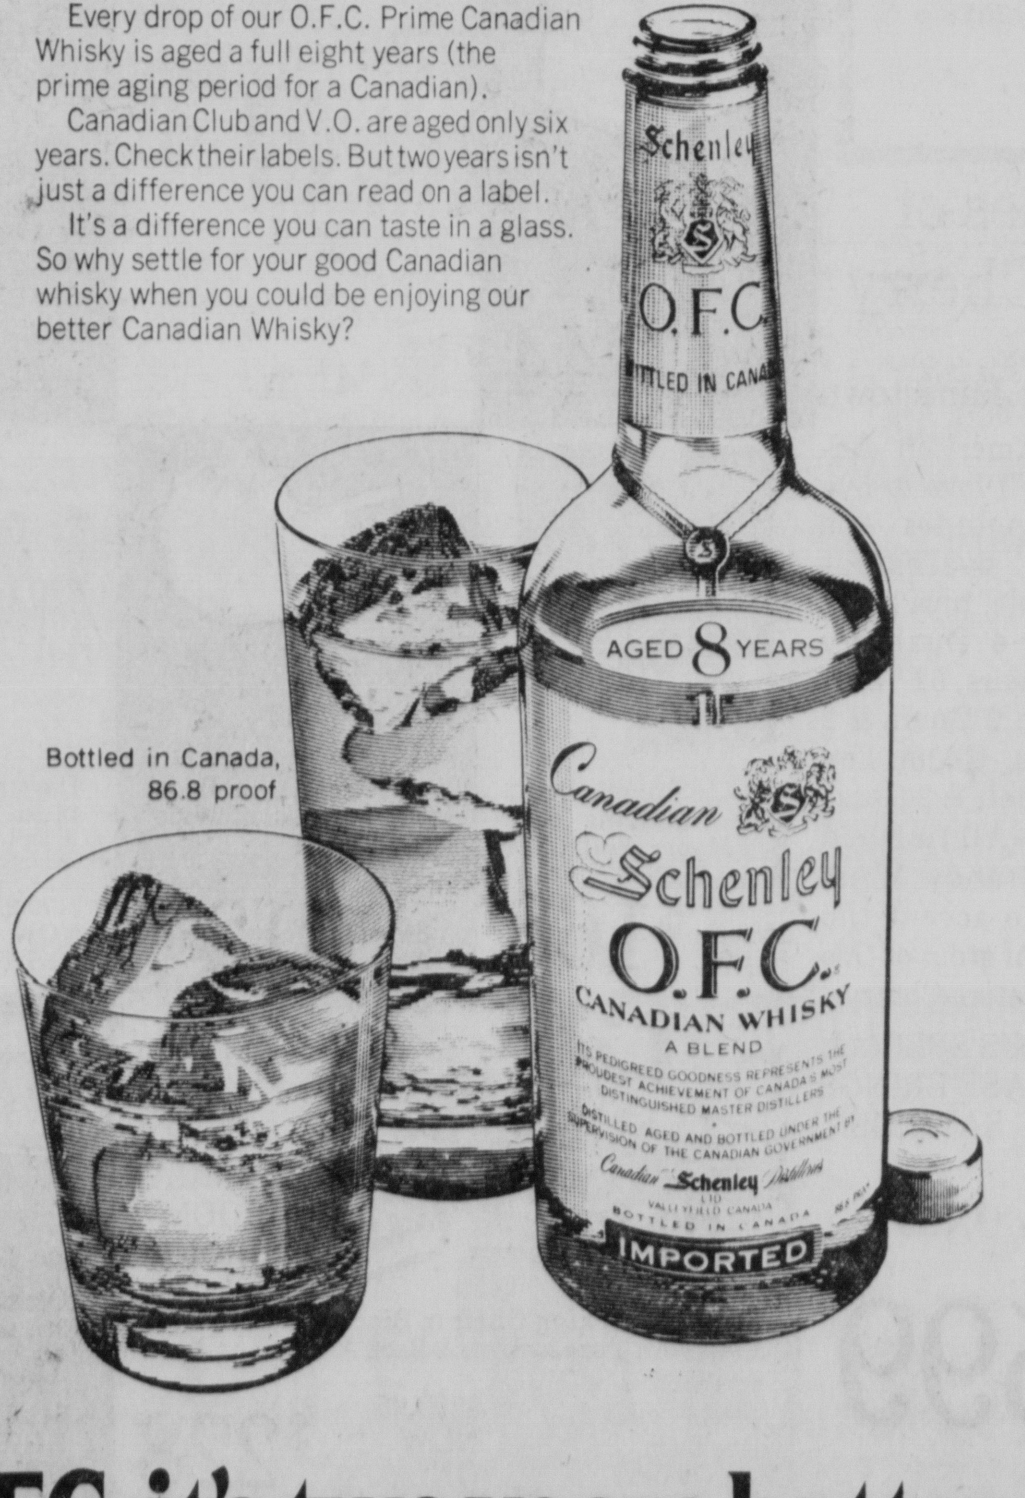
What makes Canadian Club and V.O. good makes O.F.C. better.

Every drop of our O.F.C. Prime Canadian Whisky is aged a full eight years (the prime aging period for a Canadian).

Canadian Club and V.O. are aged only six years. Check their labels. But two years isn't just a difference you can read on a label.

It's a difference you can taste in a glass. So why settle for your good Canadian whisky when you could be enjoying our better Canadian Whisky?



Bottled in Canada, 86.8 proof

O.F.C. it's two years better.

San Francisco — In the chilly morning the younger daughter bounces out of bed at dawning 6 a.m. She eats: "One grapefruit. One slice of Melba toast."

Dummer was fatter than you think. All the teen-agers are on a diet.

I said: "How do you know you have to lose weight?"

The bathroom scale broke down and stuck at 170 pounds. I gave it away. If I want to know my weight, I put a penny in the scales at the drugstore. If I don't like that weight, I step on the scales at the Five and Ten.

No public scales agree. So you just shop around until you find a weight you like.

☆ ☆ ☆

I said: "How can you go on a diet when you follow grapefruit and Melba toast with two frozen waffles?"

She said: "The first part is the diet. The rest is because I'm hungry."

This makes perfect sense to a female. Later she'll grow up and know how much she weighs by how her clothes fit. If they're getting tight, back to the diet milk and grapefruit.

"How I Lost Fifteen Pounds And Saved The Marriage." Those are the magazine pieces chicks read under the dryer.

☆ ☆ ☆

Besides dieting, these early teeners are making up languages. She said: "Like 'iffen' means 'terrible.' And 'oaters' means 'watch out.' "

I said: "What happened to 'errible-tay' and the pig Latin?"

She said: "This is more secret."

It turns out it is so secret that only two people know it. "Me and my best friend."

☆ ☆ ☆

She said: "What are we having for dinner?" I said: "Roasta beef. Masha da potat'. Strumbelly pie."

She said: "I can't eat potatoes. It's not on my diet."

I said: "Listen. It's the chef's day off. And the butler just quit. You eat what I put on the table."

She said: "You could try. Listen to this. It's my diet for tonight: Two small slices of tomato without dressing. Small piece of lean beef broiled. Tablespoon of cottage cheese. One peeled fresh pear. One glass of diet-slim milk. Do you know how many calories that is?"

☆ ☆ ☆

I said: "What difference does it make what you eat at night? When in the afternoon you pig it up on chocolate Ding Dongs."

She said: "We talked it over and we all agreed that after school snacks don't count."

When you run it like that, a diet can be fun.

She said: "In our new language 'diet' is 'glork.' I said: "It sounds like a burp to me."

These kittens learn to diet because their mamas diet. It's woman's unceasing search for the weight that is "just right." It's elusive. Who ever met a chick who is satisfied with what she is?

☆ ☆ ☆

I am advised to read the diet. "Just read it. Please!" And to learn the new language. "Glork. It's real easy."

Also to buy the exercise machine we saw on TV. "We could all do it together."

THE WORLD HAS CHANGED. SO HAS MAZDA.

THE
SO HAS MAZDA.

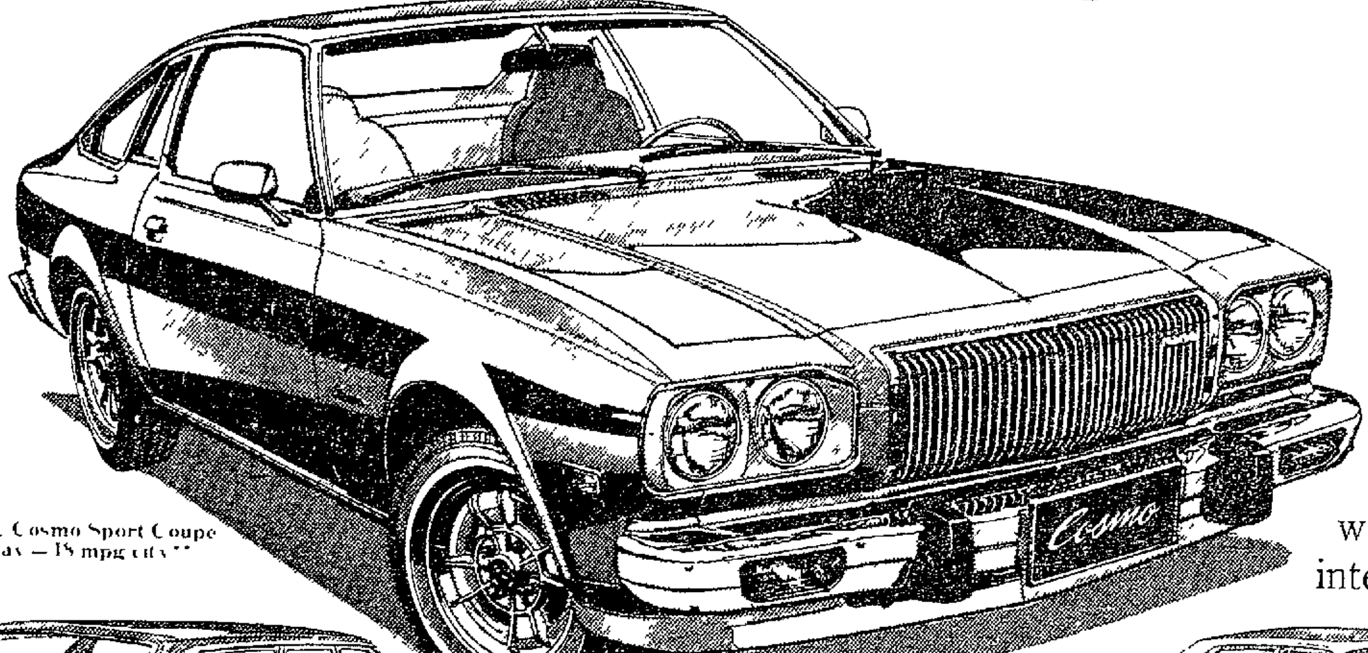
Dramatically increased rotary gas mileage: up to 50% more.*
New luxury sport coupe: Cosmo.
Six new rotary-engine models.
Two new piston-engine economy models.



Rotary engine Cosmo Sport Coupe

Rotary RX-4 Wagon

Rotary RX-4 Hardtop
29 mpg highway — 18 mpg city

Rotary RX-4 Sedan
29 mpg highway — 18 mpg city

A change for the better in rotary gas mileage.

All rotary-engine Mazdas for 1976 show a dramatic increase in gasoline mileage over earlier models without sacrificing performance. Up to 50% more in the RX-3, 45% more in the RX-4.*

Using an improved combustion, a leaner fuel mixture, an improved thermal reactor with heat exchanger, a lower gear ratio and five-speed manual transmission (optional in certain states), the new Mazdas deliver up to 30 mpg on the highway, 19 in the city, according to EPA estimates.

A change to new luxury: Cosmo.

Low and wide, sleek and swift, Cosmo is easily the most advanced Mazda ever built.

Cosmo strides the highways like the classic road car it is. With anti-sway bars fore and aft. A front spoiler for greater stability at highway speeds. And steel-belted radial white-line tires.

Cosmo surrounds you with luxury. Inside, the glow of real wood. Reclining seats in soft velour, or vinyl that breathes. Deep carpeting from door to door—and even on the doors. And Cosmo's quiet rotary engine makes long trips seem shorter.

Cosmo provides stopping power to match its going power with power-assisted disc brakes on all four wheels—not just two. The front discs are ventilated for greater fade resistance.

A change from ordinary small-car performance.

Many small cars are small performers. Mazda offers a change that makes driving fun again. Breathtaking acceleration. A jetlike smoothness and lack of strain at high rpm's. Its performance is unique among small cars. Because Mazda's rotary engine is unique.

A warranty that hasn't changed.

But one thing hasn't changed.

Cosmo, like other rotary Mazdas, comes with a 50,000-mile/3-year limited rotary-engine warranty. It states that the basic engine block and internal parts will be free of defects, with normal use and prescribed maintenance, for 50,000 miles or three years, whichever occurs first, or Mazda will fix it free. This non-transferable limited warranty is free on all new rotary-engine Mazdas sold and serviced in the continental United States. So on your way down to a small car, move up to Mazda's new rotary car.

A change to more quality in small economy cars.

The piston-engine Mazda 808s are a far cry from economy cars that are under-equipped and underpowered. Up front, there's a spirited 1600-cc engine, combining efficiency with brisk performance. Interiors are completely finished. Nylon carpeting. Vinyl upholstery. Full instrumentation. Standard features include tinted glass, reclining bucket seats, power-assisted front disc brakes.

And the 808s, like all Mazdas, are carefully put together. So if you're looking for something more than economy alone in a small car, our 808s have it. We offer you a change to quality.

Boning Your Turkey Makes It Better Buy

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

It may be that you'll have to "talk turkey" to find the cheapest meat available for your family this winter.

Although turkey prices are slightly above those of 1974, most tom turkeys are just as cheap or cheaper than they were two years ago.

And if you want to spend a little time in advance preparation, you wouldn't need to spend all day in the kitchen Thanksgiving or Christmas, plus your family won't get tired of turkey because of the several days of leftover meals which result from cooking the whole stuffed bird.

Doyle Free, general manager of the Nebraska Poultry Industries, says that by boning a turkey in advance of cooking, turkey becomes the "cheapest meat you can buy."

He contends by preparing the turkey as rolled breast and thigh roasts, one can prepare Thanksgiving dinner in less than three hours and still have other parts of the turkey frozen for later uses such as barbecued turkey, sandwiches and salads.

Free says that by buying frozen turkeys between now and Christmas when they are cheapest, families can enjoy turkey meals, for example, once a week without tiring of the meat.

He suggests buying and freezing the whole turkey until within about six weeks of the time you would plan to cook various meals from that turkey.

Then thaw the turkey so all but the interior of the bird is thawed and then cut and bone the turkey and package it for refreezing for later use.

However, he strongly recommends that all the boned turkey be used within about six weeks of the time it is cut up and frozen.

For further savings, Free says that consumers may purchase "missing parts" turkeys if they make sure that they are getting a plump bird with a "good finish" to insure that it has sufficient fat for flavorful eatring.

Some of these birds, which are inspected but ungraded, are lacking in sufficient fat, he said.

However, he suggests starting with a Grade A USDA-inspected turkey if you're planning to cook a whole bird for Thanksgiving and/or Christmas.

If one of the wing tips is missing from that so-called Grade A turkey, Free says not to be alarmed because this is permissible under the grading regulations and merely means that the wing was clipped when the turkey was a day old to prevent the bird's flying.

Whether cooking the whole bird or turkey rolls, Free stresses the use of a meat thermometer inserted in the thickest portion of the meat.

"Don't get the 98 cent kind, but get a good meat thermometer," he said.

When that thermometer registers 170 degrees, the meat is done, Free said, noting that a breast roll will cook to that temperature in slightly over two hours.

The rolls should be roasted in the foil in which they were frozen in an open pan in a 300 to 325 degree oven. If you wish to have it browned, you can slit the foil about 15 minutes before taking it out of the oven.

After removing the turkey rolled roast from the oven, it should be allowed to stand for 15 minutes before cutting with an electric knife, Free says, pointing out that this added time allows for completion of cooking and penetration of the juices into the meat.

One turkey breast will serve between eight and 11 people, according to Free, while each of the thigh rolls provides four or five servings.

The thigh rolls require about 20 to 30 minutes less cooking time than the breast rolls, he said.

Free suggests that the turkey rolls can also be cut into turkey steaks and prepared in a shorter period of time, and the frozen package of four wing pieces and two back pieces is excellent barbecuing meat.

Cook the six pieces with a small amount of water in a slow cooker until nearly ready to fall off the bone; brush with barbecue sauce and broil about 10 minutes.

Boning Made Easy

Steps for boning a turkey as presented in a demonstration by Doyle Free, general manager of Nebraska Poultry Industries:

1. Pull legs apart and remove the neck and giblets from the turkey cavity.
2. Lay the turkey on its side and spread the wing out as far as it will go.
3. With a sharp knife, follow the wing around to where the joint fits in place and remove the wing.
4. To remove the leg, cut through skin between the thigh and the body cavity and pull the leg and thigh outward. The joint should pop out of its socket. Cut the thigh from the back bone
5. Repeat process for other wing and leg.
6. Cut through rib cage to separate back from breast and pull apart into two pieces.
7. To bone the breast, lay it out flat and place the knife along side of breastbone and follow the bone straight forward to the mass of skin in neck area.
8. Follow with knife on around rib cage, scraping and cutting as you go.
9. Repeat the process for other side of breast.
10. Cut off the long piece of skin from the neck area back to where breast starts.
11. To prepare the breast roll, tear off piece of aluminum foil big enough to wrap up rolled piece of breast.
12. Bring two edges of foil up together, tucking top edge under, and roll back toward meat into a snug package.
13. Take the two ends of the package and roll them toward center of roll package. Make sure the package snugly fits the meat so that air pockets are kept at a minimum.
14. Cut thighs away from the leg. By feeling for the joint with the point of the knife, you will be able to cut the thigh apart easily.
15. Bone out thighs using point of knife. On bottom end where knee cap was, there is some gristle which should be cut off.
16. Roll each thigh up individually in the same manner as the breasts were rolled.
17. Cut the wing in two at joint and cut off tips. Leave the tips in pan with other bones and scraps.
18. Take the back and lay it down flat, taking one end and breaking it, separating the back into two parts.
19. Take the back rib cage section and remove long bone in the same manner that the breast bone was removed. You then have two pieces of meat, each containing one long bone.
20. The back pieces resemble the wing pieces in texture, shape and size; the six pieces can be packaged together for freezing and later use.
21. Package the two legs or drumsticks together.
22. Take all the scraps and cover with water and stew until meat falls off the bone, resulting in about three pints of cooked-off meat and 7 pints of broth from a 20 pound turkey.

Test Your Play Of Dummy

By B. JAY BECKER

1. You are in Six Spades and North leads the king of clubs. How would you play the hand?

2. You are in Three Notrump and North leads the king of diamonds, South discarding a spade. How would you insure making the contract, assuming best defense?

West		East
♠—	N	♠AKQ75
♥AKQ4	W E	♥109
♦J10986	S	♦5432
♣AKQ4		♣109

1. There are only two entries to dummy and the question is whether it is better to try a trump finesse, after taking the ace of clubs, or a diamond finesse. It is true that South may have either king, and to that extent either finesse has a 50-50 chance to win, but so far as making the contract is concerned you are much better off to start with a diamond finesse.

If South has the king your worries are over because you will next play the ace and another trump, planning to repeat the diamond finesse later on. Of course, you may lose the early diamond finesse and will then require South to have the singleton or doubleton king of spades to avoid a trump loser, but, even so, the diamond finesse is preferable to the trump finesse at trick two.

The decisive factor is that the early trump finesse does not necessarily make the slam if it succeeds, because South may have four or five trumps to the king, while the diamond finesse does make the slam if South has the king. The diamond finesse is hence the better play.

2. Play the eight of diamonds on the king. If North shifts to another suit, you gain an entry to dummy that guarantees at least nine tricks.

If North continues diamonds, cashing the A-Q, you play the 10-9. North still can't play a new suit or you'd make four notrump, so he leads the seven of diamonds. When you play the six on it, North is at the end of his rope. Whatever he plays, you have the rest of the tricks.

If you play the six of diamonds on the ace, king or queen, you may go down. You can't be certain of more than eight tricks.

The hand was composed by George Coffin, whose specialty is setting up challenging contracts that cannot be defeated however the cards are divided. But, of course, you must play them right.

It may be that you'll have to "talk turkey" to find the cheapest meat available for your family this winter.

Although turkey prices are slightly above those of 1974, most tom turkeys are just as cheap or cheaper than they were two years ago.

And if you want to spend a little time in advance preparation, you wouldn't need to spend all day in the kitchen Thanksgiving or Christmas, plus your family won't get tired of turkey because of the several days of leftover meals which result from cooking the whole stuffed bird.

Doyle Free, general manager of the Nebraska Poultry Industries, says that by boning a turkey in advance of cooking, turkey becomes the "cheapest meat you can buy."

He contends by preparing the turkey as rolled breast and thigh roasts, one can prepare Thanksgiving dinner in less than three hours and still have other parts of the turkey frozen for later uses such as barbecued turkey, sandwiches and salads.

Free says that by buying frozen turkeys between now and Christmas when they are cheapest, families can enjoy turkey meals, for example, once a week without tiring of the meat.

He suggests buying and freezing the whole turkey until within about six weeks of the time you would plan to cook various meals from that turkey.

Then thaw the turkey so all but the interior of the bird is thawed and then cut and bone the turkey and package it for refreezing for later use.

However, he strongly recommends that all the boned turkey be used within about six weeks of the time it is cut up and frozen.

For further savings, Free says that consumers may purchase "missing parts" turkeys if they make sure that they are getting a plump bird with a "good finish" to insure that it has sufficient fat for flavorful eatring.

Some of these birds, which are inspected but ungraded, are lacking in sufficient fat, he said.

However, he suggests starting with a Grade A USDA-inspected turkey if you're planning to cook a whole bird for Thanksgiving and/or Christmas.

If one of the wing tips is missing from that so-called Grade A turkey, Free says not to be alarmed because this is permissible under the grading regulations and merely means that the wing was clipped when the turkey was a day old to prevent the bird's flying.

Whether cooking the whole bird or turkey rolls, Free stresses the use of a meat thermometer inserted in the thickest portion of the meat.

"Don't get the 98 cent kind, but get a good meat thermometer," he said.

When that thermometer registers 170 degrees, the meat is done, Free said, noting that a breast roll will cook to that temperature in slightly over two hours.

The rolls should be roasted in the foil in which they were frozen in an open pan in a 300 to 325 degree oven. If you wish to have it browned, you can slit the foil about 15 minutes before taking it out of the oven.

After removing the turkey rolled roast from the oven, it should be allowed to stand for 15 minutes before cutting with an electric knife, Free says, pointing out that this added time allows for completion of cooking and penetration of the juices into the meat.

One turkey breast will serve between eight and 11 people, according to Free, while each of the thigh rolls provides four or five servings.

The thigh rolls require about 20 to 30 minutes less cooking time than the breast rolls, he said.

Free suggests that the turkey rolls can also be cut into turkey steaks and prepared in a shorter period of time, and the frozen package of four wing pieces and two back pieces is excellent barbecuing meat.

Cook the six pieces with a small amount of water in a slow cooker until nearly ready to fall off the bone; brush with barbecue sauce and broil about 10 minutes.

Boning Made Easy

Steps for boning a turkey as presented in a demonstration by Doyle Free, general manager of Nebraska Poultry Industries:

1. Pull legs apart and remove the neck and giblets from the turkey cavity.
2. Lay the turkey on its side and spread the wing out as far as it will go.
3. With a sharp knife, follow the wing around to where the joint fits in place and remove the wing.
4. To remove the leg, cut through skin between the thigh and the body cavity and pull the leg and thigh outward. The joint should pop out of its socket. Cut the thigh from the back bone.
5. Repeat process for other wing and leg.
6. Cut through rib cage to separate back from breast and pull apart into two pieces.
7. To bone the breast, lay it out flat and place the knife along side of breastbone and follow the bone straight forward to the mass of skin in neck area.
8. Follow with knife on around rib cage, scraping and cutting as you go.
9. Repeat the process for other side of breast.
10. Cut off the long piece of skin from the neck area back to where breast starts.
11. To prepare the breast roll, tear off piece of aluminum foil big enough to wrap up rolled piece of breast.
12. Bring two edges of foil up together, tucking top edge under, and roll back toward meat into a snug package.
13. Take the two ends of the package and roll them toward center of roll package. Make sure the package snugly fits the meat so that air pockets are kept at a minimum.
14. Cut thighs away from the leg. By feeling for the joint with the point of the knife, you will be able to cut the thigh apart easily.
15. Bone out thighs using point of knife. On bottom end where knee cap was, there is some gristle which should be cut off.
16. Roll each thigh up individually in the same manner as the breasts were rolled.
17. Cut the wing in two at joint and cut off tips. Leave the tips in pan with other bones and scraps.
18. Take the back and lay it down flat, taking one end and breaking it, separating the back into two parts.
19. Take the back rib cage section and remove long bone in the same manner that the breast bone was removed. You then have two pieces of meat, each containing one long bone.
20. The back pieces resemble the wing pieces in texture, shape and size; the six pieces can be packaged together for freezing and later use.
21. Package the two legs or drumsticks together.
22. Take all the scraps and cover with water and stew until meat falls off the bone, resulting in about three pints of cooked-off meat and 7 pints of broth from a 20 pound turkey.

Test Your Play Of Dummy

By B. JAY BECKER

1. You are in Six Spades and North leads the king of clubs. How would you play the hand?

♠AQJ1098	N	♠52
♥AQJ	W E	♥K106
♦AQJ	S	♦974
♣6		♣AJ843

2. You are in Three Notrump and North leads the king of diamonds, South discarding a spade. How would you insure making the contract, assuming best defense?

♠—	N	♠AKQ75
♥AKQ4	W E	♥109
♦J10986	S	♦5432
♣AKQ4		♣109

1. There are only two entries to dummy and the question is whether it is better to try a trump finesse, after taking the ace of clubs, or a diamond finesse. It is true that South may have either king, and to that extent either finesse has a 50-50 chance to win, but so far as making the contract is concerned you are much better off to start with a diamond finesse.

If South has the king your worries are over because you will next play the ace and another trump, planning to repeat the diamond finesse later on. Of course, you may lose the early diamond finesse and will then require South to have the singleton or doubleton king of spades to avoid a trump loser, but, even so, the diamond finesse is preferable to the trump finesse at trick two.

The decisive factor is that the early trump finesse does not necessarily make the slam if it succeeds, because South may have four or five trumps to the king, while the diamond finesse does make the slam if South has the king. The diamond finesse is hence the better play.

2. Play the eight of diamonds on the king. If North shifts to another suit, you gain an entry to dummy that guarantees at least nine tricks.

If North continues diamonds, cashing the A-Q, you play the 10-9. North still can't play a new suit or you'd make four notrump, so he leads the seven of diamonds. When you play the six on it, North is at the end of his rope. Whatever he plays, you have the rest of the tricks.

If you play the six of diamonds on the ace, king or queen, you may go down. You can't be certain of more than eight tricks.

The hand was composed by George Coffin, whose specialty is setting up challenging contracts that cannot be defeated however the cards are divided. But, of course, you must play them right.

Turkey Has Almost Human Traits

By LIANE GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

It's only right that turkeys are the center of attraction for most Thanksgiving feasts.

He exhibits a number of traditionally American traits.

Slim, smart and sleak in the wild, once domesticated the turkey gets stupid and goes to pot and paunch. And the conduct of a flock of turkeys brings to mind a suburban cocktail party.

The guests stand around in noisy little clusters, chattering constantly, shifting weight from one leg to another. Eventually the toms slip away to the fringes of the crowd, while the hens talk turkey in a tight, conversational knot.

The turkey is gregarious, vain and dumb, dumb, dumb. What other bird would drown in a downpour? Or lay her eggs while standing?

Herb Heil, a turkey grower in the Louisville area, claims most of the turkey's problems arise from innate curiosity.

'Have To See What It Is'

"If anything different shows up, they'll have to see what it is," Heil says. "Even if it eats turkey, they'll still come."

Heil and his wife, Amanda, run "a little pa and ma operation out here," and have been in the turkey business 35 years. This spring he bought only 8,000 day-old poults from the Mound Ridge, Ks., Hatchery.

While his sons were still home, Heil used to buy three times as many.

Fed Corn And Soybeans

They're fed a balanced ration of mainly corn and soybeans for 20 to 25 weeks. By market time, the hens weigh about 14 pounds and the toms weigh an average of 28 pounds apiece.

Heil is looking forward to a "pretty good" year for his turkeys after a "really bad" year in 1974. "We lost money last year," he says.

From their home operation, the Heils sell turkey in every imaginable form — smoked, hindquarters, breasts, steaks, in pastrami. Pure turkey goes for 68 cents a pound.

Like most Nebraska turkey farmers, Heil sends his birds to the Nebraska Turkey Growers plant at Gibbon for processing, at a cost of around 12 cents a pound.

500,000 Birds So Far

Reo Weeks, manager of the Gibbon operation, says employes have dressed 500,000 birds since the season started last June.

The Gibbon plant operates as a cooperative. All the Grade A birds processed there are marketed under the "Norbest" label and end up basting themselves in ovens all across the United States.

Weeks says processing is as painless as possible for the noble birds. They are stunned with an electric impulse before their throats are slit. After they are scalded, plucked, eviscerated and washed, they are trussed and thrust into big chill tanks.

The icy waters take the body heat out of the birds. In less than two hours, the gobblers are cooled about 60 degrees — from 100 to 32-38 degrees.

Solution Injected

Most of the Norbest birds are "self-basters," which simply means both sides of the breast are injected with a solution of salt and spices. Other processors inject butter, oils and secret concoctions.

Most of the turkeys are frozen; the rest are maintained at around 30 degrees and sold as "fresh dressed."

Leon's in Lincoln specializes in fresh-dressed birds which are trucked directly from the Sperling Farms at Arlington.

A truckload usually arrives the Monday before Thanksgiving. Mrs. Edgar Sperling boasts that the birds are "pure turkey . . . the real McCoy."

Jack O'Donnell of Leon's meat department said proudly, "We seem to have real good luck with these fresh birds. Everybody says they're real juicy."

Still Most Popular Guest

Which goes to show that for all his faults and fancies, the turkey is still the most popular guest for Thanksgiving dinner.

Thank heavens Benjamin Franklin didn't get his way. Ben was all for making the turkey our national emblem, instead of the bald eagle, which he regarded as a thief and a "rank coward."

Imagine watching the football games Thanksgiving Day and chomping down on a sandwich of lettuce, Durkee's dressing and our national emblem between two slices of whole wheat bread.

DEAR ABBY: Anyone want a wife? I'm 24-years-old, and I can't find a guy. I haven't had one date since high school.

Let me state my qualifications: I can cook and bake really well. I can sew and make all my own clothes, and I'm told I'm the best-dressed girl at the office. I have nice skin and teeth, and I keep my hair in themost flattering style for me.

I own my own car, color TV, stereo and have money in the bank.

I love all kinds of sports and outdoor activities like camping, fishing and hiking. I am well-liked by everyone at work and have many close friends.

Know why I don't get dates? I was told (by one of the guys I work with) it's because I'm overweight! Now before you start condemning me, let me say I am not grossly obese. I have lost some weight, but my doctor says I can't lose any more because I am a large-boned girl. I am well-proportioned and can play tennis better than my thin friends.

Why do guys want thin girls? I am ready to give up.

DISGUSTED

DEAR DISGUSTED: I don't mean to be unkind, but plenty of overweight girls are dating up a storm. A young woman who has an attractive, outgoing personality and gets involved in activities (church, political or volunteer) is bound to meet a fellow who will want to see her agin.

Instead of wondering what's wrong with YOU, forget about yourself and concentrate on doing something for someone else. It will add a charming dimension to your personality and enhance your chances.

DEAR ABBY: We recently attended a beautiful outdoor wedding in a park.

The bride and groom made up their own vows and spoke them aloud to each other, but there was no minister present to pronounce them man and wife.

Is it legal in California for a couple to marry themselves?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: No. And it's not legal anywhere else, either.

High Court Rules:
Poker, Bridge Games Of Chance

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday ruled that when the luck of the draw determines the winner, such as in poker or bridge, then the element of chance is predominant

In so ruling, the high court rejected a contention by John Long, president of Indoor Enterprises Inc , which operates the Golden Cue Recreation Center in Lincoln, that games of poker and bridge are games of skill and therefore do not violate Nebraska s antigambling laws

In reaching its decision, the court relied upon its own test in determining whether something is a game of chance or skill

That test

"The test of the character of the game is not whether it contains an element of chance or an element of skill, but which of these is the dominating element that determines the result of the game "

In the case at bar, Long called in his behalf a nationally recognized card expert and author of books on the subject, Oswald Jacoby He contended the primary element was skill

The Supreme Court said it couldn't agree because the outcome of poker and bridge still depends primarily on what the next card drawn is and the player, unless he s cheating, has no control over the draw

Long s attorneys also asked the high court to take "judicial notice,' or give its approval to gambling, on the grounds that cards of poker and bridge are common and therefore to continue to deem them illegal is not facing reality

The attorneys said gambling, in the form of cards, was widespread in Lincoln and other places

The Supreme Court, noting that Oswald and Long were the only witnesses called on the issue, said for it to take judicial notice there must be proof and not just "conjecture or suspicion gossip or rumor" or common assertion

'A court must be reasonably certain of everything of which it takes judicial notice," the court said, which means if there is any room for doubt at all there must be competent evidence introduced which supports a particular contention

Long s attorneys offered no proof and therefore, the court said, there s really nothing to take judicial notice of

Long took the matter to court because at one point he started the "checkmate Club " Members of that club paid a small fee to him and in return they were allowed the use of a room on his premises to play poker, bridge, chess and checkers

Upon learning of the possibility the county attorney would move against him, Long disbanded the club, he hoped temporarily, and filed suit to block any interference from the county attorney so he could start the club again

Claim Against Driver Rejected

The State Supreme Court Thursday rejected a contention that the driver of a car involved in a car-pedestrian accident in Omaha in which two teenagers was killed was responsible for damages to a third teenager who lived

On Jan 20, 1973, Kristine Therkildsen, then age 15, and two companions, Galen Johnson and Michaela Shea, were crossing Military Ave. near Fort St when a car driven by James E Gottsch struck them.

Miss Therkildsen was injured but lived The other two died

Suit was filed for damages in behalf of Miss Therkildsen but a Douglas County District Court jury, concluding there was negligence involved on the part of the teenagers which outweighed any driver negligence, found for Gottsch

The girl's attorneys appealed saying the driver should have yielded the right-of-way

Court: Driver Who Can't Comply Must Submit To Alternative Test

By United Press International

The Nebraska Supreme Court Thursday ruled that when a motorist decides to submit to a urine test, but can't provide a specimen, he must agree to another test to determine intoxication

To refuse to take either alternative test of blood or breath, the high court said, is the same as refusing to take any test to determine intoxication and the motorist thus becomes, under the implied consent law, subject to loss of license

The implied consent law is the one that says when a person gets a license to drive a motor vehicle he implies his consent to, when asked, submit to tests to determine if he has been driving while intoxicated

The decision was handed down in a case appealed from the Red Willow County District Court in which Donald Mackey challenged his loss of license under the implied consent law on the grounds that even though he could not provide a urine sample, he did not violate the implied consent law by refusing to take any test at all

The court observed in Mackey's case that other intoxication tests were available but he refused to submit to them

The Nebraska high court noted that the Minnesota Supreme Court was once confronted with the same situation and decided to apply that court's finding to Nebraska

In that case, inability to provide a urine sample, within a reasonable amount of time, and refusal to submit to other tests was deemed a violation of the implied consent law and grounds for revoking a drivers license

In other decisions the Supreme Court

—Reversed and remanded to the Douglas County District Court a determination that Edward R Mosley violated terms and conditions of a probation imposed by the court after he pleaded guilty to receiving stolen property

—Agreed with the Lincoln County District Court s decision to affirm the revocation of a drivers license held by Lester Hyland on points by the State Motor Vehicles Department

—Affirmed with modifications the terms of a divorce decree issued by the Lancaster County District Court to Dorothy and Lyle Hermance

Huskers Spurred, 28-21 Victory Over Oklahoma Predicted

Spurs That Jingle Jangle Jingle

SPORTS SIGNALS

By Bob Owens
Star Sports Editor

The 'youngsters' of Big Eight Conference coaching fame — Nebraska's Tom Osborne and Oklahoma's Barry Switzer — will put their'spurs' on Saturday even though they don't know how to wear thm yet.

Bear Bryant won't be there in Norman, Okla., to watch. He's got an important date viewing 'winner' Penn State in a loss to Pittsurgh in Three Rivers Stadium — sort of a scouting mission for the Bryant Bowl game in New Orleans New Year's Eve.

Anyway, Osborne's spurs will be sharper than Switzer's as the Cornhuskers outscore the Sooners 28-21 to earn the right to play the loser of the Michigan-Ohio State game, a nationally televised affair which will determine the Big Ten champion.

I like Michigan to take the Buckeyes to earn the Rose Bowl invitation. It ll be a defensive struggle with the Wolverines coming out with an 11-10 victory.

Another prediction: Archie Griffin's 100-yard-a-game streak will be snapped by the Wolverines, but he'll still repeat as Heisman Trophy winner. Joe Washington will be second in the voting.

In other Big Eight games, Missouri over Kansas 24-20 to earn the Sun Bowl bid, Colorado's AstroBluebonnet-bound Buffaloes over Kansas State 44-3 and Oklahoma State over Iowa State 35-7.

Bear Not Popular Man

Gene Walter of Columbus sends this poem which he believes expresses a lot of people's feelings:

Make a deal and make a bribe,
Play a loser and win the ride.
'Bear's' sportsmanship has really died,
And the Crimson Tide has lost its Pride.

Clifford J. Casey of Lincoln suggests: "If coaches become like the Bear after years of coaching experience (Nebraska, in particular, has shown this to be extremely unlikely), then I think you should take his number of years, subtract six, and make that the limit. After that, forced retirement, and an infinite supply of adhesive tape for his keepers to use on his mouth."

Alwin N. Scism of Deweese writes: "Age may, as the Bear assumes, have its prerogatives but in this situation the position attributed to him is dirtying to his school, his team, his associates — and, yes, to his long record as a football coach. One can only ponder the line of reasoning which leads him to flaunt what most coaches would want to keep hidden.

Long-time "Big Red" fan W.W. Cook, one of many who bought a brich for $100 when Memorial Stadium was built, thinks the NCAA should make a full and complete investigation of the Sugar Bowl situation. I agree.

California Picked

Here are my other predictions on Saturday football games:

Big Ten: Northwestern over Illinois, Michigan State over Iowa, Minnesota over Wisconsin, Purdue over Indiana.

Pacific-8: California over Stanford, Washington over Washington State, Oregon State over Oregon.

Southwest: Baylor over SMU, Rice over TCU, Arkansas over Texas Tech.

Southeastern: LSU over Tulane, Mississippi State over Mississippi, Tennessee over Kentucky, Alabama over Idle.

East: Brown over Columbia, Dartmouth over Princeton, Yale over Harvard, Penn over Cornell, West Virginia over Syracuse, Boston College over Massachusetts, Holy Cross over Connecticut, Rutgers over Colgate.

Midwest: Miami of Florida over Notre Dame, Toledo over Kent State, Southern Illinois over Lamar, Bowling Green over Texas-Arlington, West Texas over Louisville.

South: Duke over North Carolina, Florida State over Houston, Maryland over Virginia, South Carolina over Clemson, VPI over Wake Forest, Arkansas State over Louisiana Tech, Ohio U. over Marshall, Richmond over William & Mary.

West: Arizona over Utah, Air Force over Wyoming, Colorado State over Utah State, Hawaii over Pacific, Northern Illinois over Idaho, New Mexico over New Mexico State, San Diego State over Long Beach State, Brigham Young over Texas-El Paso.

Lions Like Boden

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — He wasn't a "name" player. He didn't come from a "name" school.

And he doesn't play at a glamorous position.

But Lynn Boden of South Dakota State and an Osceola native was Detroit's No. 1 National Football League draft choice this year, and he hasn't let the Lions down.

"Lynn Boden has come in leaps and bounds. He's not the average guard.

"He's an outstanding guard in the NFL," Lions' coach Rick Forzano said of the rookie.

The choice of Boden pronounced Bo-DEEN as the No. 1 draft pick drew considerable criticism.

Detroit has had some real disappointments among its top picks in recent years and critics were suggesting that the Lions made another mistake.

They should have chosen running back Anthony Davis of Southern California, some shouted.

However, Boden has developed so well that criticism of his selection has vanished.

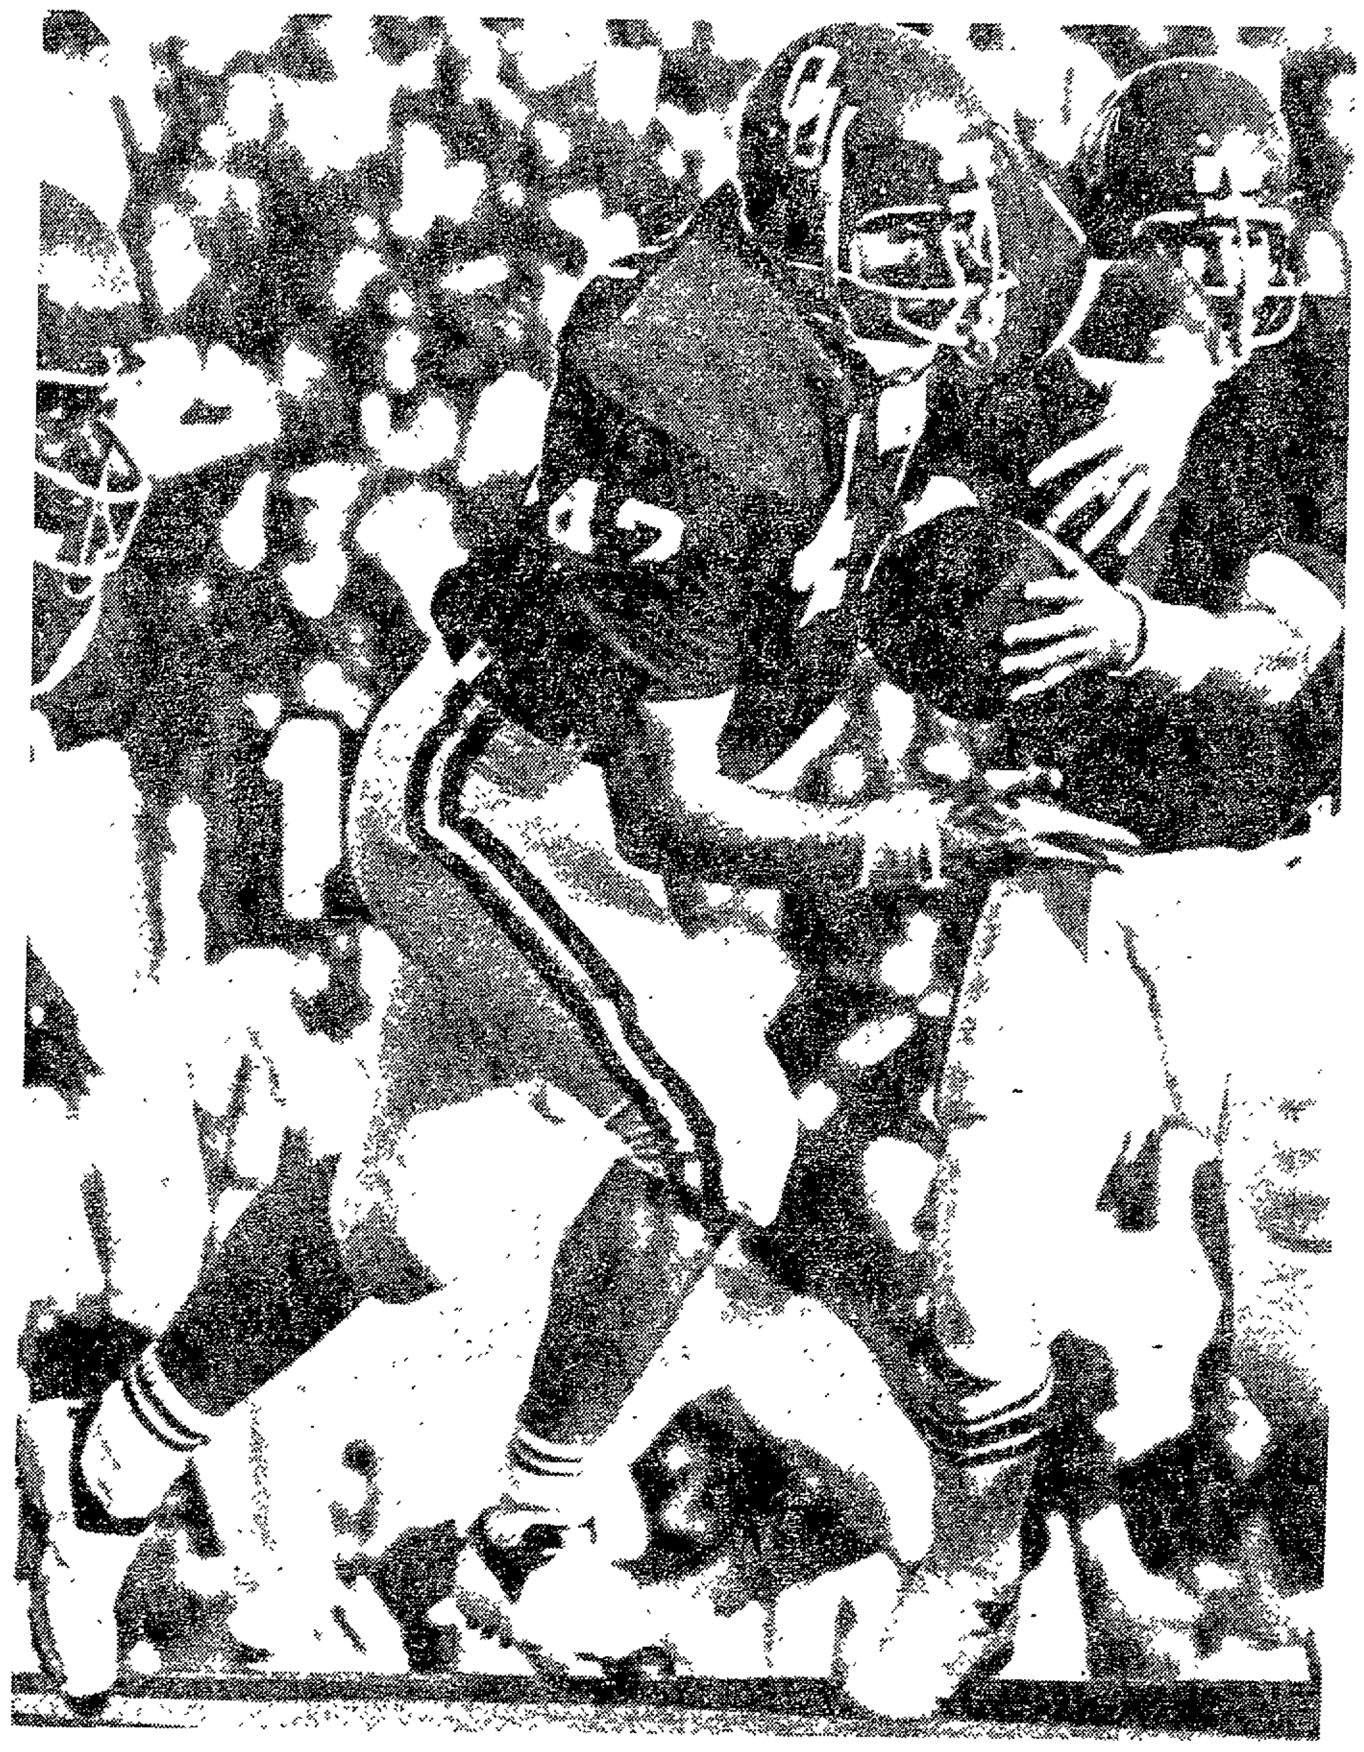
He now anchors a talented offensive line that includes veterans Jon Morris at center, Bob Kowalkowski at right guard opposite Boden, Rocky Freitas and Jim Yarbrough at tackle and Charlie Sanders at tight end.

Boden has had the job of regularly blocking the best opponent defensive lineman a number of games.

Forzano said his offensive linemen "work well together."

"Our offensive line is one of the fine things that's happened to this football team," Forzano said.

"Last year we had trouble getting a first down against the wind," he added with a grin.



Oklahoma fullback Jim Littrell sparks the Sooners' inside running game. Last year he didn't find daylight until late in the second half, but then helped OU put together three scoring drives to net a come-from-behind victory.

'Braggin Rights' On Line With Close Of Season

United Press International

This is the week of "THE" game. Or, is it the "BIG" game?" It all depends in which section of the country you happen to live

Chances are there is a "crucial" game right near you.

This is the final big weekend of the college football season, and there are five games on the schedule Saturday that are of significance in determining conference champions and-or post-season bowl representatives.

There are also several contests involving traditional end-of-the season intra-state rivalries where there is nothing more at stake than plain 'ol "braggin' rights." But, it all contributes to making this weekend perhaps the most interesting of the year.

The two games that will attract most of the attention nation-wide are Ohio State at Michigan, which is being played for the Big Ten Conference title, and Nebraska at Oklahoma, which is for the Big Eight Conference crown.

The winner of Ohio State-Michigan, of course, will represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, but the loser won't be so bad off either. The Orange Bowl has already said it will take the loser and match it against the winner of the Nebraska-Oklahoma game.

Nebraska, ranked second nationally, will be out of the post-season fare if it loses Saturday. Since the Big Eight runnerup was bypassed by the Sugar and Cotton Bowls, the Cornhuskers' players voted not to accept an invitation to play in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz. Oklahoma, however, will go to the Fiesta Bowl if it loses.

This will mark the fourth straight season that Michigan and Ohio State have played for the Big Ten Conference title on the final game of their regular season, and if recent history is any measuring device, the game figures to be a tight, defensive battle During the last four games Ohio State has outscored Michigan by only two points, 43-41

Since 1912, when both teams were in the Big Ten for the first time together, the Michigan-Ohio State game has decided the title 14 times in 59 years. The two clubs have been co-champions for the last three seasons but in each of those three years Ohio State has ended up in the Rose Bowl.

As usual, this has been a harried week for both coaches. Woody Hayes of Ohio State and Bo Schembechler of Michigan have both closed their practice sessions to the media and photographers. Schembechler lashed out at a photographer and sports writer Wednesday after he had caught the photographer taking pictures of a Wolverines' practice from private property across the street from the practice field.

"I don't want any pictures of our formations to get back so Ohio State can use them" said Schembechler, whose club boasts an 8-0-2 record. "I don't want them to see any of our formations. That's why the practices are closed."

Ohio State (10-0) has been installed a seven-point choice, even though the game is at Ann Arbor, Mich., and that seems to be giving the Buckeyes an awfully high advantage. This game has not been decided by more than three points since 1970. Also, Ohio State's last two trips to Michigan have resulted in a 10-10 tie in 1973 and a 10-7 loss in 1971.

Other games of major interest Saturday will be California at Stanford, Missouri at Kansas and Harvard at Yale.

The winner of the California-Stanford contest, known as "The Big Game" throughout the years, has a chance to become Pacific Eight Conference champion and the host team in the Rose Bowl, if UCLA loses to Southern California on Nov. 28. Stanford leads the 73-year-old series 36-31-10 but California is rated a one-point choice.

The winner of the Missouri-Kansas contest will be in the Sun Bowl opposite Pittsburgh while the Harvard-Yale battle, known as "THE" game in Northeast circles, is for the Ivy League championship.

Other traditional rivalries on tap for Saturday include Penn State at Pittsburgh, Clemson at South Carolina, Oregon State at Oregon, Washington State at Washington, North Carolina at Duke and Purdue at Indiana.

Cal-Stanford Added To ABC

New York (UPI) — The American Broadcasting Company said Thursday it would bring portions of Saturday's California-Stanford game live to audiences watching the regularly scheduled Penn State-Pitt program.

The ABC telecast features a doubleheader, Ohio State-Michigan from 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m. CST and Penn State-Pitt, 3-6 p.m.

Japanese Fan Came To Study Football

NORMAN, Okla (AP) People who have joked for years about the antics of Oklahoma's point-hungry "chinamen" do a double-take when they run across Tatsuhiko Mori.

The "Chinamen" tag was born about 20 years ago when a disgruntled fan phoned an Oklahoma City paper to complain that the Sooners, in the midst of a long winning streak, had only beaten Kansas State by a couple of touchdowns. The writer who took the call wondered out loud. "How much rice can a Chinaman eat?"

Mori is Japanese, not Chinese, but he's been hanging around the Oklahoma Football team for so long that a local magazine listed him among the top 10 Sooner fans.

"How long will you be staying?" the desk cleark at the motel asked when Mori arrived for the start of fall practice last Aug. 18.

"Ninety-six days," said Mori.

"I came to study football," explained Mori, who works for a sporting goods company in Japan, produces NCAA televised football games over Japanese TV, does freelance sports writing and coaches the Osaka Sidewinders, a club in the semipro Japan Football League.

And study is what he does.

"I attend the offensive staff meeting at 8:30 a m. Next I go to the meeting of the offensive backs and linemen. Then I go to practice. After practice I attend the offensive staff meeting at night.

"I am learing a lot, but the coaches speak too fast and their English is very difficult to understand."

Anyway, terms like wishbone, football, touchdown and quarterback are the same in Japanese.

"We have 20 teams in our league." Mori explained. "There are 12 teams in the Tokyo Division and eight in the Osaka Division. And more than 70 colleges play football in Japan. We get very little attendance at semipro games and coaches get no pay, but next year we will become professional and can pay coaches and players. I believe football can become the No. 1 sport in Japan."

The Osaka Sidewinders have don all right without Mori but right after the Oklahoma-Nebraska game Saturday he'll head home for the championship game against the Osaka Eagles. "But I'll come back for Orange Bowl," he says.

Game Warden Arrests Himself

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

A rumored violation of game laws by a Nebraska Game and Parks Commission conservation officer proved factual recently, according to commission officials.

Dayton Shultis, a veteran conservation officer in Lancaster County, was given maximum fines and a 20-day no-pay suspension for shooting two hen turkeys during the 1975 spring tom turkey hunting season.

"The question was brought to him, and he admitted it," said Cari Gettmann, head of the G&P law enforcement division. "He then issued a complaint against himself and paid the maximum fines."

Shultis paid $266 in fines for the two hens. In Nebraska's spring turkey season only the male of the species is legal game Shultis explained, however, the taking of the hens was purely accidental.

He indicated he had shot at what he thought to be tom turkeys on two different days in the Pine Ridge area and both times he had killed the hens by accident. The first was mistaken identity and the second was hitting the wrong bird in a running flock.

Hunter's Mistake

"It was one of those situations where you have to be a hunter to be able to put yourself in that position," he said. "I wish I could bring those turkeys back to life or say I didn't do it but I can't. I pinched myself and paid the maximum fines. That's all I could do."

"A decision such as this can be debated," said Bill Bailey, assistant director for the commission. "I thought it was fair and just under the circumstances. The individual made a mistake. I reviewed his record as a conservation officer upon learning of the situation and he has a good record. Every report filed about him has been good.

"Considering all the circumstances and his five years of duty as an officer, the punishment was just," Bailey added. "He certainly had no intent to shoot a hen. He simply made a mistake and we're all human."

"This is the first time since I've been here, and that's been 23 some years, that something like this has come up," Gettmann said. "There was no intent in his mind to shoot a hen. Of course you're supposed to know. That's the jest of it.

Bad Situation

"It's not a good situation, especially for him, but I have to give him a heckuva lot of credit for being able to stand up and do what he did. He's been a very good officer. Not only is he good at his job but he's excellent at working with youth and that's an important part of his job, too."

Shultis, who has been known for his home wildlife veterinarian clinic where he'll take in crippled or wounded birds and animals and nurse them back to health, said he had delayed taking action upon himself because of his concern for his job and family.

"It's very embarrassing," he said. "After I'd done it (shot the hens) I just didn't know what to do so I didn't do anything at the time I know it's going to hurt me and it's also going to hurt the commission. That's what bothers me, too. I know I can live with the trouble I've brought on myself but I sure hate what I've done to the commission."

Shultis said he was very happy with the penalty under the circumstances since he thought he would have lost his position. He also indicated he would return to the job after the suspension period to continue to be the best conservation officer he knows how to be.

Fiesta Apologizes For Chicken Gift

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Fiesta Bowl board of directors sent a telegram to the Nebraska football team Thursday, denouncing the action of a group of persons who sent the Cornhuskers a box of chickens for rejecting a conditional bid to the Dec. 26 game in Tempe.

The telegram said in part: "The Fiesta Bowl board of directors wants the University of Nebraska and its fine football team to know that it deplores the actions of a group of tasteless, unthinking individuals who sent a package and message to the Cornhuskers. It is particularly disturbing to the Fiesta Bowl that these individuals profess to be Fiesta Bowl supporters. We categorically reject any support of that kind."

Earlier this week, the loser of Saturday's Nebraska-Oklahoma game was invited to oppose the Western Athletic Conference champion in Fiesta Bowl. Oklahoma said it would accept if it lost the Big Eight Conference title game, but Nebraska players rejected any bowl offer except the Orange Bowl.

A group signing itself "Fans of the Fiesta Bowl" Wednesday night sent 11 cornish hens to the Nebraska team with a message suggesting it was afraid to meet the WAC champion, either Arizona State or Arizona.

In its reply, the Fiesta Bowl board said, "We can assure Nebraska this action in no way represents the feelings of 350 volunteers and 3,000 members who have worked so hard to make the Fiesta Bowl the major attraction that it has become in just five years. The Fiesta Bowl holds Nebraska in the highest regard and commends its football team for thinking only of victory in Saturday's Oklahoma game.."

The telegram was signed by Fiesta Bowl president George Isbell and executive director John Reid.

Ferragamo Rumor Proves To Be False

A concerted effort to start a rumor that Nebraska quarterback Vince Ferragamo had been injured in an automobile accident was apparently unsuccessful Thursday.

A caller or group of callers placed calls to radio stations and newspapers asking for more information on the accident

Police officials said they were besieged with calls about the rumor. But in their jurisdiction, they said, Ferragamo had been in no accident. Sports information officials at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln also said the rumor was untrue.

There was speculation in many quarters that someone may have been attempting to get bookmakers to temporarily change the gambling odds on the Nebraska-Oklahoma football game this Saturday on the basis of the misinformation.

High winds, rain and freezing temperatures forced the second-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers indoors for their final tuneup of the regular season.

The practice session was split, the offensive and defensive units working out about 75 minutes each in sweats.

"If anything, I wish we could have gone outside today," said coach Tom Osborne of the last workout before Saturday clash with Oklahoma.

"We had some things we could have worked on, that you can't cover indoors," Osborne added.

All 48 players slated to make the trip to Norman, including previously-injured nose guard John Lee, offensive tackle Steve Hoins and defensive end Bob Martin, worked out Thursday.

All three are expected to be ready for the sixth-ranked Sooners

The Huskers will leave for Norman at 1 p m. Friday. They will run through a brief workout in Norman at 3.30.

The Oklahoma Sooners had an abbreviated practice, but scheduled another workout, with emphasis on the kicking game, Friday.

Thursday's practice got started 20 minutes late because of annual team awards

"Due to the delay, we weren't able to get to our kicking game," coach Barry Switzer said. "We will cover it extensively tomorrow."

Oklahoma defensive line coach Rex Norris said Nebraska would present the Sooners with a more varied offensive attack than they have seen in recent weeks.

"They'll hammer at you," Norris said. "They have two good running backs and a good passer.

"As soon as you shut off their running game they'll hit you with a pass. So it's difficult to get a good pass rush when you know that they can run as well," he said.

"They present us with a great challenge"

Spurs That Jingle Jangle Jingle

The 'youngsters' of Big Eight Conference coaching fame — Nebraska's Tom Osborne and Oklahoma's Barry Switzer — will put their'spurs' on Saturday even though they don't know how to wear thm yet.

Bear Bryant won't be there in Norman, Okla., to watch. He's got an important date viewing 'winner' Penn State in a loss to Pittsurgh in Three Rivers Stadium — sort of a scouting mission for the Bryant Bowl game in New Orleans New Year's Eve.

Anyway, Osborne's spurs will be sharper than Switzer's as the Cornhuskers outscore the Sooners 28-21 to earn the right to play the loser of the Michigan-Ohio State game, a nationally televised affair which will determine the Big Ten champion.

I like Michigan to take the Buckeyes to earn the Rose Bowl invitation. It ll be a defensive struggle with the Wolverines coming out with an 11-10 victory.

Another prediction: Archie Griffin's 100-yard-a-game streak will be snapped by the Wolverines, but he'll still repeat as Heisman Trophy winner. Joe Washington will be second in the voting.

In other Big Eight games, Missouri over Kansas 24-20 to earn the Sun Bowl bid, Colorado's AstroBluebonnet-bound Buffaloes over Kansas State 44-3 and Oklahoma State over Iowa State 35-7.

Bear Not Popular Man

Gene Walter of Columbus sends this poem which he believes expresses a lot of people's feelings:

Make a deal and make a bribe,
Play a loser and win the ride.
'Bear's' sportsmanship has really died,
And the Crimson Tide has lost its Pride.

Clifford J. Casey of Lincoln suggests: "If coaches become like the Bear after years of coaching experience (Nebraska, in particular, has shown this to be extremely unlikely), then I think you should take his number of years, subtract six, and make that the limit. After that, forced retirement, and an infinite supply of adhesive tape for his keepers to use on his mouth."

Alwin N. Scism of Deweese writes: "Age may, as the Bear assumes, have its prerogatives but in this situation the position attributed to him is dirtying to his school, his team, his associates — and, yes, to his long record as a football coach. One can only ponder the line of reasoning which leads him to flaunt what most coaches would want to keep hidden.

Long-time "Big Red" fan W.W. Cook, one of many who bought a brich for $100 when Memorial Stadium was built, thinks the NCAA should make a full and complete investigation of the Sugar Bowl situation. I agree.

California Picked

Here are my other predictions on Saturday football games:

Big Ten: Northwestern over Illinois, Michigan State over Iowa, Minnesota over Wisconsin, Purdue over Indiana.

Pacific-8: California over Stanford, Washington over Washington State, Oregon State over Oregon.

Southwest: Baylor over SMU, Rice over TCU, Arkansas over Texas Tech.

Southeastern: LSU over Tulane, Mississippi State over Mississippi, Tennessee over Kentucky, Alabama over Idle.

Midwest: Miami of Florida over Notre Dame, Toledo over Kent State, Southern Illinois over Lamar, Bowling Green over Texas-Arlington, West Texas over Louisville.

South: Duke over North Carolina, Florida State over Houston, Maryland over Virginia, South Carolina over Clemson, VPI over Wake Forest, Arkansas State over Louisiana Tech, Ohio U. over Marshall, Richmond over William & Mary.

Lions Like Boden

Pontiac, Mich. (AP) — He wasn't a "name" player. He didn't come from a "name" school.

And he doesn't play at a glamorous position.

But Lynn Boden of South Dakota State and an Osceola native was Detroit's No. 1 National Football League draft choice this year, and he hasn't let the Lions down.

"Lynn Boden has come in leaps and bounds. He's not the average guard.

"He's an outstanding guard in the NFL," Lions' coach Rick Forzano said of the rookie.

The choice of Boden pronounced Bo-DEEN as the No. 1 draft pick drew considerable criticism.

Detroit has had some real disappointments among its top picks in recent years and critics were suggesting that the Lions made another mistake.

They should have chosen running back Anthony Davis of Southern California, some shouted.

However, Boden has developed so well that criticism of his selection has vanished.

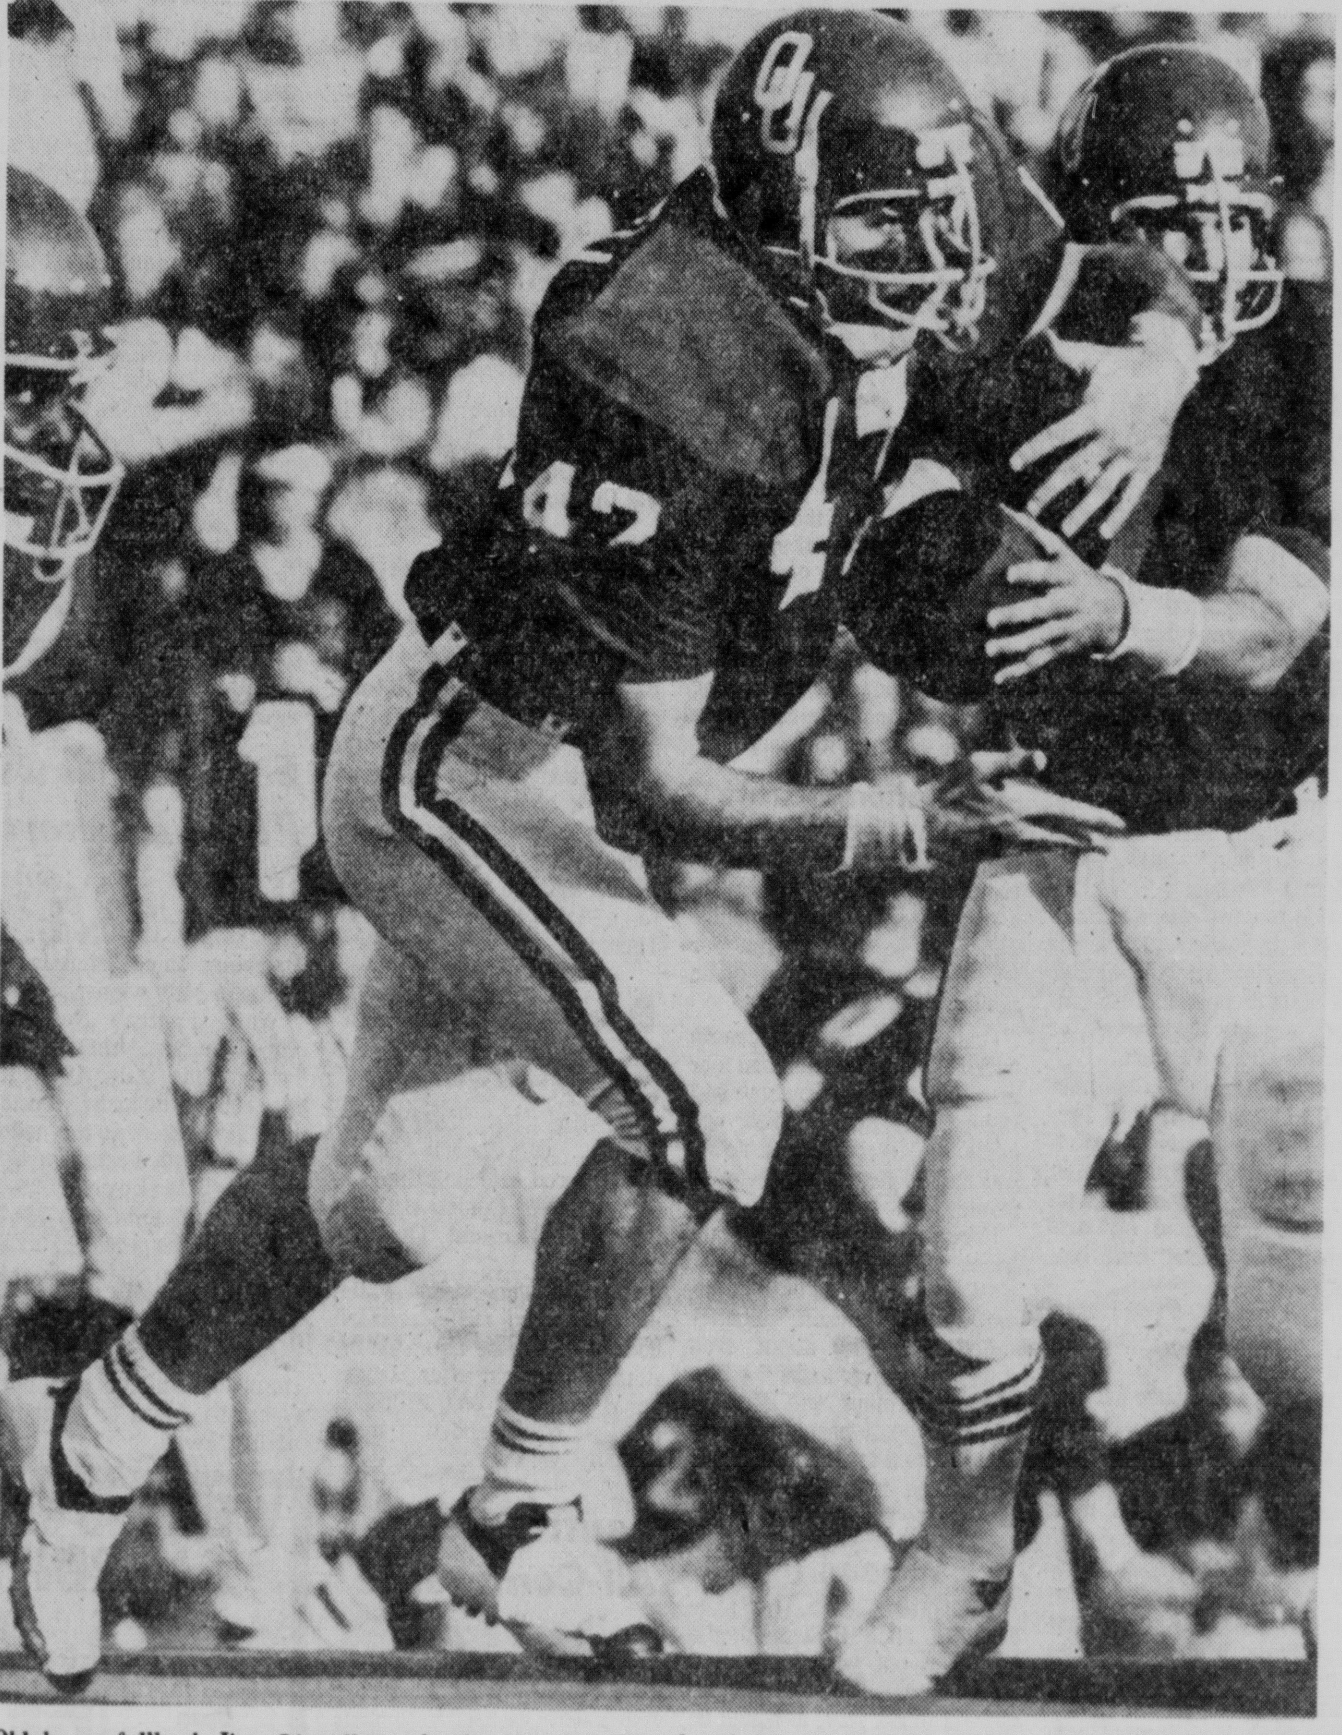
He now anchors a talented offensive line that includes veterans Jon Morris at center, Bob Kowalkowski at right guard opposite Boden, Rocky Freitas and Jim Yarbrough at tackle and Charlie Sanders at tight end.

Boden has had the job of regularly blocking the best opponent defensive lineman a number of games.

Forzano said his offensive linemen "work well together."

"Our offensive line is one of the fine things that's happened to this football team," Forzano said.

"Last year we had trouble getting a first down against the wind," he added with a grin.



Oklahoma fullback Jim Littrell sparks the Sooners' inside running game. Last year he didn't find daylight until late in the second half, but then helped OU put together three scoring drives to net a come-from-behind victory.

'Braggin Rights' On Line With Close Of Season

United Press International

This is the week of "THE" game. Or, is it the "BIG" game?" It all depends in which section of the country you happen to live.

Chances are there is a "crucial" game right near you.

This is the final big weekend of the college football season, and there are five games on the schedule Saturday that are of significance in determining conference champions and-or post-season bowl representatives.

There are also several contests involving traditional end-of-the season intra-state rivalries where there is nothing more at stake than plain 'ol "braggin' rights." But, it all contributes to making this weekend perhaps the most interesting of the year.

The two games that will attract most of the attention nation-wide are Ohio State at Michigan, which is being played for the Big Ten Conference title, and Nebraska at Oklahoma, which is for the Big Eight Conference crown.

The winner of Ohio State-Michigan, of course, will represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, but the loser won't be so bad off either. The Orange Bowl has already said it will take the loser and match it against the winner of the Nebraska-Oklahoma game.

Nebraska, ranked second nationally, will be out of the post-season fare if it loses Saturday. Since the Big Eight runnerup was bypassed by the Sugar and Cotton Bowls, the Cornhuskers' players voted not to accept an invitation to play in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz. Oklahoma, however, will go to the Fiesta Bowl if it loses.

This will mark the fourth straight season that Michigan and Ohio State have played for the Big Ten Conference title on the final game of their regular season, and if recent history is any measuring device, the game figures to be a tight, defensive battle. During the last four games Ohio State has outscored Michigan by only two points, 43-41.

Since 1912, when both teams were in the Big Ten for the first time together, the Michigan-Ohio State game has decided the title 14 times in 59 years. The two clubs have been co-champions for the last three seasons but in each of those three years Ohio State has ended up in the Rose Bowl.

As usual, this has been a harried week for both coaches. Woody Hayes of Ohio State and Bo Schembechler of Michigan have both closed their practice sessions to the media and photographers. Schembechler lashed out at a photographer and sports writer Wednesday after he had caught the photographer taking pictures of a Wolverines' practice from private property across the street from the practice field.

"I don't want any pictures of our formations to get back so Ohio State can use them" said Schembechler, whose club boasts an 8-0-2 record. "I don't want them to see any of our formations. That's why the practices are closed."

Ohio State (10-0) has been installed a seven-point choice, even though the game is at Ann Arbor, Mich., and that seems to be giving the Buckeyes an awfully high advantage. This game has not been decided by more than three points since 1970. Also, Ohio State's last two trips to Michigan have resulted in a 10-10 tie in 1973 and a 10-7 loss in 1971.

Other games of major interest Saturday will be California at Stanford, Missouri at Kansas and Harvard at Yale.

The winner of the California-Stanford contest, known as "The Big Game" throughout the years, has a chance to become Pacific Eight Conference champion and the host team in the Rose Bowl, if UCLA loses to Southern California on Nov. 28. Stanford leads the 73-year-old series 36-31-10 but California is rated a one-point choice.

The winner of the Missouri-Kansas contest will be in the Sun Bowl opposite Pittsburgh while the Harvard-Yale battle, known as "THE" game in Northeast circles, is for the Ivy League championship.

Other traditional rivalries on tap for Saturday include Penn State at Pittsburgh, Clemson at South Carolina, Oregon State at Oregon, Washington State at Washington, North Carolina at Duke and Purdue at Indiana.

Cal-Stanford Added To ABC

New York (UPI) — The American Broadcasting Company said Thursday it would bring portions of Saturday's California-Stanford game live to audiences watching the regularly scheduled Penn State-Pitt program.

The ABC telecast features a doubleheader, Ohio State-Michigan from 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m. CST and Penn State-Pitt, 3-6 p.m.

Japanese Fan Came To Study Football

NORMAN, Okla (AP) People who have joked for years about the antics of Oklahoma's point-hungry "chinamen" do a double-take when they run across Tatsuhiko Mori.

The "Chinamen" tag was born about 20 years ago when a disgruntled fan phoned an Oklahoma City paper to complain that the Sooners, in the midst of a long winning streak, had only beaten Kansas State by a couple of touchdowns. The writer who took the call wondered out loud, "How much rice can a Chinaman eat?"

Mori is Japanese, not Chinese, but he's been hanging around the Oklahoma Football team for so long that a local magazine listed him among the top 10 Sooner fans.

"How long will you be staying?" the desk cleark at the motel asked when Mori arrived for the start of fall practice last Aug. 18.

"Ninety-six days," said Mori.

"I came to study football," explained Mori, who works for a sporting goods company in Japan, produces NCAA televised football games over Japanese TV, does freelance sports writing and coaches the Osaka Sidewinders, a club in the semipro Japan Football League.

And study is what he does.

"I attend the offensive staff meeting at 8:30 a.m. Next I go to the meeting of the offensive backs and linemen. Then I go to practice. After practice I attend the offensive staff meeting at night.

"I am learing a lot, but the coaches speak too fast and their English is very difficult to understand."

Anyway, terms like wishbone, football, touchdown and quarterback are the same in Japanese.

"We have 20 teams in our league,'' Mori explained. "There are 12 teams in the Tokyo Division and eight in the Osaka Division. And more than 70 colleges play football in Japan. We get very little attendance at semipro games and coaches get no pay, but next year we will become professional and can pay coaches and players. I believe football can become the No. 1 sport in Japan."

The Osaka Sidewinders have don all right without Mori but right after the Oklahoma-Nebraska game Saturday he'll head home for the championship game against the Osaka Eagles. "But I'll come back for Orange Bowl," he says.

Fiesta Apologizes For Chicken Gift

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The Fiesta Bowl board of directors sent a telegram to the Nebraska football team Thursday, denouncing the action of a group of persons who sent the Cornhuskers a box of chickens for rejecting a conditional bid to the Dec. 26 game in Tempe.

The telegram said in part: "The Fiesta Bowl board of directors wants the University of Nebraska and its fine football team to know that it deplores the actions of a group of tasteless, unthinking individuals who sent a package and message to the Cornhuskers. It is particularly disturbing to the Fiesta Bowl that these individuals profess to be Fiesta Bowl supporters. We categorically reject any support of that kind."

Earlier this week, the loser of Saturday's Nebraska-Oklahoma game was invited to oppose the Western Athletic Conference champion in Fiesta Bowl. Oklahoma said it would accept if it lost the Big Eight Conference title game, but Nebraska players rejected any bowl offer except the Orange Bowl.

A group signing itself "Fans of the Fiesta Bowl" Wednesday night sent 11 cornish hens to the Nebraska team with a message suggesting it was afraid to meet the WAC champion, either Arizona State or Arizona.

In its reply, the Fiesta Bowl board said, "We can assure Nebraska this action in no way represents the feelings of 350 volunteers and 3,000 members who have worked so hard to make the Fiesta Bowl the major attraction that it has become in just five years. The Fiesta Bowl holds Nebraska in the highest regard and commends its football team for thinking only of victory in Saturday's Oklahoma game..'

The telegram was signed by Fiesta Bowl president George Isbell and executive director John Reid.

Ferragamo Rumor Proves To Be False

A concerted effort to start a rumor that Nebraska quarterback Vince Ferragamo had been injured in an automobile accident was apparently unsuccessful Thursday.

A caller or group of callers placed calls to radio stations and newspapers asking for more information on the accident.

Police officials said they were besieged with calls about the rumor. But in their jurisdiction, they said, Ferragamo had been in no accident. Sports information officials at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln also said the rumor was untrue.

There was speculation in many quarters that someone may have been attempting to get bookmakers to temporarily change the gambling odds on the Nebraska-Oklahoma football game this Saturday on the basis of the misinformation.

High winds, rain and freezing temperatures forced the second-ranked Nebraska Cornhuskers indoors for their final tuneup of the regular season.

The practice session was split, the offensive and defensive units working out about 75 minutes each in sweats.

"If anything, I wish we could have gone outside today," said coach Tom Osborne of the last workout before Saturday clash with Oklahoma.

"We had some things we could have worked on, that you can't cover indoors," Osborne added.

All 48 players slated to make the trip to Norman, including previously-injured nose guard John Lee, offensive tackle Steve Hoins and defensive end Bob Martin, worked out Thursday.

All three are expected to be ready for the sixth-ranked Sooners.

The Huskers will leave for Norman at 1 p.m. Friday. They will run through a brief workout in Norman at 3:30.

The Oklahoma Sooners had an abbreviated practice, but scheduled another workout, with emphasis on the kicking game, Friday.

Thursday's practice got started 20 minutes late because of annual team awards.

"Due to the delay, we weren't able to get to our kicking game," coach Barry Switzer said. "We will cover it extensively tomorrow."

Oklahoma defensive line coach Rex Norris said Nebraska would present the Sooners with a more varied offensive attack than they have seen in recent weeks.

"They'll hammer at you," Norris said. "They have two good running backs and a good passer.

"As soon as you shut off their running game they'll hit you with a pass. So it's difficult to get a good pass rush when you know that they can run as well," he said.

Game Warden Arrests Himself

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Writer

A rumored violation of game laws by a Nebraska Game and Parks Commission conservation officer proved factual recently, according to commission officials.

Dayton Shultis, a veteran conservation officer in Lancaster County, was given maximum fines and a 20-day no-pay suspension for shooting two hen turkeys during the 1975 spring tom turkey hunting season.

"The question was brought to him, and he admitted it," said Carl Gettmann, head of the G&P law enforcement division. "He then issued a complaint against himself and paid the maximum fines."

Shultis paid $266 in fines for the two hens. In Nebraska's spring turkey season only the male of the species is legal game. Shultis explained, however, the taking of the hens was purely accidental.

He indicated he had shot at what he thought to be tom turkeys on two different days in the Pine Ridge area and both times he had killed the hens by accident. The first was mistaken identity and the second was hitting the wrong bird in a running flock.

Hunter's Mistake

"It was one of those situations where you have to be a hunter to be able to put yourself in that position," he said. "I wish I could bring those turkeys back to life or say I didn't do it but I can't. I pinched myself and paid the maximum fines. That's all I could do."

"A decision such as this can be debated," said Bill Bailey, assistant director for the commission. "I thought it was fair and just under the circumstances. The individual made a mistake. I reviewed his record as a conservation officer upon learning of the situation and he has a good record. Every report filed about him has been good.

"Considering all the circumstances and his five years of duty as an officer, the punishment was just," Bailey added. "He certainly had no intent to shoot a hen. He simply made a mistake and we're all human."

"This is the first time since I've been here, and that's been 23 some years, that something like this has come up," Gettmann said. "There was no intent in his mind to shoot a hen. Of course you're supposed to know. That's the jest of it.

Bad Situation

"It's not a good situation, especially for him, but I have to give him a heckuva lot of credit for being able to stand up and do what he did. He's been a very good officer. Not only is he good at his job but he's excellent at working with youth and that's an important part of his job, too."

Shultis, who has been known for his home wildlife veterinarian clinic where he'll take in crippled or wounded birds and animals and nurse them back to health, said he had delayed taking action upon himself because of his concern for his job and family.

"It's very embarrassing," he said. "After I'd done it (shot the hens) I just didn't know what to do so I didn't do anything at the time. I know it's going to hurt me and it's also going to hurt the commission. That's what bothers me, too. I know I can live with the trouble I've brought on myself but I sure hate what I've done to the commission."

Shultis said he was very happy with the penalty under the circumstances since he thought he would have lost his position. He also indicated he would return to the job after the suspension period to continue to be the best conservation officer he knows how to be.

Big 8 Duo Eye 1,000-Yard Mark

Kansas City (AP) — At least two more Big Eight Conference football players have a shot Saturday at reaching the 1,000-yard mark in rushing this season, but nobody is likely to catch Nolan Cromwell, the Kansas flash.

The two are Omahan Jim Wingender of Iowa State, who has 922 yards, and Terry Miller of Oklahoma State, 906 yards.

Cromwell leads the rushing show with 1,071 yards on 198 carries for a game average of 107.1 yards.

Steve Pisarkiewicz of Missouri continues to lead in passing and teammate Henry Marshall in receiving.

Pisarkiewicz has hit on 103 of 208 tosses for 1,687 yards and is followed by David Williams of Colorado, who has 1,188 yards, and Vince Ferragamo of Nebraska, 1,007.

Rodgers Backs Ali-Foreman

CALGARY (AP) — Johnny Rodgers, star running back with the Canadian Football League's Montreal Alouettes, is working to bring a heavyweight fight to Montreal between champion Muhammad Ali and ranked contender George Foreman.

"We are negotiating right now with different people in the city," Rodgers said Thursday. "The fight definitely is going to go on, one week after the Olympics."

Rodgers said it is hoped the fight will take place at the 70,000-seat Olympic Stadium in Montreal.

NU Volleyball Team Nets Wins

Columbia, Mo. — Jan Zink and Janice Kruger sparked the Nebraska volleyball team to wins over Minnesota and Drake here Thursday in first round action of the AIAW regional volleyball tournament.

Zink's picking and Kruger's spikes were cited by coach Pat Sullivan, as the Nebraska entry downed Minnesota 15-7, 15-11 and topped Drake 14-8, 15-7.

Nebraska will face St. Louis University, Kansas and South Dakota State in Friday's action.

HOME TEAM IN CAPS. *Night game. HC - Homecoming.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22

BAYLOR 24 - Smu 22—Cinderella team of year ago has turned into a pumpkin . . . worst in nation in giveaway-takeaway ratio (minus 19).

BROWN 34 - Colum. 20—Shellshocked Bruins must pray for Harvard-Yale tie.

Calif. 27 - STANF. 16—Similar clubs, in many ways, fight to stay in Rose Bowl chase. Stanford probably possesses better defensive athletes

COLO. 41 - Kans. St. 7—Wildcats' anemic offense belongs in Ivy League. CU won't need any pep talk after botching last 2 vs. an underdog K-St.

Dartmouth 20 - PRINCETON 16—Not long ago, this used to decide Ivy League championship. Not so anymore.

DUKE 24 - N. Car. 19—Tar defense could have work cut out against Devils

*Florida St. 20 - HOUSTON 17 — Three victories between them.

Harvard 23 - YALE 17—For all the Ivy chips again this time.

Illinois 27 - N.WEST'N 17—Neither one has nickel's worth of defense.

KANSAS 20 - Missouri 17—Takes a finely-tuned machine to budge KU's supercharged defense. Jayhawks won't let an ailing Galbreath discombobulate them as he did year ago.

*Lsu 17 - TULANE 13—Tulane almost reaching parity with neighbor

MARY. 55 - Virginia 0—The series usually closer than odds

Mich. St. 24 - IOWA 17—Iowa playing better ball now, & probably has emotion on its side. But MSU still has better power aspect.

MICHIGAN 17 - Ohio St. 16 — Saturday's (perhaps the season's) super college football attraction. Month ago, it was thought Ohio St. was physically too strong, & possibly more versatile offensively. No longer the case. Reasons follow: In 3 years of competing against Michigan, Heisman Trophy winner Griffin has broken one long run (while gaining 349 yards), & that came when a linebacker overshot play. RB Johnson, nation's leading scorer, invariably gets his TD assignment from less than 5 yards out. The scouting report on Johnson says he does not accelerate that quickly. Michigan's small, but very active MG, Davis, could counter Johnson's power with quickness. Wolverine defensive aces DT Perlinger & Wolfman Dufek, should be healthier than they have been during most of an injury-plagued season. Brilliant frosh QB Leach is improving every start, & altho he doesn't read defenses like a Unitas, he can fire the ball. In FL Smith, he has sensational target. Schembechler will probably change his 'prevent defense' & 3-man rush he's been using all season to his traditional 4-man front. Bell & Lytle are explosive runners. Lytle's quickness may force Ohio State to pinch-in its linebackers to stop his inside bursts. Leach can then exploit the wide areas. Last year, Buckeyes never did cross Michigan goalline, & in game that unquestionably will again feature hard-nosed, straight power football, OSU's awesome offensive statistics likely to take beating again. Playing in Ann Arbor, where Wolverines have gone 41 straight without a loss, is no small consideration. Quite likely, one or the other will have to pass in order to generate a scoring offense. This phase will be left to young Leach and versatile vet Greene. Wolverines' determined & disciplined defense has shut down Buckeyes, allowing 3 TDs since 'Griffin gang' enrolled 3 years ago. Anything other than one of their normal pulsating wars would be surprise. Choice here is a Maize and Blue that is peaking at just the right time. NATIONAL TV.

MINN. 27 - Wis. 20—Gophers were coming fast before Ohio St. detour.

Miss. St. 17 - Miss. 17—Tuff game to figure.

Nebraska 20 - OKLAHOMA 17—Could earn Huskers National Championship, provided someone takes care of Ohio State. Although both possess highly explosive and volatile offenses, it's likely DEE-FENSE will decide outcome. Tough to pick against a team that has lost once in last 38 games, but fact is — Sooners lack large part of their awesomeness (4 of their victories could have gone other way). Black Shirt defense confident it can choke off OU Wishbone, and who's to say it can't. Pisarkiewicz threw for over 200 yards last Sat. vs. the Sooners, and Ferragamo could prove equally effective with superbly balanced attack he directs.

*N. Dame 24 - MIAMI-F. 10—Guy who arranged Miami's schedule has got to be masochist.

Okla. St. 27 - IOWA ST. 13—Cowboys have more to start with, & don't seem as discouraged from Big-8 wars, if Sat. results indication. ISU defense has caved in last four, yielding 41 ppg.

OREGON 20 - Ore. St. 13—Andros' farewell likely to be emotional

Penn State 20 - PITT 13—Penn State, coming off final examinations, had open date last week. Game will be played at Three Rivers Stadium

PENN 29 - Cornell 19—Graustein & Wixted send disappointed Big Red coach Seifert back to drawing board to figure out what went wrong

Purdue 24 - INDIANA 13—Bucket Brawl will have Hoosiers fired up after having high hopes shattered this season.

Texas Tech 24 - ARK. (HC) 16—First, the Hogs lost ace RB Eckwood, and now other half of that potent 1-2 punch, Forte, got 3 toes broken

Bruce Staff Kept By ISU

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Controversy regarding the status of Iowa State football Coach Earle Bruce was quieted Thursday with the announcement by the school's Athletic Council that the entire coaching staff would be retained through next season.

The Cyclones, in their third year under Bruce, need to defeat Oklahoma State here Saturday to avoid their third straight 4-7 season.

Bruce has two years remaining on a five-year contract, but talk of possible firing grew after Iowa State dropped its fifth consecutive game last week at Nebraska after a 4-1 start.

Athletic Council Chairman Dr. Harold Cowles, in a prepared statement, said the council and school administration were "looking forward to having Earle Bruce and his staff coach the Cyclones next season."

He said the council "feels that, under present NCAA and Big Eight Conference rules, Coach Bruce and his staff have put in a tremendous amount of hard work on their recruiting program. They are definitely off to an excellent start in their recruiting areas for next year."

The Cyclones had high hopes, entering the season, but a series of injuries to key personnel raised havoc with team continuity.

First, standout sophomore defensive tackle Mike Stensrud suffered a broken ankle in the U C L A season-opener and missed the rest of the season.

Quarterback Buddy Hardeman suffered five separate injuries, most recently a dislocated thumb at Nebraska that will keep him from playing Saturday. He is to undergo surgery soon to repair a broken wrist.

Stensrud's older brother, middle guard Maynard Stensrud, missed the middle of the campaign with a fractured hand, and wide receiver Luther Blue underwent knee ligament surgery following an injury at Oklahoma.

"We did not have a rash of injuries this season," Bruce said two weeks ago. "But the ones we had really hurt."

Bruce, who loses 14 seniors — including seven starters — said earlier this week that "recruiting is the name of the game in college football.

"We now have the facilities and Iowa State has tremendous academic tradition that should enable us to beef up our recruiting efforts.'"

Bruce said he planned to leave on a recruiting mission following the season-finale Saturday. He didn't disclose his itinerary.

Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla.(AP)— Oklahoma State completed its last workout of this season with a 60-minute "spirited" practice Thursday in preparation for Saturday's season finale against Iowa State.

Craig Johnson, a mid-season walkon who kicked the final four extra points in the Cowboys 56-3 victory over Kansas State, will make the trip to Ames, Iowa, and handle field goal attempts, Stanley said.

Freshman cornerback Gary Irions will kick extra points.

"We won't decide until Saturday who will kickoff," Stanley added. "They're about even now, so you ever looks the best in the warmups will kick. If they're even, Johnson will kickoff because it takes Irions a little extra time to put his regular shoe back on after kicking off."

Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback John Blakeman who has been out with an injured knee will make the trip to Kansas and might play, although he won't start, Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri said Thursday.

McCook Juco Edges Lamar

LAMAR, Colo. (AP)—Bill Wilbon scored three key baskets late in the second half as McCook came from behind to defeat Lamar Junior College Thursday night 74-70 in college basketball.

Lamar led at the half 34-31 and for the first 10 minutes of the second period when the Indians took the lead.

Wilbon, a guard, scored 14 points and forward Lee Johnson hit 30.

The game had been scheduled for Wednesday but was postponed when McCook was unable to make the trip from Trinidad because of the pre-winter storm.

Silver Creek, Cowgill Lauded In SI Article

Sports Illustrated's Nov. 24 issue includes a two-page feature on Silver Creek, Neb., and its annual Grand National Mixed-Bag Hunt.

Writer Virginia Kraft, herself a participant in the Grand National in past years, writes the article entitled, "They Hunt to Save the Hunting."

Ms. Kraft is particularly kind to Dr. Bruce Cowgill, Silver Creek's resident wildlife conservation genius.

She applauds the amiable Cowgill, "Silver Creek's No. 1 citizen," for his initiation of the Grand and his founding of Acres for Wildlife, and the town of Silver Creek for hosting an event to point out the need for hunting and conservation in modern times.

Husker Defense Impressive

New York (AP) — Texas A&M continues to lead the nation's major college football teams in two defensive categories — total and rushing — VMI is best in preventing the pass and Ohio State leads in scoring defense, according to weekly NCAA statistics released Thursday.

The 9-0-0 Aggies, idle this week prior to a Nov. 28 showdown with Texas, has held opponents to an average of 175.1 total yards per game and 67.3 yards on the ground.

VMI has allowed only 52.9 yards passing per game, partly because the Keydets' interception rate is a healthy 11.8.

Nebraska, also 10-0-0 going into a Big Eight showdown with 9-1-0 Oklahoma, is seventh in scoring defense with 8.5 points against.

Oklahoma is a distant 27th with 13.8.

Those Big Four also have impressive statistics in total defense.

Nebraska, seventh, has allowed only 216.9 yards per game; Ohio State, 10th, has given up 239.6; Michigan, 12th, has held opponents to 244.3 and Oklahoma, 18th has limited foes to a 262-yard average.

Against the rush, Michigan is eighth with 119.9, Nebraska 13th at 123.7, Ohio State 18th at 142.9 and Oklahoma 28th at 154.7.

NU May Receive Fiesta Invite

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl, although rejected once in a vote of Nebraska football players, may extend to the Cornhuskers another invitation.

"The door is still open," Bruce Skinner, Tempe, Ariz., information director for the bowl committee, told the Kansas City Star in a telephone interview Thursday.

Daniels TKO'd By Stander

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Ron Stander, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, scored a technical knockout over Terry Daniels of Dallas in the first round Thursday night.

Stander, who weighed 214, used overhand rights and left hooks and referee Larry Emery stopped the fight after Stander punished Daniels on the ropes as the first round ended. Daniels weighed 196.

Football News Picks Huskers

Football News college forecaster Harry De Vold, analyzing the Nebraska-Oklahoma game Saturday, sees NU as a 14-10 winner.

While Football News continues to rate Nebraska No. 2 behind Ohio State, DeVold, in his Top 50 rankings, considers the Cornhuskers as the nation's top team with a rating of 122.15 to the Buckeyes 120.88. Oklahoma is third with 119.78.

DeVold also predicts Michigan will beat Ohio State as does Gar Yarbro, Football News' pro-Southeastern Conference forecaster. Yarbro, however, thinks Oklahoma will defeat Nebraska, based on its showing against Texas.

Burden Winner Over Rodgers

CALGARY (UPI) — Willie Burden of the Calgary Stampeders, who set a league rushing record this year, Thursday was named winner of the Schenley Award as the Canadian Football League's most outstanding player.

Burden, who came to Calgary from North Carolina State last year, was chosen for the award by 96 sportswriters over Montreal Alouettes star Johnny Rodgers, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska.

Burden rushed for 1,896 yards on 332 carries this year to break the 14-year-old record of 1,794 yards set by Calgary's Earl Lumsford. He also had 231 yards on 36 passes.

Rodgers is one of the main reasons that the Eastern Conference champion Alouettes are in the CFL championship Grey Cup game this weekend against the Western Conference champion Edmonton Eskimos.

The Als' slotback gained 293 yards rushing on 54 carries this year, 849 yards on 40 passes, 912 yards on 60 punt returns and 380 yards on 13 kickoff returns.

Rodgers was extremely disappointed he hadn't won. "I feel I was beaten by the western vote. It looks like an instant replay," he said, referring to his Schenley Award loss last year to Edmonton quarterback Tom Wilkinson.

"I know what I've contributed to the Montreal Alouettes, to the Canadian Football League and to Canada. And, although I may be bitter, that's all that really counts in my mind," Rodgers said.

Big 8 Duo Eye 1,000-Yard Mark

Kansas City (AP) — At least two more Big Eight Conference football players have a shot Saturday at reaching the 1,000-yard mark in rushing this season, but nobody is likely to catch Nolan Cromwell, the Kansas flash.

The two are Omahan Jim Wingender of Iowa State, who has 922 yards, and Terry Miller of Oklahoma State, 906 yards.

Cromwell leads the rushing show with 1,071 yards on 198 carries for a game average of 107.1 yards.

Steve Pisarkiewicz of Missouri continues to lead in passing and teammate Henry Marshall in receiving.

Pisarkiewicz has hit on 103 of 208 tosses for 1,687 yards and is followed by David Williams of Colorado, who has 1,188 yards, and Vince Ferragamo of Nebraska, 1,007.

Rodgers Backs Ali-Foreman

CALGARY (AP) — Johnny Rodgers, star running back with the Canadian Football League's Montreal Alouettes, is working to bring a heavyweight fight to Montreal between champion Muhammad Ali and ranked contender George Foreman.

"We are negotiating right now with different people in the city," Rodgers said Thursday. "The fight definitely is going to go on, one week after the Olympics."

Rodgers said it is hoped the fight will take place at the 70,000-seat Olympic Stadium in Montreal.

NU Volleyball Team Nets Wins

Columbia, Mo. — Jan Zink and Janice Kruger sparked the Nebraska volleyball team to wins over Minnesota and Drake here Thursday in first round action of the AIAW regional volleyball tournament.

Zink's picking and Kruger's spikes were cited by coach Pat Sullivan, as the Nebraska entry downed Minnesota 15-7, 15-11 and topped Drake 14-8, 15-7.

Nebraska will face St. Louis University, Kansas and South Dakota State in Friday's action.

Harvard 23 - YALE 17—For all the Ivy chips again this time.

Illinois 27 - N.WEST'N 17—Neither one has nickel's worth of defense.

KANSAS 20 - Missouri 17—Takes a finely-tuned machine to budge KU's supercharged defense. Jayhawks won't let an ailing Galbreath discombobulate them as he did year ago.

*Lsu 17 - TULANE 13—Tulane almost reaching parity with neighbor

MARY. 55 - Virginia 0—Tho series usually closer than odds

Mich. St. 24 - IOWA 17—Iowa playing better ball now, & probably has emotion on its side. But MSU still has better power aspect.

MICHIGAN 17 - Ohio St. 16 — Saturday's (perhaps the season's) super college football attraction. Month ago, it was thought Ohio St. was physically too strong, & possibly more versatile offensively. No longer the case. Reasons follow: In 3 years of competing against Michigan, Heisman Trophy winner Griffin has broken one long run (while gaining 349 yards), & that came when a linebacker overshot play. RB Johnson, nation's leading scorer, invariably gets his TD assignment from less than 5 yards out. The scouting report on Johnson says he does not accelerate that quickly. Michigan's small, but very active MG, Davis, could counter Johnson's power with quickness. Wolverine defensive aces DT Perlinger & Wolfman Dufek, should be healthier than they have been during most of an injury-plagued season. Brilliant frosh QB Leach is improving every start, & altho he doesn't read defenses like a Unitas, he can fire the ball. In FL Smith, he has sensational target. Schembechler will probably change his 'prevent defense' & 3-man rush he's been using all season to his traditional 4-man front. Bell & Lytle are explosive runners. Lytle's quickness may force Ohio State to pinch-in its linebackers to stop his inside bursts. Leach can then exploit the wide areas. Last year, Buckeyes never did cross Michigan goalline, & in game that unquestionably will again feature hard-nosed, straight power football, OSU's awesome offensive statistics likely to take beating again. Playing in Ann Arbor, where Wolverines have gone 41 straight without a loss, is no small consideration. Quite likely, one or the other will have to pass in order to generate a scoring offense. This phase will be left to young Leach and versatile vet Greene. Wolverines' determined & disciplined defense has shut down Buckeyes, allowing 3 TDs since 'Griffin gang' enrolled 3 years ago. Anything other than one of their normal pulsating wars would be surprise. Choice here is a Maize and Blue that is peaking at just the right time. NATIONAL TV.

MINN. 27 - Wis. 20—Gophers were coming fast before Ohio St. detour.

Miss. St. 17 - Miss. 17—Tuff game to figure.

Nebraska 20 - OKLAHOMA 17—Could earn Huskers National Championship, provided someone takes care of Ohio State. Although both possess highly explosive and volatile offenses, it's likely DEE-FENSE will decide outcome. Tough to pick against a team that has lost once in last 38 games, but fact is — Sooners lack large part of their awesomeness (4 of their victories could have gone other way). Black Shirt defense confident it can choke off OU Wishbone, and who's to say it can't. Pisarkiewicz threw for over 200 yards last Sat. vs. the Sooners, and Ferragamo could prove equally effective with superbly balanced attack he directs.

*N. Dame 24 - MIAMI-F. 10—Guy who arranged Miami's schedule has got to be masochist.

Okla. St. 27 - IOWA ST. 13—Cowboys have more to start with, & don't seem as discouraged from Big-8 wars, if Sat. results indication. ISU defense has caved in last four, yielding 41 ppg.

OREGON 20 - Ore. St. 13—Andros' farewell likely to be emotional

Penn State 20 - PITT 13—Penn State, coming off final examinations, had open date last week. Game will be played at Three Rivers Stadium

PENN 29 - Cornell 19—Graustein & Wixted send disappointed Big Red coach Seifert back to drawing board to figure out what went wrong

Purdue 24 - INDIANA 13—Bucket Brawl will have Hoosiers fired up after having high hopes shattered this season.

Rice 23 - TCU 14—Last gasp effort for Frogs doomed to fail.

S. CAR 34 - Clemson 22—Defense at minimum here.

SYR. 17 - W. Va. 14—Promises to be hard-hitting battle.

Tenn. 20 - KENTUCKY 14—Dazed Wildcats play without college QB

Texas Tech 24 - ARK. (HC) 16—First, the Hogs lost ace RB Eckwood, and now other half of that potent 1-2 punch, Forte, got 3 toes broken

VA. TECH 30 - W. For. 13—Deacons unquestionably had better year than they ever expected. No question they're petering out now

WASH. 27 - Wash. St. 13—Probably 'swan song' for Sweeney at WSU.

Bruce Staff Kept By ISU

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Controversy regarding the status of Iowa State football Coach Earle Bruce was quieted Thursday with the announcement by the school's Athletic Council that the entire coaching staff would be retained through next season.

The Cyclones, in their third year under Bruce, need to defeat Oklahoma State here Saturday to avoid their third straight 4-7 season.

Bruce has two years remaining on a five-year contract, but talk of possible firing grew after Iowa State dropped its fifth consecutive game last week at Nebraska after a 4-1 start.

Athletic Council Chairman Dr. Harold Cowles, in a prepared statement, said the council and school administration were "looking forward to having Earle Bruce and his staff coach the Cyclones next season."

He said the council "feels that, under present NCAA and Big Eight Conference rules, Coach Bruce and his staff have put in a tremendous amount of hard work on their recruiting program. They are definitely off to an excellent start in their recruiting areas for next year."

The Cyclones had high hopes, entering the season, but a series of injuries to key personnel raised havoc with team continuity.

First, standout sophomore defensive tackle Mike Stensrud suffered a broken ankle in the U C L A season-opener and missed the rest of the season.

Quarterback Buddy Hardeman suffered five separate injuries, most recently a dislocated thumb at Nebraska that will keep him from playing Saturday. He is to undergo surgery soon to repair a broken wrist.

Stensrud's older brother, middle guard Maynard Stensrud, missed the middle of the campaign with a fractured hand, and wide receiver Luther Blue underwent knee ligament surgery following an injury at Oklahoma.

"We did not have a rash of injuries this season," Bruce said two weeks ago. "But the ones we had really hurt."

Bruce, who loses 14 seniors — including seven starters — said earlier this week that "recruiting is the name of the game in college football.

"We now have the facilities and Iowa State has tremendous academic tradition that should enable us to beef up our recruiting efforts."

Bruce said he planned to leave on a recruiting mission following the season-finale Saturday. He didn't disclose his itinerary.

Oklahoma State

STILLWATER, Okla.(AP)—Oklahoma State completed its last workout of this season with a 60-minute "spirited" practice Thursday in preparation for Saturday's season finale against Iowa State.

Craig Johnson, a mid-season walkon who kicked the final four extra points in the Cowboys 56-3 victory over Kansas State, will make the trip to Ames, Iowa, and handle field goal attempts, Stanley said.

Freshman cornerback Gary Irions will kick extra points.

"We won't decide until Saturday who will kickoff," Stanley added. "They're about even now, so you ever looks the best in the warmups will kick. If they're even, Johnson will kickoff because it takes Irions a little extra time to put his regular shoe back on after kicking off."

Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Fullback John Blakeman who has been out with an injured knee will make the trip to Kansas and might play, although he won't start, Coach Al Onofrio of Missouri said Thursday.

Silver Creek, Cowgill Lauded In SI Article

Sports Illustrated's Nov. 24 issue includes a two-page feature on Silver Creek, Neb., and its annual Grand National Mixed-Bag Hunt.

Writer Virginia Kraft, herself a participant in the Grand National in past years, writes the article entitled, "They Hunt to Save the Hunting."

Ms. Kraft is particularly kind to Dr. Bruce Cowgill, Silver Creek's resident wildlife conservation genius.

She applauds the amiable Cowgill, "Silver Creek's No. 1 citizen," for his initiation of the Grand and his founding of Acres for Wildlife, and the town of Silver Creek for hosting an event to point out the need for hunting and conservation in modern times.

McCook Juco Edges Lamar

LAMAR, Colo. (AP)—Bill Wilbon scored three key baskets late in the second half as McCook came from behind to defeat Lamar Junior College Thursday night 74-70 in college basketball.

Lamar led at the half 34-31 and for the first 10 minutes of the second period when the Indians took the lead.

Wilbon, a guard, scored 14 points and forward Lee Johnson hit 30.

The game had been scheduled for Wednesday but was postponed when McCook was unable to make the trip from Trinidad because of the pre-winter storm.

Husker Defense Impressive

New York (AP) — Texas A&M continues to lead the nation's major college football teams in two defensive categories — total and rushing — VMI is best in preventing the pass and Ohio State leads in scoring defense, according to weekly NCAA statistics released Thursday.

The 9-0-0 Aggies, idle this week prior to a Nov. 28 showdown with Texas, has held opponents to an average of 175.1 total yards per game and 67.3 yards on the ground.

VMI has allowed only 52.9 yards passing per game, partly because the Keydets' interception rate is a healthy 11.8.

Nebraska, also 10-0-0 going into a Big Eight showdown with 9-1-0 Oklahoma, is seventh in scoring defense with 8.5 points against.

Oklahoma is a distant 27th with 13.8.

Those Big Four also have impressive statistics in total defense.

Nebraska, seventh, has allowed only 216.9 yards per game; Ohio State, 10th, has given up 239.6; Michigan, 12th, has held opponents to 244.3 and Oklahoma, 18th has limited foes to a 262-yard average.

Against the rush, Michigan is eighth with 119.9, Nebraska 13th at 123.7, Ohio State 18th at 142.9 and Oklahoma 28th at 154.7.

NU May Receive Fiesta Invite

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl, although rejected once in a vote of Nebraska football players, may extend to the Cornhuskers another invitation.

"The door is still open," Bruce Skinner, Tempe, Ariz., information director for the bowl committee, told the Kansas City Star in a telephone interview Thursday.

Daniels TKO'd By Stander

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Ron Stander, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, scored a technical knockout over Terry Daniels of Dallas in the first round Thursday night.

Stander, who weighed 214, used overhand rights and left hooks and referee Larry Emery stopped the fight after Stander punished Daniels on the ropes as the first round ended. Daniels weighed 196.

Football News Picks Huskers

Football News college forecaster Harry De Vold, analyzing the Nebraska-Oklahoma game Saturday, sees NU as a 14-10 winner.

While Football News continues to rate Nebraska No. 2 behind Ohio State, DeVold, in his Top 50 rankings, considers the Cornhuskers as the nation's top team with a rating of 122.15 to the Buckeyes 120.88. Oklahoma is third with 119.78.

DeVold also predicts Michigan will beat Ohio State as does Gar Yarbro, Football News' pro-Southeastern Conference forecaster. Yarbro, however, thinks Oklahoma will defeat Nebraska, based on its showing against Texas.

Burden Winner Over Rodgers

CALGARY (UPI) — Willie Burden of the Calgary Stampeders, who set a league rushing record this year, Thursday was named winner of the Schenley Award as the Canadian Football League's most outstanding player.

Burden, who came to Calgary from North Carolina State last year, was chosen for the award by 96 sportswriters over Montreal Alouettes star Johnny Rodgers, a former Heisman Trophy winner from Nebraska.

Burden rushed for 1,896 yards on 332 carries this year to break the 14-year-old record of 1,794 yards set by Calgary's Earl Lumsford. He also had 231 yards on 36 passes.

Rodgers is one of the main reasons that the Eastern Conference champion Alouettes are in the CFL championship Grey Cup game this weekend against the Western Conference champion Edmonton Eskimos.

The Als' slotback gained 293 yards rushing on 54 carries this year, 849 yards on 40 passes, 912 yards on 60 punt returns and 380 yards on 13 kickoff returns.

Rodgers was extremely disappointed he hadn't won. "I feel I was beaten by the western vote. It looks like an instant replay," he said, referring to his Schenley Award loss last year to Edmonton quarterback Tom Wilkinson.

"I know what I've contributed to the Montreal Alouettes, to the Canadian Football League and to Canada. And, although I may be bitter, that's all that really counts in my mind," Rodgers said.

Moisture Keeps Storm From Damaging Wheat

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska's first blizzard of the season fortunately had some moisture along with the wind or it might have caused heavy damage to the wheat crop due to blowing soil.

Gene Youngman, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service at Alliance, said Thursday, "We have had a few fields blow out, but so far no really bad damage. If we don't get more moisture this winter we probably will see a lot of damage in the spring when our windy season comes."

Youngman noted that winter wheat is capable of growing under a cover of snow to strengthen its root system if it has adequate moisture. "It is a pretty tough crop," he said.

Jack Rise of the SCS office at Bridgeport said there was little snow but no blowing. "I really don't know what is holding the soil, but so far little has moved except a few minor spots."

Most area conservationists are reporting some damage, but no general losses. However, fears of a really big duststorm are very real with Sidney and the Banner County area reported having large areas in danger of losses without additional moisture soon.

Cattle in much of the state huddled in out of the way spots behind windbreaks, in ditches and low spots to get out of the wind.

Cattle feeders in the heavy snow areas had a snow removal problem to deal with before they could feed their animals.

Mickey Steward of the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association said cattlemen were in much better shape for this storm than the one last spring that killed thousands of calves.

"Most of the calves are on the ground by now from the fall crop. Some areas in the Chappell and Sidney area have a tremendous amount of snow. Some people haven't been able to get out of the house to check on cattle, but as soon as the wind dies down they will be ready to go with what is needed to care for cattle," he said.

The Merlin Carlson Ranch near Lodgepole was snowed in, but the cattle were in good shape. "We had everything stuck here Wednesday but we are getting feed to the cattle. I don't think there have been any losses. The snow is still white so there hasn't been any soil moving," Mrs. Carlson reported.

Allan Boetcher, Lancaster County agricultural agent, said the storm with its rain "is just what we needed to save the trees and shrubs in town. Most had started to adapt themselves for winter but needed moisture badly."

"The wheat may still make it if the soil stays warm. If it starts growing and then we get a really hard freeze without snow cover, it could kill wheat but so far we are in better shape because of the storm," he said.

Storm Cuts Power, And Phone Service

Winds and water also cut off phone service to about 800 telephone customers in areas scattered across Lincoln and to about 120 customers outside of Lincoln.

James Vanderslice of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. said most of the phones were repaired by nightfall. The loss of service was due primarily to wet cables, Vanderslice said.

An area in northeastern Lincoln was without power Tuesday morning when the wind blew down a 12,500-volt feeder line at the Lincoln Electric System substation at 84th and Leighton.

The area covered was bounded roughly by 56th, 84th, Fletcher and Superior and also included in irregular rural area northeast of Lincoln. Work at the Hy-Gain Electronics Corporation was delayed by the outage.

Frank Grant of LES said power was restored to most of the area by 9:15. Other areas of the city also had power shortages, but none of the areas were significantly large, Grant said.

One of the scattered areas included the Cathedral of the Risen Christ School, where classes were dismissed at 10:30 a.m. because of a power failure.

Strong winds were also blamed for breaking a show window at DeBrown Auto Sales, 17th and N, a show window at Ace Furniture, 1314 O St. and a glass door, which was blown against a fire alarm at the First National Bank, 13th and M.

NFO License Hearing Reset Due To Storm

State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher said Thursday afternoon the new hearing date in the National Farmers Organization livestock dealers license case is Dec. 4.

A hearing was scheduled for Thursday morning. But it was postponed because of the weather.

The rescheduled hearing will begin at 10 a.m. on Dec. 4 at the Agriculture Department offices.

At issue is a contention by the Agriculture Department that the NFO should have a livestock dealers license. The NFO, by means of the hearing, will be given a chance to explain why it doesn't need one.

Patrol Names Trucker Killed West Of Gibbon

Gibbon (AP) — The Michigan trucker killed Wednesday in a semi-truck accident near here was identified Thursday as Neil Kent Hannewald, 33, of Hudson, Mich.

His identification had been withheld by the State Patrol pending notification of relatives.

Hannewald's death brought the 1975 Nebraska highway fatality toll to 341 compared with 345 on the same date a year ago.

Senate Votes $100,000 To Preserve Steamboat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate Thursday approved a bill which makes $100,000 available for the preservation of cargo from the sunken Missouri River steamboat, the Bertrand.

But the day before, the Appropriations Committee refused to come up with an additional $225,000 requested by Sens. John Culver, D-Iowa, and Roman Hruska, R-Neb., to build a permanent facility to house the sternwheeler.

Culver said the $100,000 would be used for "the operation and maintenance costs associated with the study, display and preservation of artifacts from the steamship, Bertrand."

He said the funds would allow "expert personnel and equipment to be purchased to stabilize the condition of the collection and take the first steps toward establishing the kind of research, storage and display facility which an archive of this caliber so clearly deserves."

The hull of the century-old sternwheeler was discovered in 1968 on the grounds of the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge near Missouri Valley. Some 250 tons of Civil War era cargo was salvaged and now is stored in a temporary facility at the refuge.

Nebraska and Iowa want the cargo to be housed intact at the refuge. but the Interior Department and the Smithsonian Institution would like to see the valuable artifacts divided among several museums.

The bill, which has been passed in similar form in the House, now goes to a conference committee to work out the differences.

Pickup Driver Loses His Leg In Icy Accident

A Lincoln man's right leg was severed early Thursday morning when the pickup truck he was driving smashed into a power pole at 28th and O.

Jesse E. Gilmer, 23, of 5259 Goldenrod, was listed in fair condition Thursday evening at Lincoln General Hospital.

Witnesses told police the pickup was westbound on O St. when Gilmer appeared to attempt to change to an outside lane, police said. Gilmer lost control on the icy street and the truck spun into the power pole.

Gilmer was ticketed for driving while intoxicated.

Fire Chief George Peetor said damage exceeded $200,000.

No injuries were reported.

Firefighters worked about four hours in winds reaching 60 mph to extinguish the fire, which was first reported about 8 a.m.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Broken Bow — Col. Keith Glaze of Broken Bow, who was a pilot over the "Hump" during World War II, has been awarded the China War Memorial Medal for his services of 30 years ago. Now an active Air Force reservist, Col. Officials Looking To Halt Erosion Of Missouri Bank

By United Press International

A state official said Wednesday representatives of Nebraska and South Dakota will be meeting at Newcastle Tuesday to try and work out a joint approach to stopping the bank erosion along the Missouri River that continues to claim valuable farm land.

Dayle Williamson, executive secretary of the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission and Gov. J. J. Exon's official representative in those talks, said Rep. John Y. McCollister, will be at that meeting.

Williamson said he has talked recently with South Dakota officials and they, for financial reasons, are leaning towards getting Congress to shift full responsibility for bank stabilization efforts on the non-navigable portion of the river over to the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers

The corps currently takes care of bank stabilization up to Sioux City, which roughly marks the end of the line for navigation.

Williamson said South Dakota's desire for complete corps control stems from the lack of state or local money to underwrite bank stabilization. He said as far as he's concerned, corps control "is a step in the right direction."

After all, he said, bank stabilization is "very costly" and would be a definite drain on state and local resources. In addition, Williamson said, the federal government should be involved because erosion "is being caused by federal projects." He cited the most recent one as the decision to boost reservoir releases.

However, Williamson said, "I don't think we'd want to bow out altogether," leaving neither state affected without a voice in stabilization efforts.

There is currently federal assistance available, he said. The problem, Williamson said, particularly for South Dakota, is that once built, bank stabilization projects have to be operated and maintained by the state or by local subdivisions, such as natural resources districts.

Williamson said unlike South Dakota, Nebraska does have a local governmental entity along the critical stretch of the river — the Lewis and Clark Natural Resources District — that could step in But he said he thought even operation and maintenance costs would be beyond the resources of that district working alone.

The congressional action that South Dakota seems to favor now, Williamson said, amounts to an expansion of a law that allows the corps to build experimental projects. The idea, he said, would be to go beyond experimental efforts and give the corps complete authority.

Four Resource District Bounds Altered Slightly

The Nebraska Natural Resources Commission Thursday modified the boundaries of four natural resource districts to comply with state law.

The commission action involved the Upper and Lower Elkhorn districts and the Lower Big Blue and the Nemaha districts.

In the first pair, the commission moved the town of Tilden completely within the boundaries of the Lower Elkhorn. Tilden had been split between the two districts which is contrary to the state natural resource district act.

In the other case, several sections of land were exchanged between the Lower Big Blue and Nemaha districts because the original boundary did not follow the hydrologic lines.

The commission also drafted its comments on the Platte River Level B study, a master plan for development of the river's resources. The commission suggested the 33 recommendations contained in the study be consolidated into 12.

Ambulance Service At Wayne May End

Wayne (UPI) — The Providence Medical Center Wednesday said it will discontinue ambulance service to Wayne as of Dec. 31.

Mother Imelda Koch, of the Benedictine Sisters, told a news conference service will be discontinued because the city failed to keep a verbal agreement She said the city had agreed to provide a driver for a back-up ambulance when the main ambulance was out of town.

But city council member John Vakoc said as far as he knew, such an agreement was never made.

If the medical center were to stop running the ambulance, the city council would be forced to pay for a driver, or see the city go without service

Divis Trial Still Pending

Outstate Nebraska Bureau

Wahoo — Although a Saunders County Court jury Wednesday acquitted County Sheriff Joe Divis of misdemeanor charges of failure to carry out his duty as sheriff, Divis apparently has another trial before him.

County Attorney Curtis Bromm said Thursday morning he still intends to prosecute Divis on two felony charges of conspiracy to deliver marijuana and converting county property to his own use.

No trial date has been set yet in District Court on those charges, Bromm added.

"Those charges are filed and still pending. Unless something comes up to change my mind, the intent is still there to pursue them," the county attorney said.

Moisture Keeps Storm From Damaging Wheat

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

Nebraska's first blizzard of the season fortunately had some moisture along with the wind or it might have caused heavy damage to the wheat crop due to blowing soil.

Gene Youngman, district conservationist for the Soil Conservation Service at Alliance, said Thursday, "We have had a few fields blow out, but so far no really bad damage. If we don't get more moisture this winter we probably will see a lot of damage in the spring when our windy season comes."

Youngman noted that winter wheat is capable of growing under a cover of snow to strengthen its root system if it has adequate moisture. "It is a pretty tough crop," he said.

Jack Rise of the SCS office at Bridgeport said there was little snow but no blowing. "I really don't know what is holding the soil, but so far little has moved except a few minor spots."

Most area conservationists are reporting some damage, but no general losses. However, fears of a really big duststorm are very real with Sidney and the Banner County area reported having large areas in danger of losses without additional moisture soon.

Cattle in much of the state huddled in out of the way spots behind windbreaks, in ditches and low spots to get out of the wind.

Cattle feeders in the heavy snow areas had a snow removal problem to deal with before they could feed their animals.

Mickey Steward of the Nebraska Stockgrowers Association said cattlemen were in much better shape for this storm than the one last spring that killed thousands of calves.

"Most of the calves are on the ground by now from the fall crop. Some areas in the Chappell and Sidney area have a tremendous amount of snow. Some people haven't been able to get out of the house to check on cattle, but as soon as the wind dies down they will be ready to go with what is needed to care for cattle," he said.

The Merlin Carlson Ranch near Lodgepole was snowed in, but the cattle were in good shape. "We had everything stuck here Wednesday but we are getting feed to the cattle. I don't think there have been any losses. The snow is still white so there hasn't been any soil moving," Mrs. Carlson reported.

Allan Boetcher, Lancaster County agricultural agent, said the storm with its rain "is just what we needed to save the trees and shrubs in town. Most had started to adapt themselves for winter but needed moisture badly."

"The wheat may still make it if the soil stays warm. If it starts growing and then we get a really hard freeze without snow cover, it could kill wheat but so far we are in better shape because of the storm," he said.

Storm Cuts Power, And Phone Service

Winds and water also cut off phone service to about 800 telephone customers in areas scattered across Lincoln and to about 120 customers outside of Lincoln.

James Vanderslice of the Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph Co. said most of the phones were repaired by nightfall. The loss of service was due primarily to wet cables, Vanderslice said.

An area in northeastern Lincoln was without power Tuesday morning when the wind blew down a 12,500-volt feeder line at the Lincoln Electric System substation at 84th and Leighton.

The area covered was bounded roughly by 56th, 84th, Fletcher and Superior and also included in irregular rural area northeast of Lincoln. Work at the Hy-Gain Electronics Corporation was delayed by the outage.

Frank Grant of LES said power was restored to most of the area by 9:15. Other areas of the city also had power shortages, but none of the areas were significantly large, Grant said.

One of the scattered areas included the Cathedral of the Risen Christ School, where classes were dismissed at 10:30 a.m. because of a power failure.

Strong winds were also blamed for breaking a show window at DeBrown Auto Sales, 17th and N, a show window at Ace Furniture, 1314 O St. and a glass door, which was blown against a fire alarm at the First National Bank, 13th and M.

NFO License Hearing Reset Due To Storm

State Agriculture Director Glenn Kreuscher said Thursday afternoon the new hearing date in the National Farmers Organization livestock dealers license case is Dec. 4.

A hearing was scheduled for Thursday morning. But it was postponed because of the weather.

The rescheduled hearing will begin at 10 a.m. on Dec. 4 at the Agriculture Department offices.

At issue is a contention by the Agriculture Department that the NFO should have a livestock dealers license. The NFO, by means of the hearing, will be given a chance to explain why it doesn't need one.

Patrol Names Trucker Killed West Of Gibbon

Gibbon (AP) — The Michigan trucker killed Wednesday in a semi-truck accident near here was identified Thursday as Neil Kent Hannewald, 33, of Hudson, Mich.

Hannewald's death brought the 1975 Nebraska highway fatality toll to 341 compared with 345 on the same date a year ago.

Senate Votes $100,000 To Preserve Steamboat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Senate Thursday approved a bill which makes $100,000 available for the preservation of cargo from the sunken Missouri River steamboat, the Bertrand.

But the day before, the Appropriations Committee refused to come up with an additional $225,000 requested by Sens. John Culver, D-Iowa, and Roman Hruska, R-Neb., to build a permanent facility to house the sternwheeler.

Culver said the $100,000 would be used for "the operation and maintenance costs associated with the study, display and preservation of artifacts from the steamship, Bertrand."

He said the funds would allow "expert personnel and equipment to be purchased to stabilize the condition of the collection and take the first steps toward establishing the kind of research, storage and display facility which an archive of this caliber so clearly deserves."

The hull of the century-old sternwheeler was discovered in 1968 on the grounds of the DeSoto National Wildlife Refuge near Missouri Valley. Some 250 tons of Civil War era cargo was salvaged and now is stored in a temporary facility at the refuge.

Nebraska and Iowa want the cargo to be housed intact at the refuge, but the Interior Department and the Smithsonian Institution would like to see the valuable artifacts divided among several museums.

The bill, which has been passed in similar form in the House, now goes to a conference committee to work out the differences.

Pickup Driver Loses His Leg In Icy Accident

A Lincoln man's right leg was severed early Thursday morning when the pickup truck he was driving smashed into a power pole at 28th and O.

Jesse E. Gilmer, 23, of 5259 Goldenrod, was listed in fair condition Thursday evening at Lincoln General Hospital.

Witnesses told police the pickup was westbound on O St. when Gilmer appeared to attempt to change to an outside lane, police said. Gilmer lost control on the icy street and the truck spun into the power pole.

Gilmer was ticketed for driving while intoxicated.

Firefighters worked about four hours in winds reaching 60 mph to extinguish the fire, which was first reported about 8 a.m.

Cause of the fire was not known.

Beatrice Hearing Favors Move To Pershing

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — Testimony came from 20 persons here Thursday reinforcing Southeast Community College's tentative decision to acquire defunct Pershing College, but much of a four-hour session was taken up by questioning from participating state senators.

Called by the Legislature's Education Committee, the hearing was a follow-up to a similar session Wednesday at Fairbury which generally opposed closing the SeTech campus there With about 60 persons present at Beatrice, the hearing had a much different complexion than the one turning out some 450 at Fairbury — close to half of them students.

Banker Bill Cook Jr., in charge of Beatrice's carefully organized presentation, said local leaders "purposely tried to keep away from a large group to avoid repetition." It appeared the only spokesmen not scheduled by Cook were SeTech President Robert Eicher and Robert Wekesser of Lincoln, board president

There was much more interchange with the senators than at Fairbury, with committee chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue posing many of the questions. Sen. Richard Maresh of Milligan, who had requested the hearings, and Sen. George Burrows of Adams, also joined in much of the discussion

'Election Expensive'

Dr Eicher said upon questioning that he would not oppose a referendum vote on whether to move the Fairbury program to Pershing. But he added that an election would be "very difficult and expensive" and that he felt the board "is capable and should have the responsibility" of such a decision.

Both he and Wekesser also suggested that acquiring Pershing would not necessarily mean the demise of Fairbury, although a resolution passed 7-4 in September specifically stated this would be the case. Wekesser said "the hysteria has been so high at this point that nobody has sat down to discuss part-time use of Fairbury."

Beatrice leaders based much of their pitch upon Pershing's "centralized location" and the possibility of leasing of an adjacent section of land for developing an agri-business program. Six presentations were submitted in writing rather than orally to save time.

By far the strongest case was made by Wekesser, who presented a "position paper" from the SeTech board as well as a six-page expression of his feelings.

"The only real questions are: what is best for the students and adult education and how we can get the best education for the dollars spent in the long run," he stated "If you study the facts . . . you come to the conclusion expressed in the position paper"

Fairbury Debt Noted

Basically a condensation of previous board statements, the paper emphasized Beatrice's greater population, a more central location and the fact that Pershing has 133,000 square feet of interior space compared to Fairbury's 70,000. Also referred to were the board's emphasis of vocational technical education and the $543,000 debt for Fairbury's dormitory.

Wekesser, referring to the possible closing of Fairbury, said "if the dollars being spent are too costly for the students served . . . there should be a termination regardless of how much affection and home pride there is." Burrows repeatedly noted that Fairbury's per-pupil cost is less than that on the Lincoln campus, but was told by Eicher that vocational education is inherently more expensive.

Burrows objected to the fact that one mill of the current 2.35-mill levy in the 15-county area is designated for building. He said this is mostly for the proposed construction of a $7 million campus in Lincoln.

"If 42 cents of every tax dollar can be taken to build Lincoln facilitites while one school is closed down and another is vacant, that's a rural ripoff for all of southeast Nebraska," said Burrows, whose district includes Beatrice and Fairbury.

Decision Knocked

Although not commiting himself as to how he will vote when the Pershing campus gift comes before the Legislature, Burrows called the SeTech board decision "poor, ill-conceived and made with very little discussion."

Among the Beatrice spokesmen were Mayor Bob Sargent, School Supt. Robert Cothren, Bud Pentz and four representatives of the medical community. The latter emphasized the need for developing health care courses to help the town's two hospitals and three nursing homes, as well as the Beatrice State Home and Martin Luther Home.

Whether a proposed agricultural program at Pershing would duplicate similar courses at Curtis and the University of Nebraska brought considerable discussion. Eicher said there might be some over-lapping with Curtis but the program appears "very, very practical."

It was noted that the SeTech board had approved an agri-business program for Fairbury last year but that it was rejected "by the state fiscal office." Eicher said the board "has never taken the position that we would eliminate transfer courses at Fairbury."

Testimony from the two hearings is expected to be influential in the 1976 Legislature, not only regarding the Pershing-Fairbury matter but on possible legislation relating to community colleges

General Funds Might Pay Fairbury Dormitory Debt

Beatrice — Sen Frank Lewis of Bellevue said here Thursday he will ask the state attorney general to clarify the "indebtedness situation" regarding a Fairbury campus dormitory.

The $543,000 indebtedness has been one of the main issues in the SeTech board's tentative decision to close the campus and move the Fairbury program to Beatrice

Although the SeTech board has maintained it would be illegal to use general funds for retiring the indebtedness, a letter was introduced at Thursday's hearing suggesting that might not be the case.

A copy of the letter, addressed to SeTech board member Gary Carstens of Beatrice was introduced by Lewis. The letter, from area counsel Kent P. Kratz of the U. S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, said it was an "incorrect" assumption that HUD would accept only revenue money produced by the dorm.

SeTech President Robert Eicher said there has been conflicting information from different HUD officials on the matter.

If it proves correct that general funds can be used, presumably this would help the district in paying some $32,000 in annual debt service. With the dorm only 40% occupied, the SeTech board has said it is impossible to raise funds for the annual payment.

Schmit Cites Added Vet School Costs

By The Associated Press

Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit said Thursday he learned that states would be requested to put in $25 million in "inventory" in addition to the $14 million construction costs of a five-state regional veterinary school.

Schmit, chairman of the legislature's Agriculture Committee, has been at odds with Gov. J. James Exon over the cost of the school.

Schmit said he received his information from Warren Wood, federal co-chairman of the Old West Regional Commission, a state-federal cooperative planning organization which includes Nebraska, North and South Dakota, Wyoming and Montana.

Schmit said the $14 million figure was obtained by multiplying the $63 per square foot cost of building the Kansas State University vet school by a building size of 222,000 square feet.

The Bellwood lawmaker said the 222,000 square foot building would be too small. He also said construction costs have gone up since Kansas State started building its vet school.

"Apparently the governor is going to put up a plastic building that he can blow up with hot air," Schmit said.

However, Schmit did say, "I think the five states can support a facility." But he added that the cost would be closer to $40 million than $14 million.

Schmit said Wood did not explain what would be included in the $25 million in inventory. But Schmit said he suspected that Nebraska would be asked to offer its recently completed $8 million veterinary science building for use in connection with the vet school.

The veterinary science building is designed for animal research and is not currently used to educate veterinarians.

Canada Cuts Oil Exports To U.S.

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Canadian crude oil exports to the United States will be slashed by one-third to 510,000 barrels a day on Jan 1 and to 385,000 barrels later in the year, Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said Thursday

Gillespie also announced all oil exports are expected to end in 1981, two years earlier than forecast in a National Energy Board report a year ago

Gillespie said the cutbacks are expected to result in an average export level of 460,000 barrels a day to the United States in 1976 The average for 1975 has been about 700,000 barrels daily

An energy board report to Parliament said the exports would stay at the 510 000 barrel level until a new oil pipeline extension to Montreal is completed The report gave no date, but the pipeline is expected to be put in use by September 1976

Canada s decision to phase out all oil exports to the United States is the product of the energy board s report last year that the nation wouldn t be able to supply its own needs in coming years unless exports were cut drastically

The cutbacks began in January 1975 Until then, Canada was shipping about one million barrels a day of crude oil south of the border

With another million barrels a day in refined products Canada was at that time the biggest supplier of foreign oil to the United States

Canada Cuts Oil Exports To U.S.

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Canadian crude oil exports to the United States will be slashed by one-third to 510,000 barrels a day on Jan. 1 and to 385,000 barrels later in the year, Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie said Thursday.

Gillespie also announced all oil exports are expected to end in 1981, two years earlier than forecast in a National Energy Board report a year ago.

Gillespie said the cutbacks are expected to result in an average export level of 460,000 barrels a day to the United States in 1976. The average for 1975 has been about 700,000 barrels daily.

An energy board report to Parliament said the exports would stay at the 510,000-barrel level until a new oil pipeline extension to Montreal is completed. The report gave no date, but the pipeline is expected to be put in use by September 1976.

Canada's decision to phase out all oil exports to the United States is the product of the energy board's report last year that the nation wouldn't be able to supply its own needs in coming years unless exports were cut drastically.

The cutbacks began in January 1975. Until then, Canada was shipping about one million barrels a day of crude oil south of the border.

With another million barrels a day in refined products, Canada was at that time the biggest supplier of foreign oil to the United States.

Cash, Property Gifts Discussed

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — If you're putting money away for a child — say, for his or her college education — you might as well do it in a way that will save you taxes. Assuming you really mean him to have the money, it makes sense to put it into his name. That way, any interest the money earns is his, and will be taxed to him rather than you.

You can give him up to $3,000 a year without paying gift taxes, and $6,000 if you do it jointly with your spouse.

Since most children don't have any income worth speaking of, the interest his money earns will generally escape tax-free. So will small dividends, rents or capital gains. No taxes are owed unless the child earns more than $2,350, or receives interest and dividends of more than $750.

There are, however, better and worse ways of giving money or other property to a child. Here are some of your choices, according to New York attorney Edward S. Schlesinger:

OUTRIGHT OWNERSHIP — You can simply put the property directly into the child's name without any fuss or expense. But this leads to a lot of problems. If the gift is in the form of a savings account or bonds, the child can take the money whenever he wants — and blow it however he likes. If you try to get around this problem by hiding the bankbooks, the IRS could argue that the gift was never really given.

Outright gifts of stock or real estate present the opposite problem: the laws set up to protect children's property make it hard — even impossible for your daughter or son to sell as long as they're under age. Property you intended them to convert to cash for college tuition might be tied up until they graduate.

(Please Note: A bank account in your name, in trust for a child, is not an outright gift. You still own the property and have to pay both income and death taxes on it.)

JOINT PROPERTY — Putting property in joint names with a child is even worse. You can't sell without his consent, and if he's underage he usually can't give consent without a court order. You still owe taxes on at least part of the income, and if you die the entire property will be taxed in your estate. The only joint property you can liquidate easily is a joint bank account, but that doesn't count as a gift (or save you taxes) unless the child withdraws the money.

UNIFORM GIFTS TO MINORS ACT — This is perhaps the best way to put modest amounts of money into a child's name. You can give cash, stocks, bonds and in some states insurance policies (but usually not real estate) to an adult member of the child's family, acting as his costodian. The custodian manages the property and can spend it on certain things — including college tuition. At some point between age 18 and 21, depending on state law, the property becomes the child's, free and clear.

There's no legal rigamarole in making the gift. Your bank, broker or insurance agent can give you the papers and tell you where to sign. But the person who makes the gift should not name himself custodian. If he does, and he dies, the money will be taxed in his estate, just as if he hadn't given it away.

TRUSTS — If you expect to give away a substantial sum of money, ask a bank trust officer, or a lawyer with experience in estate planning, about trusts. Trusts can be drawn to meet any number of financial goals. A "present interest" trust, for example, is more flexible than the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act with respect to how the money can be invested and spent, and who can be trustee. Furthermore, it can last past age 21.

There are three important things to remember when putting money into a child's name:

(1) Unless protected by a trust, the money must be handed over to the child at age 18 or 21, regardless of whether you think he's fit to manage it.

(2) You can't use income from the gift to support the child. That's your legal obligation. If you use his money, the income is taxed to you. It's unclear whether a college education would be considered a legal obligation. In general, the more luxurious the purchase — like a motorcycle or a trip to Europe — the less likely the IRS will call it "support."

(3) Don't irrevocably give away anything you might need back. Some properties are impossible to reclaim; others can be taken back only by risking absurd tax consequences. Normally, whatever you give to your child is his to keep.

N.Y. Payroll Doubts Push Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — A bit of nervousness over New York City's ability to meet a payroll helped push the stock market into a moderate decline Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 4.73 to 843.51, extending its loss since Monday to 13.15 points.

Standard — Poor's 500-stock index gave up .34 to 89.64, and the New York Stock Exchange composite common-stock index slipped .19 to 47.43.

Losers outweighed gainers 790 to 572 among the 1,822 issues traded on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 16.46 million shares, off slightly from 16.81 million on Wednesday.

New York City, as it turned out, did get the $127 million in paychecks to municipal orkers out on time. But for a short while during the day there was talk that the financially squeezed city would have to delay distribution of at least some of the checks for lack of funds. Analysts noted that the wary atmosphere in the market underscored investors' preoccupation with the New York City situation.

New York State officials and legislators co inued, meanwhile, to debate tax increase proposals they hope will persuade President Ford to relent in his opposition to federal assistance for tte city.

With its atention set on the city's problems, the market showed only a mild negative reaction at the opening to statistics that indicated a pickup in the pace of inflation.

The Labor Department reported that its consumer price index climbed at an 8.4 percent annual rate in October, up from 6.0 per cent the month before.

American Electric Power was the day's most active issue, unchanged at 20⅝. A 299,900-share block traded at that price.

Marine Midland Banks, also active, fell 1 to 12 on the heels of a 4⅝-point drop Wednesday, when the company cut its dividend nd said it expected to show a loss for the fourth quarter.

Other New York City bank stocks were mixed, with Citicorp up ¼ at 28¾ and J.P. Morgan ahead ⅜ to 51½ while Chase Manhattan slipped 1 to 25⅞.

Rohr Industries gave up ⅞ to 5¾. The company said it faced a writeoff which might total about $23 million and thus didn' expect to be able to pay its usual 10 cents-a-share quarterly dividend.

Northrop, on the other hand, climbed 3¼ to 34⅞. The company announced a 50 per cent stock dividend and increased its cash payout.

Sambo's Restaurants was the American Stock Exchange volume leader, down ¼ at 17. A 1.25 million-share offering of the company's stock was made at that price.

State's Stripper Oil Wells Produced 1,378,812 Barrels

Crude oil production from stripper oil wells in the state of Nebraska provided 1,378,812 barrels of quality crude during calendar 1973. This recovery was from a total of 577 stripper wells, those defined as capable of producing an average of 10 barrels or less daily.

These data were reported in a joint study by National Stripper Well Association and Interstate Oil Compact Commission released at the association's annual meeting in Houston.

During the past year operators abandoned 74 stripper wells in Nebraska when they reached their nonprofit level. With the improved economics for stripper operations, due to the fact that this oil can now seek its competitive value in the open market, wells that are classified as marginal are being reworked by operators and generally there is an increase in remedial activity in stripper well areas, the study revealed.

Reserves of oil under stripper wells in Nebraska is estimated to exceed 12 million barrels as of January 1 of this year. Further development of these reserves and the application of the secondary recovery, particularly by waterflooding will provide substantial income through the recovery of this resource to landowners and the state on whose properties the operations are located, according to the study.

Nebraska stripper wells averaged 6.55 barrels daily, leading the nation for this class of well. Of total state oil wells, 52% are strippers operated chiefly by smaller independent producers.

Grain Futures Finish Mixed

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures traded in narrow range on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday and closed mostly on an irregular tone.

Trade was fairly active on the opening bell and prices mixed. A brisk demand lifted wheat and soybeans to 4 cents a bushel while corn advanced 2 and oats 1. Within minutes, however, prices fell in all the major pits under profit-taking. Thereafter, trade bogged down and price movement was very slow with a slight drift lower.

Buying early was influenced by rain and snow which invaded the Middle West, Plains and Southwest. Profit-taking later brought these prices down. Corn futures remained relatively firm because of some concern about so much of the newly harvested grain being exposed to the weather.

Iced broilers closed on an steady to 1 cent a pound higher level, reflecting some strength in red meat futures.

GIVEN 45 FAMILY SEDANS TO CHOOSE FROM, CAR AND DRIVER READERS ARRIVED AT A TOUGH, BUT LOGICAL CONCLUSION.

In Car and Driver Magazine's 12th annual Readers' Choice Poll, our Volvo 242/244 was voted Best Family Sedan of the Year.

The competition was stiff.

In selecting Volvo car buffs passed over sedans of every description, from A to V.

Alfa Romeo, AMC, Audi, Buick, Checker, Chevrolet, Datsun, Dodge, Fiat, Ford, Mercury, Oldsmobile, Peugeot, Plymouth, Pontiac, Saab, Toyota, Volkswagen Dasher.

It's no surprise that these knowledgeable people chose a car as intelligently engineered as Volvo.

A period of economic uncertainty is no time to be driving a loser.

Cash, Property Gifts Discussed

By JANE BRYANT QUINN

Jane Bryant Quinn

New York — If you're putting money away for a child — say, for his or her college education — you might as well do it in a way that will save you taxes. Assuming you really mean him to have the money, it makes sense to put it into his name. That way, any interest the money earns is his, and will be taxed to him rather than you.

You can give him up to $3,000 a year without paying gift taxes, and $6,000 if you do it jointly with your spouse.

Since most children don't have any income worth speaking of, the interest his money earns will generally escape tax-free. So will small dividends, rents or capital gains. No taxes are owed unless the child earns more than $2,350, or receives interest and dividends of more than $750.

There are, however, better and worse ways of giving money or other property to a child. Here are some of your choices, according to New York attorney Edward S. Schlesinger:

OUTRIGHT OWNERSHIP — You can simply put the property directly into the child's name without any fuss or expense. But this leads to a lot of problems. If the gift is in the form of a savings account or bonds, the child can take the money whenever he wants — and blow it however he likes. If you try to get around this problem by hiding the bankbooks, the IRS could argue that the gift was never really given.

Outright gifts of stock or real estate present the opposite problem: the laws set up to protect children's property make it hard — even impossible for your daughter or son to sell as long as they're under age. Property you intended them to convert to cash for college tuition might be tied up until they graduate.

(Please Note: A bank account in your name, in trust for a child, is not an outright gift. You still own the property and have to pay both income and death taxes on it.)

JOINT PROPERTY — Putting property in joint names with a child is even worse. You can't sell without his consent, and if he's underage he usually can't give consent without a court order. You still owe taxes on at least part of the income, and if you die the entire property will be taxed in your estate. The only joint property you can liquidate easily is a joint bank account, but that doesn't count as a gift (or save you taxes) unless the child withdraws the money.

UNIFORM GIFTS TO MINORS ACT — This is perhaps the best way to put modest amounts of money into a child's name. You can give cash, stocks, bonds and in some states insurance policies (but usually not real estate) to an adult member of the child's family, acting as his costodian. The custodian manages the property and can spend it on certain things — including college tuition. At some point between age 18 and 21, depending on state law, the property becomes the child's, free and clear.

There's no legal rigamarole in making the gift. Your bank, broker or insurance agent can give you the papers and tell you where to sign. But the person who makes the gift should not name himself custodian. If he does, and he dies, the money will be taxed in his estate, just as if he hadn't given it away.

TRUSTS — If you expect to give away a substantial sum of money, ask a bank trust officer, or a lawyer with experience in estate planning, about trusts. Trusts can be drawn to meet any number of financial goals. A "present interest" trust, for example, is more flexible than the Uniform Gifts to Minors Act with respect to how the money can be invested and spent, and who can be trustee. Furthermore, it can last past age 21.

There are three important things to remember when putting money into a child's name:

(1) Unless protected by a trust, the money must be handed over to the child at age 18 or 21, regardless of whether you think he's fit to manage it.

(2) You can't use income from the gift to support the child. That's your legal obligation. If you use his money, the income is taxed to you. It's unclear whether a college education would be considered a legal obligation. In general, the more luxurious the purchase — like a motorcycle or a trip to Europe — the less likely the IRS will call it "support."

(3) Don't irrevocably give away anything you might need back. Some properties are impossible to reclaim; others can be taken back only by risking absurd tax consequences. Normally, whatever you give to your child is his to keep.

N.Y. Payroll Doubts Push Stocks Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — A bit of nervousness over New York City's ability to meet a payroll helped push the stock market into a moderate decline Thursday.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 4.73 to 843.51, extending its loss since Monday to 13.15 points.

Standard — Poor's 500-stock index gave up .34 to 89.64, and the New York Stock Exchange composite common-stock index slipped .19 to 47.43.

Losers outweighed gainers 790 to 572 among the 1,822 issues traded on the NYSE.

Big Board volume totaled 16.46 million shares, off slightly from 16.81 million on Wednesday.

New York City, as it turned out, did get the $127 million in paychecks to municipal orkers out on time. But for a short while during the day there was talk that the financially squeezed city would have to delay distribution of at least some of the checks for lack of funds. Analysts noted that the wary atmosphere in the market underscored investors' preoccupation with the New York City situation.

New York State officials and legislators co inued, meanwhile, to debate tax increase proposals they hope will persuade President Ford to relent in his opposition to federal assistance for tte city.

With its atention set on the city's problems, the market showed only a mild negative reaction at the opening to statistics that indicated a pickup in the pace of inflation.

The Labor Department reported that its consumer price index climbed at an 8.4 percent annual rate in October, up from 6.0 per cent the month before.

American Electric Power was the day's most active issue, unchanged at 20⅝. A 299,900-share block traded at that price.

Marine Midland Banks, also active, fell 1 to 12 on the heels of a 4⅝-point drop Wednesday, when the company cut its dividend nd said it expected to show a loss for the fourth quarter.

Other New York City bank stocks were mixed, with Citicorp up ¼ at 28¾ and J.P. Morgan ahead ⅜ to 51½ while Chase Manhattan slipped 1 to 25⅞.

Rohr Industries gave up ⅞ to 5¾. The company said it faced a writeoff which might total about $23 million and thus didn' expect to be able to pay its usual 10 cents-a-share quarterly dividend.

Northrop, on the other hand, climbed 3¼ to 34⅞. The company announced a 50 per cent stock dividend and increased its cash payout.

Sambo's Restaurants was the American Stock Exchange volume leader, down ¼ at 17. A 1.25 million-share offering of the company's stock was made at that price.

State's Stripper Oil Wells Produced 1,378,812 Barrels

Crude oil production from stripper oil wells in the state of Nebraska provided 1,378,812 barrels of quality crude during calendar 1973. This recovery was from a total of 577 stripper wells, those defined as capable of producing an average of 10 barrels or less daily.

These data were reported in a joint study by National Stripper Well Association and Interstate Oil Compact Commission released at the association's annual meeting in Houston.

During the past year operators abandoned 74 stripper wells in Nebraska when they reached their nonprofit level. With the improved economics for stripper operations, due to the fact that this oil can now seek its competitive value in the open market, wells that are classified as marginal are being reworked by operators and generally there is an increase in remedial activity in stripper well areas, the study revealed.

Reserves of oil under stripper wells in Nebraska is estimated to exceed 12 million barrels as of January 1 of this year. Further development of these reserves and the application of the secondary recovery, particularly by waterflooding will provide substantial income through the recovery of this resource to landowners and the state on whose properties the operations are located, according to the study.

Nebraska stripper wells averaged 6.55 barrels daily, leading the nation for this class of well. Of total state oil wells, 52% are strippers operated chiefly by smaller independent producers.

Swiss Lower Trade Deficit

Bern, Switzerland (AP) — Switzerland's trade deficit shrunk by about $1.5 billion, during the first ten months of 1975 as imports declined much more sharply than exports, according to official statistics.

Exports through October totaled $10.3 billion, a decline of 6.7% from the 10-month level last year.

Grain Futures Finish Mixed

Chicago (AP) — Grain futures traded in narrow range on the Chicago Board of Trade Thursday and closed mostly on an irregular tone.

Trade was fairly active on the opening bell and prices mixed. A brisk demand lifted wheat and soybeans to 4 cents a bushel while corn advanced 2 and oats 1. Within minutes, however, prices fell in all the major pits under profit-taking. Thereafter, trade bogged down and price movement was very slow with a slight drift lower.

Buying early was influenced by rain and snow which invaded the Middle West, Plains and Southwest. Profit-taking later brought these prices down. Corn futures remained relatively firm because of some concern about so much of the newly harvested grain being exposed to the weather.

Iced broilers closed on an steady to 1 cent a pound higher level, reflecting some strength in red meat futures.

Winfield To Star

Hollywood (UPI) — Paul Winfield will star in "Green Eyes" for ABC-TV.

GIVEN 45 FAMILY SEDANS TO CHOOSE FROM, CAR AND DRIVER READERS ARRIVED AT A TOUGH, BUT LOGICAL, CONCLUSION.

In Car and Driver Magazine's 12th annual Readers' Choice Poll, our Volvo 242/244 was voted Best Family Sedan of the Year.

The competition was stiff.

In selecting Volvo, car buffs passed over sedans of every description, from A to V.

Alfa Romeo, AMC, Audi, Buick, Checker, Chevrolet, Datsun, Dodge, Fiat, Ford, Mercury, Oldsmobile, Peugeot, Plymouth, Pontiac, Saab, Toyota, Volkswagen Dasher.

It's no surprise that these knowledgeable people chose a car as intelligently engineered as Volvo.

Highway Hearing Discussion Sharp

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Brownville — A stormy U.S. 136 highway hearing had Brownville's town hall reverberating like old time vaudeville Thursday night as townspeople continued to dsiagree on a two-mile highway routing across the historic village.

Actually the dispute was between residents and so-called "weekenders," mostly out of town supporters of the Brownville Historical Society and Brownville Village Theater, Inc.

A petition was introduced by John Ballue, village board chairman, indicating that 83 of the town's 99 eligible voters favor a southern diagonal routing (alternate 3) across the town.

But there was also a strong contingent among the 117 persons filling the hall who urged consideration of a fourth proposal basically curving south around the town. Two other alternatives basically utilizing main street, as at present, elicited no support.

Highway Department engineers said the fourth route had been given a "cursory look" but was considered unfeasible because of a sweeping curve it would make near the Missouri River. They claimed further study of the alternate would bring more delay, but declined to estimate how much.

Ballue said the corridor had already been studied six or seven years and "it now looks like it will be hashed over for another six or seven." Department spokesmen predicted the start of construction in about five years barring a restudy.

Much of the debate, so lively that some speakers were interrupted with shouted questions, pitted visiting city dwellers against the villagers. It also contrasted cultural interests against the practicality of daily living.

"Ninety percent of the people of Brownville want route 3," said Lester Furnas, whose family had included Nebraska's first governor. The historical society and fine arts people are all right, but its the people here who should be running Brownville."

Milton Evans, vice president of Nebraska Wesleyan University which operates the Village Theatre threatened by the proposed routing, countered that "Brownville has a precious heritage which is at stake." He also quoted from a letter by NWU President Vance Rogers that "there must be a better way to accomplish the purposes you invision without destroying a quaint little village."

Another Brownville resident, Mrs. Betty Douglas, replied, "To heck with the hills and ditches, the flowers and trees are not the survival of Brownville."

"These outside people come in thinking we're countrified and don't know whatwe're doing," she continued. "The only way to keep Brownville intact is with alternate 3."

A former Village Theatre student actor who is now a Lincoln law student, Bob Bartle, made an impassioned plea for the fourth alternative.

"All I'm asking is for the highway department to come up with a route that will satisfy both sides," he said. "You're threatening a theatre that's brought (to the town) 60,000 people in nine years in and business for your city as well."

Don Gappa, a Brownville resident who works in Superior accused highway department personnel of vagueness and "being the bad guys dividing the town.

"You people can do a hell of a lot better than that," he said of the alternatives presented. "You're smart people, but you're just trying to railroad through the route that you want."

Mrs. Jane Smith of Brownville said the proposed route would "change our environment and our appeal to tourists." She also questioned whether a study of the fourth alternate would force a serious delay.

State Employes Group Seeking Overtime Claim

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Association of Public Employes Thursday filed a $53,000 claim seeking overtime pay it says the state owes.

The claim, filed with the state Claims Board, asserts that the state owes 16 state fire marshall's office employes five years' worth of overtime pay

Association Director Roger Schulz of Lincoln said the challenge was was aimed at obtaining a clearer definition of overtime statutues.

Earlier this year, the association said claims for unpaid overtime could exceed $8 million, a figure disputed by state officials.

The association filed two separate claims last spring on behalf of two state fire marshall's office employes.

An attorney general's opinion issued in April said employes with overtime pay due to them must be paid.

Gasohol Promoters Looking For Funds

The Agricultural Products Industrial Utilization Committee is going to make a second attempt to locate funds to build a grain alcohol plant in Nebraska, according to a letter sent to prospective sources of funds by Charles R. Fricke, administrator of the state gasohol program.

The committee held a meeting on Nov. 7 to explore possible sources of funds to get an alcohol plant built in the state.

Fricke's letter indicated that three things were established as a result of the first meeting.

"One was that there is a market for gasohol that is quite strong, and almost instantaneous now. Second, that the development for the protein isolates is progressing well and is encouraging. A market for these isolates must be developed. Third. additional incentives through legislation or by other means are needed to developed a guaranteed market for the overall production," Fricke said.

The protein isolate is a high protein material that can be extracted from brewers' dried grains left over after the alcohol is distilled from the grain. Scientists at the University of Nebraska have been able to separate the protein and concentrate it. Hopefully it will find a market in various human foods.

"A second meeting will be held Dec. 11 at 9 a.m. in the Department of Economic Development. The funding situation will be the major topic of the meeting," the letter said.

The committee will also present data from marketing surveys in the Holdrege area where its primary product gasohol, a mixture of 90% no-lead gasoline and 10% ethanol, was tested this summer.

Law Enforcement Consolidation Proposal Is Opposed At Hearing

Beatrice (AP) — Ten witnesses who appeared before a legislative group in Beatrice Wednesday were unanimously opposed to mandatory consolidation of law enforcement agencies in counties.

The Judiciary Committee is conducting an interim study of law enforcement consolidation.

Six witnesses appeared from Sarpy County and the others were from other southeastern Nebraska Counties.

Jack Evans, attorney for the committee, said the purpose of the proposal under study would not be to consolidate sheriffs' offices with police departments of towns with larger populations.

He said the proposal does not mention the population or amount of services to be provided by sheriffs. He said its intent is to provide 24-hour police protection to smaller communities.

Under present law, villages of up to 800 population pay counties up to 74 cents per resident for law enforcement purposes. Witnesses said the 75-cent figure does not pay costs of the services.

Workers Sign 3-Year Contract At Gooch Mills

The American Federation of Grain Millers, Local 31, and Gooch Mills of Lincoln signed a three-year contract Thursday, ending a month of picketing.

The strike began Oct. 20 when Gooch Feed Mill Corp. and Gooch Milling and Elevator offered a two-year closed agreement while the union held out for a three-year agreement.

The new contract also gave employes an improved vacation plan, improved retirement benefits and their birthdays as an additional holiday.

"We got a real good package deal," Elmer Whitesell, union secretary-treasurer, said.

Under the new contract, Whitesell said, employes with 25 years seniority are allowed five weeks of vacation. Previously, all employes were limited to four weeks vacation.

The contract also allows employes to "bank" up to two weeks vacation a year between age 60 and 65, he said. Whitesell said employes may use the accumulated vacation to retire early or cash it in at retirement.

Marriage Age Change Eyed

A judiciary subcommittee decided Thursday to ask the Legislature to set the minimum age for marriage at 17 for men and women who have parental consent.

Under current law, the male must be 18 and the female 16 and have parental consent prior to marriage.

Under the proposal, men and women could be married at age 19 without parental consent.

State Employes Group Seeking Overtime Claim

By The Associated Press

The Nebraska Association of Public Employes Thursday filed a $53,000 claim seeking overtime pay it says the state owes.

The claim, filed with the state Claims Board, asserts that the state owes 16 state fire marshall's office employes five years' worth of overtime pay.

Association Director Roger Schulz of Lincoln said the challenge was was aimed at obtaining a clearer definition of overtime statutues.

Earlier this year, the association said claims for unpaid overtime could exceed $8 million, a figure disputed by state officials.

The association filed two separate claims last spring on behalf of two state fire marshall's office employes.

An attorney general's opinion issued in April said employes with overtime pay due to them must be paid.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Friday

That cat named Capricorn, actually born under Aquarius, has not yet lived up to my forecast of "stardom." She simply will not ride in an automobile without screeching and clawing inside her carrier. Perhaps if permitted to ride in the open, minus confinement, she would be calm. I cannot tell. This Siamese, this Uranus-dominated feline, is a puzzler, at times cute, intelligent and mature — at other times a terror. How can I get her settled down so she can go to work doing commercials? I am stymied.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): What was a "quiet atmosphere," could be disrupted. You will find that family members, older persons all seem to know what is best for you — and all may be speaking simultaneously. Leo, Aquarius individuals figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take special care in traffic. You could be expending too much energy, trying to be here, there and everywhere. Relative is in mood to argue. Don't compound error. Remember you have to face others — and yourself — in morning. An idea could be sparked into viable concept.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight ability to be flexible. You get news from people at a distance. You get money for efforts, where in recent past you were getting pats on the back. Insist on being treated as a mature person, one who is capable and worthy of compensation. You'll understand!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You get "action" regarding favorite projects. Your personality sparkles, arouses envy and may result in your being called in for consultation with superior. Avoid taking unnecessary chances around machinery, electricity. Be more cautious than daring. You are due for an honor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What was feared could now be welcomed. You are going to emerge from cocoon. Means you look about, test, experiment and realize that "secret fears" were groundless. Gemini, Virgo could figure prominently. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Friends surface, kicking, screaming, and letting you know that they know what's best for you. Retreat with dignity! Make adjustments in domestic area. If diplomatic, you could score victory over odds that are awesome.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent on achievement, legal go-ahead, compromise with partner or mate. Be positive of terms. Take nothing for granted. Some people seem to feel you will stand for anything. Disabuse them of this notion. Maintain balance, dignity and sense of value.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Ability to communicate is stressed. You get organized by being "in touch" with various factions, viewpoints. Older, serious individual is willing to lend benefit of experience. Accept without diminishing your own style, principles.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Let go of what has been blocking progress. Realize you have life of your own to live. Carrying another's burden is not constructive. Accent on money as it affects partner, mate. Personal involvement tests your ability to be grown up where emotions are concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You may feel rebellious in connection with possible legal restrictions. Key is to collect data, to wait and observe, to gain allies through dynamic presentation of case. Avoid basing actions on impulse. Give logic "equal time."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Relative who complains of work and health, may be crying out for understanding, sympathy and love. Know it, time your moves, be supportive without becoming inextricably involved. Another Aquarian figures prominently.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Creative activities intensify — member of opposite sex plays key role. Accent on change, variety, travel, communication, individual style — and the reaching of understanding with young person. Gemini, Sagittarius could be in picture.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have comedic sense, love to travel, have artistic ability, a possible weight problem and a fascination for Gemini, Sagittarius persons. August could have been your most important month this year. You will be more independent in 1976, will make new starts in new directions — and July will be outstanding.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast for Friday

That cat named Capricorn, actually born under Aquarius, has not yet lived up to my forecast of "stardom." She simply will not ride in an automobile without screeching and clawing inside her carrier. Perhaps if permitted to ride in the open, minus confinement, she would be calm. I cannot tell. This Siamese, this Uranus-dominated feline, is a puzzler, at times cute, intelligent and mature — at other times a terror. How can I get her settled down so she can go to work doing commercials? I am stymied.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): What was a "quiet atmosphere," could be disrupted. You will find that family members, older persons all seem to know what is best for you — and all may be speaking simultaneously. Leo, Aquarius individuals figure prominently.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Take special care in traffic. You could be expending too much energy, trying to be here, there and everywhere. Relative is in mood to argue. Don't compound error. Remember you have to face others — and yourself — in morning. An idea could be sparked into viable concept.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Highlight ability to be flexible. You get news from people at a distance. You get money for efforts, where in recent past you were getting pats on the back. Insist on being treated as a mature person, one who is capable and worthy of compensation. You'll understand!

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You get "action" regarding favorite projects. Your personality sparkles, arouses envy and may result in your being called in for consultation with superior. Avoid taking unnecessary chances around machinery, electricity. Be more cautious than daring. You are due for an honor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): What was feared could now be welcomed. You are going to emerge from cocoon. Means you look about, test, experiment and realize that "secret fears" were groundless. Gemini, Virgo could figure prominently. Give full play to intellectual curiosity. Ask questions!
